India Is Tired.
No Tariff Yet.
Who Elected Hoover?
60 Million, Plus Work.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

BOMBAY predicts an early end to the fight between Gandhi, sincere, courageous, shrivelled up little Hindu, locked in a British prison, and the power of the British Empire.

Compromises and concessions, that the wise British understand thoroughly, are expected to end India's latest struggle for home rule and absolute self government.

Thus far in history no country has won freedom unless it was willing to fight for it. Individually the Hindus are brave. Collectively they are not combative.

EARLY yesterday you read that the tariff was practically settled. Everybody happy, except, perhaps, 100,000,000 Americans who buy the goods.

Later you learned that nothing was settled, the tariff had gone back "to conference." Senator Smoot, who thinks the tariff is all right, says it does more for the farmers than for industry, four times as much, in fact. And the government will get $110,806,897 more revenue through the tariff.

That will be cold comfort for business men and workers if the country should lose five hundred or a thousand millions in exports.

MR. DEETS PICKETT, of the Methodist Board of Temperance, says:

"The inefficiency of the Republican workers in the Hoover campaign was startling. The fight was won, not by the Republican party, but by the churches, the W. C. T. U., the Anti-Saloon League, and other temperance organizations."

The administration appears to agree with Mr. Pickett, but Mr. Pickett is partly mistaken. Mr. Hoover got the temperance vote. He also got another gigantic vote, that had nothing to do with prohibition, and that piled up for him a vote greater by five millions than any ever cast before in the United States.

NOT INCLUDING real estate, the late Rodman Wanamaker left $60,000,000, according to his executors.

More interesting than the size of his fortune is the fact that he worked hard, almost to the day of his death, at his own business, and at promotion of aviation in which he was a pioneer, and other work important to the public.

It is what a man DOES not what he HAS that counts.

RODMAN WANAMAKER like his father knew the importance of setting an example.

This writer has seen John Wanamaker, past 70 years of age, in the heat of the summer, working in his New York store because, he said:

"The only way I can get Mr. Ogden, my manager, to take a vacation is by putting him out and taking his desk."

ENCOURAGING news from London says "business girls" are fighting long skirts. The short skirt represents common sense, comfort, health, and does not drag in germs.

Rich women should set an example by refusing to wear dragging dust-collecting skirts, or to be dominated by the whims of dressmakers.

ABOUT the Navy pact, called unfair to the United States by an overwhelming majority of the men highest in our Navy, senators feel that it is "better to accept a treaty about which they are not enthusiastic than give up the idea of limiting naval expenses."

The idea need not be given up. Let the United States retain its freedom, do as it pleases, build what it pleases, and European nations whose pocketbooks ARE LIMITED will cut down of their own accord.

CYRUS H. K. CURTIS, on the alert for interesting things, tells you that in Chicago yesterday Jacques Gordon, famous violinist, carrying a $40,000 Stradivarius, once owned by Paganini, dressed himself in threadbare clothes and played on the sidewalks of Michigan avenue, with a little cigar box to collect coins. He got a few one, five and ten-cent pieces, very few, for a concert for which he would ordinarily be paid $1,000.

SOMEONE concludes that the experiment proves great reputations to be "all ballyhoo."

It proves only that reputations are real, but hearers are ignorant.

In London, a man in a crowded street offered genuine gold sovereigns, worth $5 for sixpence each. He didn't sell any. The sovereigns were good. The crowd was skeptical.

DWIGHT W. MORROW is expected to tell the voters of New Jersey tomorrow that he is not a candidate for President in 1932, and he doesn't want antagonism between himself and President Hoover.

The presidential suggestion came from Mr. McBride, of the Anti-Saloon League, who probably would not grieve at friction between the President, dry, and Dwight Morrow, officially wet.

Mr. Morrow, in business a long time, has learned to do one thing at a time. He isn't thinking about one job while working to get another.

JONES BEATS TOLLEY IN 19 HOLES

American Eliminates British Champion; Voigt, Von Elm, Johnston, Ouimet Also Win

By F. A. WRAY.
International News Service.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotalnd, May 28.—With the acclaim of an enormous gallery ringing in his ears, Bobby Jones drove Cyril Tolley out of his own championship today by winning a great nineteenth-hole victory over the British champion in the fourth round of the British amateur tournament.

Jones thus advanced to the fifth round of the classic to take his place with George Voigt, another ranking American, who defeated Maj. G. N. Martin, 3 and 1; George Von Elm, former United States champion, who eliminated the Italian, Ricardo, 5 and 3; Harrison (Jimmy) Johnston, American champion, who put out Reginald Straker, 3 and 2, and Francis Ouimet, member of the United States Walker Cup team.

MACKENZIE, BROWER LOSE

Roland MacKenzie, another United States Walker Cup player, went out of the tournament in the fourth round at the hands of the English player, Grieg, 4 up and 3 to play.

J. E. Brower, youthful American entrant, passed out of the picture in the fourth round also.

Walsh Deserts Drys to Urge Referendum

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Senator Thomas J. Walsh (Dem.), Montana, a dry, said today he would be willing to submit to the people of Montana a referendum on prohibition and he would "stand by the result."

His declaration was identical with that expressed yesterday by Senator Wesley L. Jones (Rep.), Washington, also dry.

The Montana senator, who is up for re-election this year, said he would be "perfectly willing" to submit to the people of Montana a prohibition referendum, and added:

"Of course, I would stand by the vote in that referendum."

REPEAL BILLS PENDING

Senator Walsh said he would amplify his views later, but declined to make a formal statement now. Montana is one of the states where the opponents of prohibition have been most active.

Various proposals for prohibition referenda and for repeal of the prohibition amendment have been presented from time to time in both Senate and House, but they either were smothered in committee or overwhelmingly defeated.

A number are pending now. Whether the position taken by Senators Jones and Walsh will stimulate efforts for their passage remained undisclosed today.

JONES PERTURBED

Deeply perturbed over the furore which his announcement created, Senator Jones, who is author of the famous "five-and-ten" law, declared in the Senate this afternoon that he still is a prohibitionist at heart, and that he never would personally vote for repeal or modification.

Jones accused his opponents of having misinterpreted his speech in the Senate yesterday and asserted vehemently that he never would change his views. But he reiterated that if the people of his state wanted a referendum on prohibition he would vote for such a poll in the Senate.

The radical drys who, for 10 years persistently have opposed

NAVAL PACT SCORED BY ROBISON

Admiral Declares It Makes Parity With British Fleet Virtually Out of Question

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Only by building the type of warship Great Britain desires—the 6-inch gun cruiser—can America attain parity with that country under the London naval treaty, Rear Admiral S. S. Robison, superintendent of the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today.

Condemning the pact as unfair to the United States, he declared the 6-inch cruiser not the type this nation needs and that it is an unwise move for the American delegates to sacrifice three of the 21 eight-inch-gun cruisers demanded as a treaty minimum by the Navy General Board.

HAVE GREATER ACCURACY

The larger caliber arms, he than those of the 6-inch gun cruiser and their penetration is about twice that of the smaller shell. He declared:

"The 8-inch-gun projectile will penetrate just about half this much armament. The accuracy of the 8-inch gun, as compared with the 6-inch arm, is as 7 to 4.

AGREES WITH JOHNSON

Robison agreed with Senator Johnson, (Rep.), of California, that the treaty's so-called esca-

Senate Has Absolute Right to All Naval Treaty Documents

The Senate is the TREATY-MAKING POWER of the United States.

The President merely has the power to NEGOTIATE a treaty.

He has absolutely no power to CONCLUDE a treaty.

The United States Senate ALONE has the constitutional right to ACCEPT or REJECT any treaty—in brief, TO MAKE THE TREATY.

It can only do this properly and patriotically with full knowledge of all the facts and of all the preliminary correspondence and all the detail of the negotiations which have preceded the submission of the treaty to the Senate for its decision.

It is not surprising, therefore, that the United States Senate should DEMAND an opportunity to examine all the diplomatic correspondence leading up to, and during, the London naval conference.

Its patriotic duty and constitutional right are to act upon that treaty impartially and absolutely INDEPENDENTLY, and in the light of all the facts which bear upon that treaty.

If the administration were loyal to the public, and submissive to the constitution which is the supreme law of the land, it would have transmitted all the pertinent diplomatic correspondence to the Senate at the same time that it submitted the treaty.

Not to do so is to attempt to substitute executive tyranny for constitutional right.

The fact that the administration may be afraid to have the light of truth turned upon the treaty by the Senate has no legal bearing upon the situation.

The effort to stampede the Senate into ratifying the treaty before the end of the regular session, the threat of an extra session to be called immediately after the adjournment of the regular session, are not indications of power on the part of the President, but of weakness—weakness of legal right to affect the constitutional acts of the Senate, and weakness of personal character.

Weak men in high position are usually tyrannical, and characteristically try to substitute their will for the law of the land.

Owing to this unconstitutional and tyrannical attitude on the part of the President, the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations has been compelled to conduct its hearings upon the treaty, and to examine the witnesses called, without the assistance which would have been afforded by the careful examination of the diplomatic correspondence connected with the treaty.

The orderly procedure would have been for an examination of this correspondence to have PRECEDED the examination of the witnesses.

Instead of that the committee has been forced to base its demands for the correspondence upon the testimony of the witnesses called.

The burden of this testimony is to the effect that the London naval treaty is unjust to the United States in that—

1. It surrenders the established naval policy of the United States;
2. Fails to give the American navy parity with the British navy;
3. Abandons the 5-3 ratio with Japan;
4. Sacrifices the congressional building program approved by President Coolidge upon the recommendation of our highest naval authorities;
5. Substitutes a cruiser program for the American navy dictated by the British government as the price of its consent to any limitation upon auxiliary ships.

In short, the established naval policy of the United States, which President Coolidge like the unconditional American he is, refused to surrender at Geneva, is surrendered without a struggle in the London naval treaty which his successor in the White House negotiated, and is now trying unconstitutionally to rush to ratification.

Not only is the Committee on Foreign Relations warranted in calling for all the diplomatic correspondence that will throw any light upon this indefensible surrender, but the "great committee of the Senate" would have been sadly indifferent to its rights and gravely derelict in its duty, had it failed to call for all the papers in the case as a condition precedent to reporting the treaty to the Senate.

AIRSHIP DUE AT N. Y. ON SUNDAY

Zep Starts for Havana After Cloudburst Delays Departure Three Hours

By AROXELLAS GALVAO
International News Service.

PERNAMBUCO, May 28.—Held prisoner for three hours by a tropical cloudburst, the giant dirigible Graf Zeppelin got off on its long flight to the United States by way of Havana, Cuba, today at 11:15 a. m. (10:15 Pittsburgh time).

The hopoff originally had been scheduled for 8 a. m. local time, but the Graf was unable to get away from its mooring mast on the Jequna air field because of driving rain.

UNABLE TO LIFT LOAD

The rain had so weighed the Graf that it could not lift its huge bulk from the mooring mast.

The skies cleared, however, about 10 o'clock, and the passengers took their places in the cabin gondola for the second time. Little difficulty was experienced in starting the air monarch on its 4,500-mile flight to Havana on the second attempt.

The Graf expected to reach Havana Friday night or Saturday morning.

It is expected to fly over New York late Sunday and proceed from there to Lakehurst, N. J.

Dr. Eckener will pilot the Graf over territory which has never been crossed by an airship, and over which only a few airplanes have flown. A short while before the takeoff, he obtained a complete weather report from the United States Navy authorities at Washington. Indications were that good weather lay before the Graf, but Dr. Eckener took all precautions to be prepared for sudden tropical storms on the long journey.

Thousands of persons, drenched to the skin by the rain, gave the Graf and its passengers a rousing cheer as it cast away from the mooring mast.

The duration of the flight to Havana is problematical, but is expected to take between 55 and 60 hours. If weather conditions and time permit, a stop will be made in the Cuban capital before the Graf continues on to Lakehurst, N. J., North American terminus of the inter-continental flight.

BLUE LAW POLL IN TOWNSHIPS

The rural population of Allegheny County is reached in the Blue Law poll by the Sun-Telegraph as the distribution of ballots in townships is started today, following the initiation of the canvass in the boroughs.

The poll of Pittsburgh, now extended throughout the county, has been considerably advanced as the canvass begins in the suburban and rural sections beyond the city limits, more than 100,000 ballots having been mailed to registered voters of the 32 wards of the city. The latest tabulation of returns shows a total of 27,250 votes cast in the city, divided as follows:

For the Blue Laws	3,716
For modification	1,952
For repeal	21,582

The latest figures leave unchanged the proportions of 79 per cent for repeal, 14 per cent for the Blue Laws and 7 per cent for modification.

SEEK ATTACKER OF GIRL

County detectives and state police are seeking the assailant of Myrtle Haberstroh, 17, of Murrysville, Pa., who is in Columbia Hospital with a possible skull fracture and bruises, suffered when she leaped from an automobile early today as an attempt was made to attack her.

Miss Haberstroh, a sophomore at Newlinsburg High School, who was employed nights as ticket taker at the Burke Glen Amusement Company Park, on the William Penn highway, was found semi-conscious at 1 a. m. beside the highway near the Westmoreland County line. Her clothing was badly torn.

She regained consciousness this morning and said she leaped from the machine when a man with whom she had accepted a ride molested her. She gave the detectives the name of the man.

Monticello Visited By Lafayette Kin

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., May 28.—(AP.)—Monticello, home of Thomas Jefferson, and other historic places in this section seen by Lafayette 106 years ago, were visited today by descendants of the famous Frenchman.

The party included the Marquis Jacques de Dampierre, great grandson of Lafayette's sister; his son, Comte Henri de Dampierre, and Jefferson Memorial Foundation officials.

Later the party visited Ashlawn, formerly home of President James Monroe, who invited Lafayette to tour America.

'RADIO' DOCTOR ARRESTED

Dr. J. E. Johnston, 65, of 501 Liberty building, Penn and Sheridan avenues, alleged to have treated patients by "radio," was arrested by county detectives late today, charged with obtaining money under false pretense.

When county detectives, led by David Drexler, entered Johnston's office they found two "patients" waiting to be treated, they reported.

The office, the detectives charged, was filled up with make-believe radio apparatus by which Johnston claimed to be able to diagnose ailments of persons not present and also to effect cures.

'Hal' Carlson Dies; Was Buc Star

CHICAGO, May 28.—(INS.)—Harold (Hal) Carlson, star pitcher of the Chicago Cubs, died suddenly today in his hotel room following several internal hemorrhages.

Carlson was awakened about 2:30 a. m. by severe pains. While the club physician was preparing to take him to the hospital Carlson died.

Carlson was 36. He is survived by his widow and a 4-year-old daughter, Betty Elaine.

Carlson was to have pitched today against the Cincinnati Reds.

Chicago National League officials announced that today's game with Cincinnati will be played as scheduled, but Thursday's game will be canceled as a mark of respect to Carlson.

He first played professional baseball at Rockford, Ill., with the Pirates until May, 1923, when he went to Wichita Falls. In September, 1923, he was drafted by the Cubs and has been on the club rolls since.

(See Sports Section for story of Carlson's career.)

Pirate-Card Game Called Off Today

The last game of the Pirate-Cardinal series scheduled for today was called off shortly after noon on account of wet grounds. POPULATION UP TO 644,795

Pittsburgh's 1930 population is recorded at 644,795 in the Washington Census Bureau office, according to an Associated Press report.

It is believed here that final returns will increase the figures.

This is a decrease of about 19,000 from the figures compiled locally from reports turned in by the three district census supervisors here, which showed Pittsburgh's population to be 663,101, with some additions still to be made. The city probably will stand tenth in the country.

The figures carried it Washington credit Pittsburgh with an increase of 8.75 per cent, showing a larger rate of increase than Baltimore with 7.6 per cent.

San Francisco is right on the heels of Pittsburgh with 625,974, a gain of 22.5 per cent. Last census Los Angeles was right behind Pittsburgh, but has made no report yet.

Totals from Pittsburgh were calculated in Washington by adding the reports from the three district supervisors. The local supervisors have not yet met to make a complete total of Pittsburgh and are constantly adding to their reports to Washington.

POLICE FIND $1,300,000 IN STOLEN GEMS, SEEK MORE

WORLD-WIDE GEM RING TRAPPED

Loot Hidden in Bank Vaults, Money Goes Out Window; Pittsburgher Heavy Loser

International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 28. — Further arrests and possibly recovery of additional jewelry were awaited today as New York police continued their investigation of a reported international gem theft ring, which has already yielded more than $1,300,000 in recovered stolen jewels.

Reclaiming 1,000,000 worth of gems last night followed the arrest of four men and a woman here Monday, when $300,000 in gems were grabbed by detectives as the quintet quarreled over their spoils around a bed in a hotel room. Arrest of Robert C. Nelson, 52, followed the raid Monday night, led to the recovery of the second batch of gems, which were found in safe deposit boxes in Nelson's name, according to police.

HUNT MISSING MONEY

While Nelson was questioned further today in the hope he would involve others or disclose additional hiding places of stolen jewels, detectives and scores of citizens searched for $500 and $1,000 bills, part of the $25,000 in bills said to have been thrown out of a hotel window when the first arrests were made. Police claimed about $20,000 was recovered immediately, and yesterday $3,500 more was found.

Nelson told police he was a broker; his wife said he was a jewelry salesman and sold gems at race tracks.

Nelson was held in $25,000 bail today for hearing next Wednesday. The specific charge against him was criminally receiving $38,000 worth of gems from Louis J. Dawson, of Hollywood, Fla.

Nelson's only explanation of his having the jewelry was that he always conducted his business "loosely" and that he had never demanded bills of sale from race track losers who wanted to realize cash on gems. Some of the stones, he acknowledged, might have been stolen, but if they were he said he had no knowledge of the fact when he bought them.

PITTSBURGHER BIG LOSER

It was believed that a large part of the recovered gems had been stolen from the Florida hotel apartments of David J. Bonwit, of Pittsburgh, and Louis W. Herman, of New York. John L. Carson, Jr., of Buffalo, also announced today that he could tentatively identify some of the jewels as part of $270,000 worth stolen from his guests at a party last November.

Many big gem thefts throughout the country will be linked with the arrested persons here, detectives claimed.

"I beg your pardon, sir. I didn't come in to criticise the treaty. I came in to tell what I know."

Reed added:

"It sounded like criticism to me."

Reed criticised the admiral for his assertion that America had abandoned the 5-5-3 ratio of naval arms with Great Britain and Japan under the treaty, but Robison insisted this was done, however, and that the treaty is unfair to America.

CUT THAT ROPE! -:- By Quin Hall

JONES DEFEATS TOLLEY

losing to Roger Wethered, 5 up and 3 to play.

The great Atlantan never made a more gallant fight than he did against the deceptively genial Britisher, whose serenity cloaks a great fighting heart. Bobby had taken the lead at the thirteenth with a birdie 3, after being all square at the turn, and he set out for the fourteenth, grimly determined to hold fast to his slender advantage. Instead, it was wiped out immediately and, from that point, it was a "dog-eat-dog" fight until Jones holed the winning putt on the nineteenth green.

12,000 IN GALLERY

The Jones-Tolley match, followed by a gallery estimated at 12,000, was deemed to be the turning point of the tournament and it fully lived up to its dramatic possibilities by furnishing an epic of desperate play. Some holes were halved, but many were won and lost successively, as the tide flowed first with the American and then with the defender of British prestige on the links.

Thrice during the round, Jones was favored by the gods when misdirected shots hit spectators and rebounded into advantageous positions. This happened for the last time at the gripping seventeenth, where the slightest mistake meant disaster.

Tolley was fighting hard for the lead at the time, a lead he had relinquished at the eleventh, never to be fully regained. He managed to square matters at the twelfth, but went 1 down again to Bobby's birdie at the thirteenth.

TOLLEY STYMIED

Then the Briton hit an amazing drive at the fourteenth, nearly reaching the "hell bunker," some 350 yards away, after which he pitched two feet from the pin for a marvelous eagle. Jones went into the lead with a great pitch for a birdie at the fifteenth, upon which Tolley squared it with a par 4 at the sixteenth, Jones finding a trap.

They halved the next two, but at the nineteenth Bobby pitched his second home, while Tolley pulled his approach and was 20 feet short of the pin with his third. Jones, putting from 25 feet, overran the hole and laid Tolley a wickey stymie. He attempted to negotiate it but failed, and a great match was over.

The gallery gave Jones a remarkable ovation as the winning putt went down, almost mobbing him in its efforts to tender congratulations. The demonstration gave vivid testimony of the American eagle's popularity at the headquarters of the world's golf. The cards:

WALSH URGES REFERENDUM

every referendum, straw vote and popular poll on the prohibition issue, also are deeply disturbed over Senator Jones' about-face.

Jones has been a consistent prohibitionist throughout his career in Congress, some 31 years. He has voted for every piece of dry legislation.

GREAT SURPRISE TO ALL

Had Senator Grundy, (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, suddenly gone free trade, it would have caused no more surprise than Jones' statement.

Political necessity is held the reason for Jones' action. The Republican state convention in Washington last week adopted an anti-dry plank in its platform and also denounced prohibition as an unsuccessful experiment. On top of that stunning blow to the veteran senator, two of his enforcement appointees in Seattle have been indicted for bribery and graft.

ENFORCEMENT DRIVE

Meanwhile, as the capital buzzed over the Jones episode, Attorney General Mitchell is proceeding with plans for holding at Washington, in June, a grand council of war to map out plans for his effort at the job of enforcing the Volstead act. This becomes Mitchell's job after July 1, President Hoover having just signed the bill for transfer of responsibility from the Treasury to the Department of Justice.

Mitchell is scanning a long list of names, to find a new director-general for his army of agents.

It also became known today that the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission is opposed to present passage of the Andrew bill, for it to study prohibition with a view to recommending any changes in the laws found necessary.

Chairman Wickersham notified the House Judiciary Committee and the bill was tabled today despite arguments for it by Representative Andrew (Rep.), Massachusetts.

Dry Scandal Causes Big Stir in Seattle

SEATTLE, Wash., May 28.—(INS.)—Excitement ran high here today following suspension of three prominent prohibition officials. All were indicted by a Federal jury on conspiracy charges.

Those suspended are Roy Lyle, prohibition administrator for Washington, Oregon and Alaska; William M. Whitney, his assistant, and Earl Corwin, chief field agent.

Meanwhile, a nation-wide search was started for Clifford T. McKinney, former assistant United States district attorney, who was indicted on the charge of conspiracy to receive and accept bribes, also to violate prohibition, tariff and revenue laws.

Memphis U. S. Judge To Be Investigated

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(INS.)—The House Judiciary Committee today approved a resolution by Representative La Guardia (Rep.), New York, to investigate the conduct of Federal Judge Harry B. Anderson, of Memphis, Tenn.

Complaints include allegations that the judge required bankruptcy receivers to deposit funds in a bank which made loans to his relatives.

TEST IN COURT PAY RAISES

The County Commissioners will test the right of the judges of Allegheny County courts to raise salaries of court employes without authorization of the Commissioners.

The board today refused a request of Presiding Judge R. A. Kennedy, of the County Court, for pay raises for probation officers and others ranging from $5 to $75 a month and totaling $3,276 a year, effective June 1.

C. C. McGovern made a motion seconded by J. G. Armstrong that a test case be made if the County Court made an order to pay the increases.

RECOUNT BOARD GIVEN SEIZED BALLOTS

16 Boxes Taken From Police Station as Judge Orders Speed in Fraud Charges

Sixteen of the disputed "Strip" ballot boxes which presumably were under lock and key in a cell of the Penn Avenue Police Station since election day today were removed to the Courthouse by court order.

Fourteen of them—all from the Sixth Ward—were turned over to the recount board, which will recount them to determine whether Pat O'Malley, defeated congressional candidate, was correct in charging fraud. O'Malley was beaten on face of unofficial returns by Congressman P. J. Sullivan but has not conceded defeat.

The other two boxes—from the Sixth and Twelfth districts—were taken for the return board because no returns had been made on the state committee fight.

Other impounded boxes remain to be brought in, including nine from the Fourth Ward, stronghold of State Senator Coyne, who backed O'Malley. In this ward, Congressman Sullivan counters with a fraud charge.

The recount and return boards continued to function today, with Judge James R. Macfarlane urging the special recount board appointed by him to accomplish its work speedily. This board consists of Attorney Leander Troutman, Walter S. Straub and Howard W. Bennett.

TARIFF RULING IRKS HOOVER

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(INS.)—The harassed Republican Senate leaders were hoping today to extricate the floundering tariff bill from its latest parliamentary pitfall and hurdle it across four more technical obstacles to enactment.

The bill, debated for the last 18 months was back in conference with House and Senate conferees directed to write a new flexible tariff clause. Their original compromise, making the United State Tariff Commission a fact-finding and a rate-fixing body, was stricken from the bill in the Senate when Vice President Curtiss upheld a point of order attacking it on the ground the conferees had exceeded their authority.

President Hoover showed deep concern over the Vice President's ruling, when a copy of it was sent to the White House. Tariff experts meanwhile were set to work to draft a new provision, which would escape condemnation.

Administration leaders insist the bill has not been killed. They declared the conferees would approve a new provision and report the amended bill back to the Senate.

Boy Badly Hurt, Autoist Arrested

Suffering a possible fracture of the skull when struck by an automobile in front of his home last night, William Kalwick, 6, of 2717 Fiarah street, was in a serious condition in South Side Hospital today. Police arrested Fred Skyrms, of Mt. Oliver, as the driver of the car.

PICKETT LAUDS MITCHELL AS 'DRIEST YET'

Expresses Faith in Hoover; Avers Mellon 'Has Kept Hands Off Enforcement'

WASHINGTON, May 28. —(AP.)—Believing Attorney General Mitchell "by far the driest Justice Department head we ever had," Deets Pickett told the Senate Lobby Committee today that the Methodist Board of Temperance had supported legislation to take prohibition enforcement from the Treasury.

President Hoover signed the bill transferring jurisdiction to the Department of Justice only yesterday.

Pickett said the board has full faith in the President.

Questioned about Secretary Mellon, he replied:

"Our observation in recent years, especially since the appointment of Mr. Doran, has been that Mr. Mellon has kept his hands off in regard to prohibition."

Pickett added:

"Everybody knew Mellon at one time was related indirectly to the distillery business."

WOULD HAVE DONE WELL

He said he thought William J. Donovan, had he been appointed attorney general, would have done his utmost to enforce prohibition. He continued:

"Those who oppose continuation of prohibition are classed as wets by the board. Some people who drink favor the law because they believe the economic and social results are good."

Pickett contended Congressmen should obey the prohibition law, despite personal preferences. Senator Blaine (Rep.), of Wisconsin, asked:

"Do you have a card index of Congressmen?"

"Oh, yes, it shows their votes on prohibition."

KEEPS CARD INDEX

Pickett also revealed that the board keeps a card index of the religious affiliations of members of Congress, to show how many of the people making the laws have a Christian church background, as he put it.

Senator Blaine, (Rep.), of Wisconsin, produced a report by Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the Methodist Board, in opposition to the transfer. It developed this had been made before the President announced he favored the move.

Pickett said he thought President Hoover, who was responsible for enforcement, should be given a free hand.

BETTER HANDLED, IT SAYS

The Wilson report declared prohibition had been better handled by Secretary Mellon than it would have been by A. Mitchell Palmer, Harry M. Daugherty, or "the easy-going Sargent," all former attorneys general. In that connection, Pickett expressed his opinion Mitchell was "driest" of them all.

A report by Wilson, placed in the record, said in part:

"It is a happy circumstance that the government is to fall into the hands of a consistent Quaker and a Methodist vice president."

Dirigible's Flight To Canada Delayed

MONTREAL, May 28.—(INS.)—Great Britain's giant dirigible, the R-100, will not leave England on its flight to Canada until the end of June, it was announced today.

J. A. Wilson, controller of civil aviation in Great Britain, cabled that the delay was due to necessary minor repairs.

Joint Will Leaves Estate to Widow

Mrs. Olive E. Fair, of East Franklin Township, receives the estate of her husband, Chambers Fair, in a joint will filed for probate today. The will specified that the survivor should receive the $11,000 estate. Two sons, Earl and Norman Fair, who are to receive the estate at their mother's death, were named executors.

Mt. Lebanon Widow Left $39,000 Estate

John Fred Buchholz, of Roselawn avenue, Mt. Lebanon, names his widow, Mary Buchholz, beneficiary of his $39,000 estate in his will which was filed for probate today. Mrs. Buchholz, named executor, relinquished the title to the Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A.

Break Record

COL. ROSCOE TURNER

The "team" that broke the east-west transcontinental flight record as they left New York.

DAWN-TO-DUSK FLIER VICTOR

LOS ANGELES, May 28.—INS.—Having spanned the continent by airplane between dawn and twilight, Lieut. Col. Roscoe Turner today was the possessor of a new one-stop flight record from New York to the Pacific coast.

Turner landed here last night at 7:46:34 p. m., making an elapsed time of 18 hours, 43 minutes and 34 seconds from Roosevelt Field.

A large crowd greeted the flyer and his famous lion cub mascot "Gilmore," who was also with Turner on his recent unsuccessful attempt to better the West-East one-stop record set by Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh. His wife greeted him.

LUZERNE VOTE FIGHT BLOCKED

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., May 28. (AP.)—Local representatives of Francis Shunk Brown were to confer here today in a new effort to overcome the plurality of 26,000 votes given Gifford Pinchot, rival candidate for the Republican nomination for governor at the primary election in Luzerne County.

The chief difficulty experienced to date by the Brown forces came in a ruling by the Luzerne County Court to the effect that the $60,000 blanket surety bond already on file here, is inadequate to insure the opening of more than 300 ballot boxes. The Brown forces must put up $50 cash or a $200 bond in each instance where fraud is alleged.

Judge John S. Fine today declared he will continue to act on the bench during the contest. Late yesterday the Brown organization presented a petition to the court asking that Fine take no part in the deliberations because he was active in the Pinchot campaign.

PHILADELPHIA, May 28.—(INS.)—The official count of the primary election vote throughout the state is steadily increasing Gifford Pinchot's plurality over Francis Shunk Brown returns showed today. Official tabulations from 56 of the 67 counties, combined with the unofficial returns from the other 11 counties, give Pinchot a plurality of 16,676.

EXPECT KERR TO BE NEXT MODERATOR

Pittsburgh Presbyterians Confident Local Minister Will Win at Cincinnati

By DR. JAMES H. SNOWDEN.

CINCINNATI, O., May 28. — Cincinnati, where the one hundred and forty-second general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. opens tomorrow, is filling up with 1,000 commissioners and the 2,000 visitors that will attend.

The moderatorship is a chief topic of interest and many secret meetings are being held to see that fences are in line. Four candidates are in evidence, the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, pastor of the Shady Side Church, of Pittsburgh; the Rev. Edwin L. McIlvaine, also of Pittsburgh; the Rev. Dr. Henry B. Master, general secretary of the board of pensions, of Philadelphia, and the Rev. Dr. Samuel G. Craig, former editor of the Presbyterian, of Philadelphia.

KERR WIDELY KNOWN

Dr. Kerr is one of the best known men in the church because of his wide popularity as a preacher and speaker on special occasions and also because he is president of the Board of Christian Education. He has a radio audience that reaches across the continent and into foreign lands as he appears on KDKA every Sunday afternoon. He will be nominated by the Rev. Dr. Harry C. Swearingen, formerly of Pittsburgh but now pastor of the House of Hope Church in St. Paul. Dr. Swearingen is one of the most influential men in the church.

Dr. Master's drawing card is that as secretary of the board of pensions he carried through the movement to raise the $15,000,000 fund that assured the success of the pension system of the church. Dr. Craig at one time was pastor of the North Presbyterian church of Pittsburgh. He represents the extreme fundamentalist group that withdrew from Princeton seminary and started the Westminster seminary in Philadelphia.

PREDICT VICTORY

The Pittsburgh delegation confidently expects the election of Dr. Kerr, and if elected he will prove one of the great moderators of the church.

The assembly will open tomorrow forenoon with the sermon of the retiring moderator, the Rev. Dr. Cleland Boyd McAfee, of Chicago, followed by the celebration of the communion service. In the afternoon the election of the moderator will take place with its usual display of oratory. Two speeches are allowed each candidate, a first speech of ten minutes and a second of five.

No startling subject is on the docket, though the reports on the women overtures, showing that the one on the ordination of women to the ministry has been lost and the one of their ordination to the eldership has been won, will attract attention. The report from Princeton Theological Seminary showing how the troubled affairs of that institution have been settled is on the docket for Friday afternoon, and Dr. W. L. McEwan, of Pittsburgh, who is president of the Princeton Board of Trustees, has been appointed by the seminary to speak for it on the platform.

The assembly sets sail on what looks like smooth waters, but there is no telling what storm it may run into or what hidden rock it may strike.

Yale Shares Millions As Woman's Legatee

NEWTON, Conn., May 28.—(AP.)—By the will of the late Miss Mary E. Hawley, benefactress, the contents of which were made known today, Yale University will be residuary legatee of an estate which may be $2,000,000 after requests are paid. There are no limiting conditions except that income from one fund is to be applied to the "general uses and purposes of the university."

X-Ray Malady Drives Scientist to Death

Dry Law Kills Sociability, Says Iowa Archbishop

DUBUQUE, Iowa, May 28. — (AP.)—The Most Rev. Francis J. L. Beckman, new Archbishop of Dubuque and former Bishop of Lincoln, Neb., believes "prohibition has killed sociability and has made real conversation a lost art." Speaking at a banquet given him by the Knights of Columbus, he declared:

"It is an ill-advised attempt, by an impossible and unnatural means, to correct an evil; and thereby but opens the door to evils worse than the first; ill-advised because it ignores history."

"It is born of fanaticism and attempts the impossible and unnatural because it would legislate morals and attacks personal liberties. It never will be enforced, because it goes against the very nature of man and ordinances of God.

"Philosophy and God Himself tell us to dominate our passions and control our appetites, and we do that when we know how to use an object with moderation."

Mother of 5 Saved From Dry Prison by Parole

Mrs. Goldie Lerner, 48, mother of five children, who has been arrested 12 times on charges of violating the liquor laws, received a suspended sentence of one year in a penitentiary and was fined $300 by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson today.

She was charged with selling a half-pint of moonshine in July, 1928, and of having in her possession 1½ gallons. She pleaded guilty.

Mrs. Lerner was paroled for two years and warned that if ever again arrested she would be required to serve the suspended sentence of one year.

Her attorney, Hiram D. Hirsh, pleaded that she had not violated the law since 1928. Mrs. Lerner lives in Wylie avenue. Her husband is an invalid.

BRITISH AND MOSLEMS CLASH IN NEW RIOT AT RANGOON

INDIA REVOLT SPREADING RAPIDLY

Famine Stalks as Leading Cities Turn Armed Camps And High Tension Prevails

BULLETIN.

RANGOON, India., May 28.—(AP.)—Rangoon police this evening again opened fire on a band of Burmans who had attacked residents in the neighborhood of the Contagious Disease Hospital.

RANGOON, Burma, India, May 28.—(AP.)—Two persons were killed when military police opened fire this evening on a party of Indian Moslems during a new flare-up of yesterday's disorders.

The Moslems held up a tram car and assaulted Burman passengers.

As the military police appeared on the scene, they were met with volleys of stones.

Many were injured on both sides of the encounter.

These disorders followed a conflict which had raged for many hours yesterday, costing scores of lives and causing injury to more than 700 persons.

All shops and bazars are closed and the specter of famine is present among the native population.

Shots and volleys were heard throughout Rangoon all night as troops tried to maintain a semblance of order.

RANGOON STILL RESTIVE

Emergency measures were in force here today to prevent a recurrence of the rioting which earlier in the week took 63 lives and injured 716 persons. It was said there were many more dead and injured not officially reported.

Buddhist high priests and Indian leaders strove to allay excitement growing out of the rioting, in which Burmese and Hindu dock workers fought with knives. The military stood by the police in the disturbed area to combat possible disturbances.

INDIAN TENSION GROWS

BOMBAY, May 28.—(INS.)—Fighting and bloodshed continued in the principal cities of the British Indian control today.

The "passive" resistance of Gandhi followers has become, apparently, a physical assault on all things British in India.

The jails are full of salt-raiders and rioters, fighting under the standard of Indian nationalism. Over the week-end, riots broke out in greater force than ever before.

Dispatches from Peshawar, Lucknow, and other central sections indicate dangerous tension exists. It generally is predicted even more serious trouble will occur.

DOG BLAMED FOR RIOT

BOMBAY, May 28.—(AP.)—A government report today gave official confirmation that a dog was the innocent cause of the flare-up in the Bhendi bazaar which cost four lives and injury to 56 persons.

The statement said a police sergeant struck a Mohamedan he found beating a dog. The Mohamedan departed, to return soon with a band of his co-religionists. He demanded his dog and was given it. A riot eventally followed.

Seek Aviators Held By African Savages

LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands, May 28.—(AP.)—Three ships today were sent from here in an attempt to effect the rescue of two Spanish aviation officers and their machinist, forced down and captured by wild tribesmen on the African desert.

The aviators, Commandante Ricardo Burgeute and Capt. Nunez Maza, with Vincente Ferrer, were flying in two planes, accompanied by a Moorish chieftain, when compelled to ground about 150 miles inland from Cape Juby. There nomads seized and held them for ransom.

Refuses to Be Fired, Gets 10 Days in Jail

FREEDOM, Pa., May 28.—Refusing to be fired when discharged as a section hand for the Pennsylvania Railroad, Carlo Baranca, Freedom, was taken from the job by police and at a hearing was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail.

Druggist Jailed In Rum Charge

Edward W. Johnson, druggist, who conducted the Johnson pharmacy at 1665 Broadway, Beechview, pleaded guilty in Federal Court today to selling liquor and was fined $200 and sentenced to jail for three months by Judge R. M. Gibson.

3 POWER FIRMS TO MERGE

HARRISBURG, May 28.—(INS.)—The Public Service Commission today approved a merger of the People's Power Company, the Harmony Electric Company and the Pennsylvania Power Company, under the name of the latter. The three companies serve electric consumers in Allegheny, Beaver, Butler and Lawrence counties.

Protests against the merger were filed by thirteen consumers of the Harmony Electric Company.

The commission directed the companies to revise their bookkeeping accounts so that disputed values might easily be determined.

The commission's order pointed out that the merging companies proposed to standardize rates in their territories, which will have the effect of reducing rates to domestic consumers and to the majority of power consumers.

Weather Conditions.

The barometric area lows yesterday is now centered over Western New York, having caused high rain in the Great Lakes, the Ohio Valley and portions of the North Atlantic states.

A high, central at Prince Albert, Sask., at 34 inches, has advanced southeastward into the northern states and is causing somewhat cooler weather there and in the upper Mississippi Valley. Pressure is also very high in the southeastern states, where fair weather prevails.

River Conditions.

The rivers have changed but little, and will remain nearly stationary or falling slightly. Stage at Franklin, 1.9; Lock No. 10-E, Pittsburgh, 10.5; Dam No. 5, 5.1; Beaver Falls, 3.6; Dam No. 6, 7.1; Dam No. 8, 9.3, and Dam No. 12, 5.0. The dams are up.

Aviation Bulletin.

The rainstorm over Iowa yesterday moved eastward and is now over Western New York, with accompanying low ceilings over most of the airways between New York and Chicago. Ceilings less than 500 feet were at Kittanning, Greenwood Club, and at 500 feet at Homer and Goshen; elsewhere higher ceilings were noted. Visibilities were 3 miles or over except at Greenwood Club and Brockway. Greenwood Club had dense fog with no visibility and no ceiling. Winds were southeast over the eastern portion of the district and mostly south over the western portion. Temperatures were 3 degrees or somewhat higher over practically the entire district, except west of the Mississippi River over portions of the Missouri Valley, where it was somewhat cooler. Rain, fog, and low ceilings will be prevalent this afternoon and tonight, with some rain or showers this afternoon and early tonight.

Pupil Gives Show With Stolen Films

There was a movie projection machine in Oil City (Pa.) High School and John H. Cook, 16, a student, would bring around the latest movies to be shown the students. John would tell the principal his uncle, who was in the picture business, had loaned the reels.

But the truth came out in Federal Court today. John admitted having stolen the films in parcel post packages.

He was paroled for two years.

LEWIS CONFERS WITH PINCHOT

PHILADELPHIA, May 27.—(AP.)—The chairmanship of the Republican State Committee, was believed by political observers to have been under discussion yesterday at a conference between Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee for Governor, and Samuel S. Lewis, who managed Senator Joseph R. Grundy's recent primary campaign in 17 counties of the state.

It has been rumored that Lewis, who retired from the gubernatorial race when he saw harmony was impossible, might be the Pinchot-Grundy candidate for state chairman if State Treasurer Edward Martin is not a candidate for re-election.

Local political leaders heard today that State Senator James J. Coyne, of Pittsburgh, a supporter of Pinchot, might be a "dark horse" candidate for state chairman.

POLICE GUARD TEACHERS

CHARLEROI, Pa., May 28.—Rural school teachers were given police escort and four schoolhouses were guarded today as a result of an attack yesterday on Mrs. Edward Sloan, 27, a teacher, of Elco Hill.

Hunt for her assailant, described as having a disfigured nose, was continued today.

Mrs. Sloan was returning home from school. In a ravine near her home a man grabbed her. She fought him off and ran to the home of a brother-in-law, Dail Sloan, nearby.

Mrs. Sloan is the second teacher molested in rural districts within a month.

Dogs Trail Woman's Attacker to Mine

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., May 28.—(AP.)—Bloodhounds leading posses in a search for a man who attacked Mrs. Edward Sloan, 22, a school teacher, yesterday, today led the searchers to the mouth of an abandoned coal mine near Roscoe. A guard was placed at the mouth of the mine. Mrs. Sloan fought off her assailant and suffered only bruises and lacerations.

English Family Runs Shop 400 Years

LONDON.—Since the year 1557 the descendants of one old English family have plied their trade of saddler in the same shop without interruption.

They are named Denyer. At present, Edmund John Denyer still carries on the business and he can trace his descent direct from the Edmund John Denyer who first opened their little shop in Staines, a quiet, old-world town on the banks of the Thames.

WEST SENDS 117 WAR MOTHERS

NEW YORK, May 28.—(INS.)—One hundred and seventeen Gold Star Mothers were to sail today on the S. S. President Roosevelt to visit the graves of sons and husbands who died in the World War. The mothers sailing today are from Washington, California and other western states.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, May 28.—(AP.)—This war-swept country today opened wide its arms to the Americans who were among its defenders and the women whose sons had spilled their life-blood upon its soil.

Tired after three strenuous days in England, the Gold Star mothers and the veterans of the Twenty-seventh Division arrived here after a quiet channel crossing.

Burning Auto Hurts Filling Station Head

William J. Hickey, manager of the Hickey gasoline station, Springdale, was severely burned on both hands today in pushing a burning automobile away from the gas pump into the street. The car had caught fire when a spark from the auto ignited gasoline that had overflowed from the tank.

Parents Mark Grave Of Man Irene Killed

HICKORY, Pa., May 28.—Visitors to Mt. Prospect Cemetery, on Memorial Day, will see over the grave of Corp. Brady Paul a marble monument, designed by Mr. and Mrs. V. M. Paul, parents of the state highway patrolman, for whose death Irene Schroeder has been convicted of murder. He was shot down on the New Castle road last December.

OPPOSE PARDON FOR WHIPPER

HARRISBURG, May 28.—(AP.)—Pardoning of Russell Anthony, of Tarentum, serving three to six years imprisonment for whipping two stepsons with a strap, was vigorously protested today in letters received by the state board of pardons from the Allegheny County district attorney's office and the Humane Society of the county.

Counsel for Anthony was advised by Lieut. Gov. Arthur H. James, chairman of the pardon board, to seek a parole from the courts but was permitted to present argument when he had been told informally by the court it would refuse to entertain a petition for parole. Anthony has now served six months.

The communication from the prosecuting attorney's office described the case as "one of the worst cases of cruelty to children on record."

Judge Harry H. Rowand, in sentencing Anthony in Criminal Court last November 14 remarked:

"I am sorry the whipping post has been abolished. I would like to whip you myself."

'SPONGY' JOYCE SHOT, MAY DIE

While Anthony (Spongy) Joyce, 34, well-known police character, lay near death in Presbyterian Hospital with three bullet wounds in his body, police today were holding his brother-in-law, Robert Hartman, 32, of 527 Jacksonia street, in connection with the shooting, they said.

Anthony Joyce

The shooting, police reported, climaxed a fight in the Hartman home last night. Hartman, police say, admitted shooting Joyce, but only after the latter had hurled a metal vase.

Patrolmen Harry Williams and John Greeney, summoned by a neighbor, rushed the victim to the hospital and took Hartman and Roy Blakely, 34, of Veto street, who was in the house at the time, to North Side Station.

School Board Forms "Order of the Bath"

PORTERVILLE, Cal.—(INS.)—The local high school board may be credited with the new saying: "A bath a day keeps low marks away." Believing that there is nothing so stimulating as a good bath, the board members have issued an edict ordering all Porterville high school students to take a bath at the school, daily.

The ruling will become effective with the opening of school next fall. It is estimated that between 900 and 1,000 towels will be added to the daily high school laundry bill as a result of the "Order of the Bath."

Racketeer Given Life for Killing

LOS ANGELES, May 28.—(INS.)—Accused of killing Robert Leslie as the result of a liquor feud, Joseph Herring today had been found guilty by a jury which recommended life imprisonment.

Herring said he set out "to beat up" Leslie and James J. Murphy, upon the promise of receiving $50 from a racketeer. The shooting started during the quarrel and Leslie was killed and Murphy seriously wounded.

GRAF'S MAIL CARGO SETS RECORD

Zeppelin's Round Trip Flight Will Net Over $150,000; Rush for Special Stamps

EXCLUSIVE

By LADY DRUMMOND HAY.
Special Cable Dispatch.

RECIFE, Pernambuco, Brazil, May 28.—The Graf Zeppelin has broken all air mail records in postage value of mail cargo ever carried by any aircraft across the ocean or elsewhere.

It is probable that when the Graf leaves Lakehurst, N. J., for its home port, Friedrichshafen, it will have established a unique record that even no ocean mail liner ever has reached.

Indications point toward the total postage bill for the letters and postcards carried by the Graf on this round-trip flight being between $150,000 and $200,000.

SPECIAL STAMPS

The Graf crossed the Atlantic this time with nearly three-quarters of a ton of mail for South America, Cuba and North America. Six hundred and fifty pounds were dropped at Recife for South America.

When the Graf takes off for Lakehurst today it is estimated that it will have more than half a ton of South American mail for North America and Europe.

The Brazilian government has issued a special Zeppelin stamp in three denominations to commemorate the first airship passenger and mail flight from Europe to Brazil. Those for the United States have a special imprint.

The values of these stamps are 60 cents, $1.20 and 2.40. There has been an overwhelming demand for these from all over South America.

COLLECTORS INTERESTED

Every stamp collector in the world seems to be posting letters to the Graf here.

Herman Stoltz Company, the Zeppelin agents here, have five men busy all day with hand-cancellation stamps, cancelling the special Zeppelin mail.

In Lakehurst a cargo of American mail with Zeppelin commemoration stamps issued by the American Postoffice Department is awaiting the airship. The Graf has become the philatelists' premier mail ship.

KDKA Boulevard? County Chiefs Balk at Change

Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company today asked the County Commissioners to change the name of Saxonburg road to KDKA boulevard.

The broadcasting station is located near the road, which runs to Butler County.

Said independent Commissioner McGovern:

"Darned if I think we should make ourselves ridiculous by making such a change."

Said Chairman Armstrong:

"Maybe Saxonburg has some historical value."

Said Commissioner Babcock:

"Saxonburg's the same as when I came here 40 years ago. It's a little town in Butler County."

McGovern:

"Well, they're probably in Butler County to escape our high taxes."

The matter will be settled later.

FANS PROTEST EXTREMES IN FASHION

Newest Group Responding To Marion Davies' Style Queries Asks Compromise

HOLLYWOOD, May 28.—With the public generally divided into two camps over the subject of women's styles, a third party today made its appearance in the Marion Davies fashion contest.

"Compromise" was the slogan of the new group, whose members favor neither the conservative "longs" of the Gay Nineties, nor the radical "shorts" of the Liberated Thirties.

With the contest only beginning its second week, additional hundreds of letters poured into the New Pantages Theater, Hollywood, where Miss Davies' latest picture, "The Floradora Girl," will have its premiere on Wednesday, June 4.

ORGANIST FOR MODESTY

Ivan M. Wittell, Baptist church organist of Johnsonburg, Pennsylvania, telegraphed his opinion. He wired:

"I like modest dress, not necessarily long skirts and ancient coiffure. Neither lent to youthful appearance. Why return to styles that eliminate comfort, convenience, youth? Hollywood really sets our styles. Our country is its own pattern since the war. Not Paris, but Hollywood for fashions."

Susie E. Patterson, 1130 Fell street, San Francisco, led the party in favor of a compromise. She wrote:

"Women's clothing of the Gay Nineties was too cumbersome, while that of the past two years has been too scanty for real beauty and grace. What all men admire on women is clothing that is soft, fluffy and becoming. A compromise between the two styles would effect it. Laces and ribbons flatter the wearer and add to her feminine allure. No man is proof against dainty colors and pretty fashions.

"When I wear a becoming big hat and a fluffy white fur, I get a seat in a street car. But when I wear a plain dark dress, I have to hang on a strap like the rest of the plainly dressed sisterhood."

A few of the other letters received follow:

I think that the height of perfection in women's styles has been reached. Any backward trend would be a total loss.

JAMES M'DONALD,
13 Summitt St., Cohoes, N. Y.

UGLY IN CORSETS

I cannot understand how women can be so blinded by the Goddess of Fashion as not to see how incredibly ugly they appear with a squeezed, corseted figure and an unnatural looking long tight dress that swishes awkwardly about their ankles.

MANUEL GOLDBERG,
2331 Mondawin avenue, Baltimore, Md.

BE NATURAL

There is nothing more beautiful than nature and the nearest a woman can live up to it the more beautiful she looks.

MRS. MAE SMITH,
127 Clarendon avenue, Pikesville, Md.

SENSIBLE GIRLS

To me the girls of today show amazing good sense in breaking away from the conventions of years gone by. It means for them not only strong and sturdy frames but able to do things which was impossible under the old regime.

JOHN M. KNOX,
415 Wood street, Clarion, Pa.

HAIR, SKIRTS LONG

I wore the short skirts and bobbed hair until last year, but now I'm wearing long hair and long skirts. I like it a lot better and so does my husband. I believe a man has more respect for a woman with long dresses, because they look more respectful.

MRS. MARY VONDRASEK,
5701 Chopin st., Detroit, Mich.

LACK RESPECT

The girls of today don't seem to have the respect for themselves or their parents as did the girls of past years. So therefore I admire the girls of the old days with their long dresses and long hair and their sensible way of dressing and living.

LESLIE P. HERRON,
106 Barberry Ter., Rochester, N. Y.

PITIES WHITEWINGS

If the styles of today go as far as the styles of the Nineties, you must stop to think how many poor street cleaners the government will have to fire!

DUNDER FERRINI,
123 Alley street, Lynn, Mass.

BOOSTS BOBS

The style of Gay Nineties should not be encouraged. The modern girl likes health and freedom. The short skirt is the most sensible for all purposes. For bobbed hair, keep it. The modern girl of today does not care to be burdened with tight corsets, long skirts and hairpins. The modern girl will never prefer the bathing suits of the Nineties for the ones at present.

The girl of sports did not exist in the Gay Nineties. But they are just as modest as they were then.

MRS. J. WAUGH,
1 Churchill street, Saugus, Mass.

MINORITIES SCORED

There is always a minority in the majority who go to extremes in styles and by their doing this depress the standard of femininity.

VERNE JOSEPHSON,
197 North State street, Concord, N. H.

HIT ON BRIDGE, LOSES LEG

Struck by an automobile while sitting on the County Line Bridge, over Big Sewickley Creek, Beaver road, Peter Spelick, 19, of 213 Bank street, Ambridge, today was in a serious condition in Valley Hospital, Sewickley. Forest H. Minto, 53, of 1238 Wisconsin avenue, Dormont, said to have driven the car, was arrested by Ambridge police and turned over to Leetsdale authorities.

Minton, witnesses said, attempted to avoid collision with another car and drove over the curb and sidewalk of the bridge, striking Spelick. It was found necessary to amputate Spelick's left leg below the knee, hospital attaches said.

LACK CLUES TO BOY'S IDENTITY

Morgue officials are still without a clue to the identity of an 18-year-old youth, whose nude body was found Sunday on a sand bar in the Youghiogheny River at the foot of Thirty-fourth street, McKeesport. He is believed to have been drowned while bathing. He was 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighed about 125 pounds, had long, light brown hair and wore a silver signet ring, without initials, on his right hand.

Park Bus Service Begins on Friday

Motor coach service to the county parks will start Memorial Day and will be continued every holiday and Sunday through the summer, T. A. Noonan, general manager of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach announced today. The coaches will leave Liberty avenue at Grant street hourly beginning at 1 p. m. The last coach will leave for the parks at 8 p. m., returning at 9 p. m.

Chrysler Building, Highest of All, Open

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP.)—The tallest structure in the world—the Chrysler Building—was opened formally yesterday.

Its burnished, rustless steel spire scrapes the clouds 1,033 feet above Forty-second street and Lexington avenue, 46 feet higher than the Eiffel Tower and 75 feet above the Bank of Manhattan Building in the financial district, which was opened Monday.

World War Officer Succumbs in West

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—Col. Alfred A. Baybach, 55, who became ill while on a tour of duty in the Philippine Islands, died in the Letterman General Hospital here after an operation.

Col. Maybach, who had a distinguished record during the World War, commanded the Coast Artillery School at Fort Monmouth.

Broken Statue Sets Students Back $70

PRINCETON, N. J., May 28.—(AP.)—Received, in full payment for one broken goddess, 7,000 pennies. Such a receipt might be written by Princeton University's Department of Art and Archaeology. The boys stole a plaster copy of Venus de Milo and put her on a pyre. She cost $70 and the boys had to make restitution.

Rail Executive Will View Russian Roads

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP.)—To inspect Russian railroads, Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern, is going around the world. He is leaving Friday for Germany. After completing his work in Siberia he will return three months hence by Pacific steamship.

FLOOD REFUGEE CAMPS FULL

NEW ORLEANS, May 28.—(INS.)—More than 6,000 persons, driven from their homes by flood waters, filled refugee camps in five parishes today. The water continued to rise in Red River and Natchitoches parishes, driving additional homeless to higher ground.

Relief workers returning from De Soto and Bossier parishes reported the water receding somewhat. Approximately 100,000 acres of bottomlands are estimated to be under water.

Refugee centers in Natchitoches parish today were awaiting relief from the Red Cross following Representative James Aswell's plea for assistance made to the Red Cross headquarters at Washington.

STREATOR, Ill., May 28.—(INS.)—A factory and four greenhouses lay in wreckage here today following a tornado which late yesterday swept the southern section of the city, uprooting trees, smashing windows and ripping porches from homes.

Damage was estimated at $250,000.

Mussolini, Ill, Soon Will Go Under Knife

GENEVA, May 28.—(INS.)—Premier Benito Mussolini, dictator of Italy, is ill and soon will undergo an operation, it was learned today from travelers who came here from Rome.

They declared it would be announced Mussolini merely is taking a rest, while Minister of Transportation Ciano assumes his duties.

Detroit Police Share Sam Pallas Reward

The Sam Pallas reward of $5,000, which has been discussed numerous times by the County Commissioners, was cleared off the books by their authorizing District Attorney Andrew T. Park to pay $2,000 of it to Chief of Detectives Edward Fox, of Detroit, for the activities of his men in connection with the roundup of the Jaworski gang.

Missing Tug Sought On Lake Michigan

CHICAGO, May 28.—(INS.)—Coast guardsmen searched Lake Michigan today for the fishing tug Seagull, which has been missing more than 24 hours. The tug had set out yesterday at dawn with a crew of three men aboard.

EX-VICE CONSUL BLAMES VODKA

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP.)—Harry Hall, of Baltimore, former American vice consul at Warsaw, testified in Federal Court that after he had taken a few drinks of vodka and been paid $700, he was persuaded to sign fraudulent visas for aliens whom a smuggling ring intended to get into the United States.

Hall has pleaded guilty to conspiracy to violate the immigration laws and is testifying for the government against two men and a woman indicted with him.

Hall said Morris Baskin offered him money after they had drunk vodka in Warsaw. He also said Baskin offered him $70,000 to smuggle a package of goods worth $479,000 into the United States, but declared he never received the package or the money. He said the $700 came from Leo Shapiro, another defendant, now fighting extradition from New Jersey.

SOUCEK, NAVY'S ACE, MARRIES

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP.)—Lieut. Apollo Soucek, highest high-flier of the Navy and holder of the world seaplane altitude record, was married last night to Agnes E. O'Connor, of Wellsville, N. Y.

Lieut. Soucek held for a brief while last year the altitude record for all types of planes, but Willie Neuhofer, of Germany, took it away from him, and the American has been trying patiently but unsuccessfully ever since to force his tiny five-year-old Apache plane to the great height, above 42,000 feet, needed to beat the German mark.

Now, however, his attempts are to be abandoned, as Soucek is going to sea duty in July. His home is in Medford, Okla. Mrs. Soucek is the daughter of Judge Patrick J. O'Connor, of Wellsville.

BLUE LAW POLL IN TOWNSHIPS

for every vote for the Blue Laws is maintained.

The division of the total vote between men and women is as follows: For the Blue Laws, 1,982 men and 1,734 women; for modification, 1,163 men and 789 women; for repeal, 14,430 men and 7,152 women.

The first townships to receive ballots are Aleppo, Baldwin, Bethel and Braddock. The poll of the county thus far includes Aspinwall, Avalon, Bellevue, Braddock and Bridgeville boroughs.

The three questions upon which voters of the county are asked to express a choice, similar to the questions presented city voters, are:

1. I favor continuance of the Pennsylvania Blue Laws in their present form.

2. I favor modification of the Pennsylvania Blue Laws which would permit strictly amateur sports and amusements on Sunday afternoons but which would prohibit commercialization.

3. I favor the repeal of the Pennsylvania Blue Laws, and the legalizing of symphony orchestra, other musical entertainments, and professional sports, together with the opening of theaters and outdoor amusement parks, on Sunday afternoons and evenings.

'Sho Amos'n' Andy Stole Mah Stuff, Yas Suh!

It was just at that hour last night when most radios are tuned in.

A gentlemanly old Negro, near the 70 mark, obstructed the sidewalk in Graham street, near Friendship avenue. He apologetically stepped aside to permit a pedestrian to pass by. Strains of Amos 'n' Andy voices drifted to the street. The aged listener's extraordinary apologies prompted the pedestrian to remark about listening to the program. And the Negro mused:

"Yes, sir; yes, sir; I'se lis-'enin' to that pair. 'Sfunny all the money they'se makin' imitatin' me and I'se jus' can't make any libing."

LOTTERY RAIDS NET 6 MEN

Six men were arrested on charges of operating clearing house lotteries during raids on South Side stores today. Liquor was reported found in one place.

Those arrested, posted $100 bonds each for hearings. They were Sam Soknich, 41, confectionery proprietor, 2909 East Carson street; Joseph Pachucki, 48, restaurant proprietor, 18 South Twenty-seventh street; John Gonnell, 28, and Sam Kosanovich, both of 2716 Carey way, arrested in store at 30 South Twenty-seventh street; Frank Melinsky and Walter Mayer, both of 2405 Jane street, arrested in a store at 2330 Carson street. Police reported record books were taken from all prisoners.

Jess Kann, 37, proprietor of a confectionery store at 2913 East Carson street, was charged with keeping a disorderly house. A gallon of whisky was reported confiscated.

Police Lose Days In Taxi Strike; Pa Pitt Pays

Pa. Pitt's expenses for police protection during the recent taxicab strike today was revealed at 4,360 days of relief for 335 officers.

The city pays no overtime. Extra hours are repaid the police with days off. Too, the city ordinance orders two days off each month for a policeman. Due to strike duty, these police failed to obtain their days off and earned many days' extra through overtime.

Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh is arranging to give the men time off without weakening the city's protection.

TAX REDUCTION PLANS MADE BY LEAGUE

Allegheny County Group To Keep Up Fight for Economy in Government

The Taxpayers' League of Allegheny County, composed of citizens interested in tax reduction, has announced its program. Aims of the organization were stated by the executive committee following a meeting yesterday at the Keystone Club. A campaign is being carried on for membership and financial support, according to P. R. Williams, executive secretary.

Aims stated by the league are:

Reduction in taxes to a level actually necessary to provide sufficient funds for the economical and efficient administration of government; a thorough survey of all municipal activities to eliminate duplication of effort and to bring about lower operating costs; a scientific annual audit of the finances of city and county and publication of the results; 100 cents' worth of public service for every tax dollar; just and equitable assessments of all property subject to taxation; legislation to secure for the city a share of the state gasoline tax.

Legislation to abolish tax-paying as one of the prerequisites for the voting privilege; elimination of the office of delinquent tax collector and collection of all taxes through the office of the city treasurer; support of every movement to obtain greater justice in taxation and secure the highest measure of economy and efficiency in the administration of city and county affairs.

U. S. GETS PARK TIMBER LAND

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(INS.)—Title to approximately 13,000 acres of privately-owned timber land in Yosemite National Park was in possession of the federal government today through the generosity of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who paid half of the purchase price. The land cost the government approximately $3,300,000 and by special proclamation of Congress last March 2, about 7,725 acres of the area lying outside the boundary of the park, were added to the park proper.

The tract contains some of the finest sugar and yellow pine stands of the region, and before Rockefeller and several members of the House, particularly Representative Cramton (Rep.), Michigan, initiated steps to preserve the land's beauty, the timber was slated for early lumbering.

tomb of the Unknown French soldier. A French general who had seen royalty and statesmen visit that tomb said he had never seen such deep feeling as those mothers showed.

Naturally. Only a mother whose son has been killed knows what war means.

SCIENTISTS of Lowell Observatory are said to have selected the name "Pluto" for the new planet. They should make another selection.

An American, Prof. Lowell, predicted the discovery of the planet, another American discovered it. It is, therefore, an American planet and should have been named for Newton, whose law made the discovery possible, or for Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, Hoover or Theodore Roosevelt.

Shelby T. Harbison, Horse Trader, Dies

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 28.—(AP.)—Shelby T. Harbison, Sr., 72, president of the Harbison Tattersalls Sales Company, noted for its horse sales, is dead here.

Known in blooded horse circles throughout the world, he had sold scores of fine steeds in this country and abroad.

A native of Kentucky, he first engaged in the sale of livestock and blooded horses in 1886. Later he formed the firm of Harbison, Jewel & Patterson, then the Lexington Tattersalls Farm and finally the Harbison Tattersalls Sales Company.

Home Looted While Family Is Absent

Clothing, dishes, lamps and other housefurnishings were stolen from the home of Mary Hill, of 530 Sweetbrier street, Mt. Washington, last night. The robbery was discovered upon the return of the family. The robbers gained entrance by jimmying the rear door, police reported.

THE BUSINESS THAT BUTTER BUILT

McCann's Butter

3 lbs. for $1

Why? Three reasons enter into the answer: 1. We want to make new customers for McCann's butter. 2. We want to give old customers the benefit of a slight market decline plus a willful below-cost selling price. 3. We want to convince everyone that McCann's butter at any price is one of the best butter buys he can make. For these reasons, McCann quality butter is sold three pounds for one dollar...the lowest price since 1914.

MRS. TAFT WILL GO ABROAD

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. William Howard Taft will sail for Naples tomorrow—the third president's widow in 10 years to seek solace and diversion in foreign travel.

Embarking for Italy to spend the summer, she will follow in the steps of Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, both almost constant world travelers since the passing of their husbands.

Mrs. Roosevelt has made several trips to Europe, particularly to the grave of her son, Quentin, in France. At the time of the Japanese earthquake in 1924 she was in Tokio, where her calm in the midst of the disaster was commented upon.

After returning from the Orient she visited Cuba and Yucatan, studying the mythology of the ancient Mayas, and in 1927 she plunged into the interior of Brazil, scene of one of her husband's voyages of exploration.

Mrs. Wilson has made visits to Queen Marie at the Rumanian court, toured Scotland, England, Austria and France, and often has attended the League of Nations assembly at Geneva.

ASK DISMISSAL OF BANKRUPTCY

MIAMI, Fla., May 28.—(AP.)—Statement that involuntary bankruptcy proceedings against the Hollywood Land and Water Company and the Homeseekers' Realty Company, of Hollywood, Fla., will be dropped, was contained in an opinion handed down by Federal Judge Halsted L. Ritter.

The two companies are developers of the town of Hollywood. The opinion was given in connection with a motion for dismissal presented by the Highway Construction Company, of Cleveland, O., largest individual creditor of the two concerns. The Highway Company has obtained two judgments against the companies totaling approximately $2,100,000 on street and sidewalk contracts. The construction company was not a party to the bankruptcy action.

She knew you would like to see this chic hat in pale blue felt and horsehair — a LeMonnier at that!
Believe her when she says you can't have many long skirts for daytime / Molyneux's smart black crepe dress & jacket are average length — ..... the dress has a beige vest, & the jacket is beige fox trimmed
Aren't the new pumps tricky? This one had a gold buckle & was black & gold

DENTIST KILLER ENTERS PRISON

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 28.—(AP.)—Dr. Andrew J. Bass, former Columbia, Mo., dentist, last night was prisoner No. 27,685 in the stockade of the Arkansas penitentiary, beginning a life sentence for the slaying of William R. Pearman, a Columbia garage mechanic and his alleged co-conspirator in a $200,000 insurance fraud plot.

A constant watch was being kept over the prisoner in view of his recent suicide attempt at the county jail at Bentonville, from which he was brought, following his plea of guilty and sentencing in Benton Circuit Court. About two weeks ago Dr. Bass slashed an artery with a razor blade.

Whether the 55-year-old dentist will spend his twilight years as a convict or will be confined as a patient in the state hospital for nervous diseases, will depend on the result of a sanity test made by Dr. H. A. Deshong, penitentiary physician, soon after the prisoner's arrival.

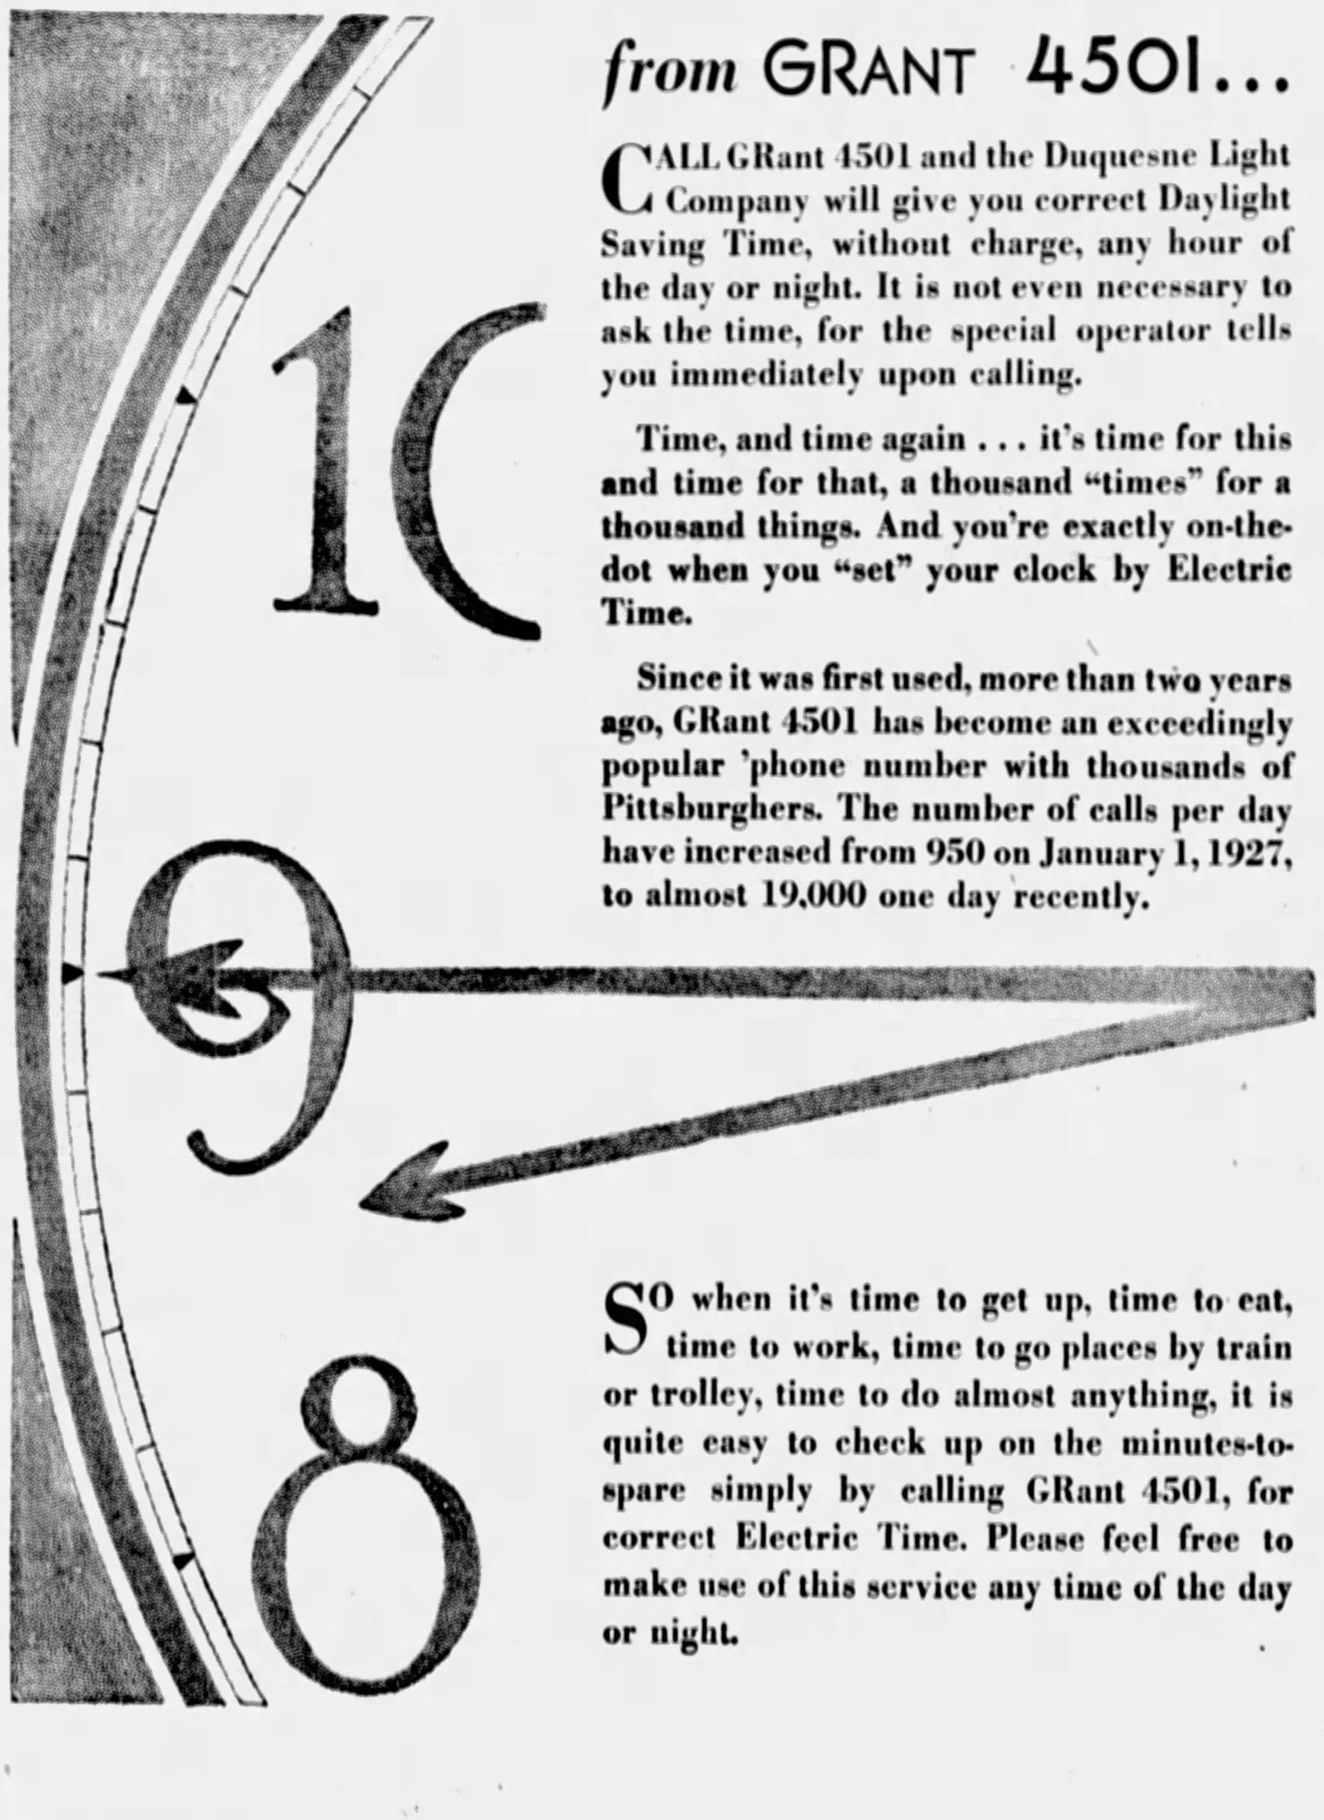
8:45 ELECTRIC TIME...



from GRANT 4501...

CALL GRant 4501 and the Duquesne Light Company will give you correct Daylight Saving Time, without charge, any hour of the day or night. It is not even necessary to ask the time, for the special operator tells you immediately upon calling.

Time, and time again . . . it's time for this and time for that, a thousand "times" for a thousand things. And you're exactly on-the-dot when you "set" your clock by Electric Time.

Since it was first used, more than two years ago, GRant 4501 has become an exceedingly popular 'phone number with thousands of Pittsburghers. The number of calls per day have increased from 950 on January 1, 1927, to almost 19,000 one day recently.

SO when it's time to get up, time to eat, time to work, time to go places by train or trolley, time to do almost anything, it is quite easy to check up on the minutes-to-spare simply by calling GRant 4501, for correct Electric Time. Please feel free to make use of this service any time of the day or night.

ELECTRIC Time is given by the operators through the use of Telechron Electric Clocks, which are also available for home or office use. Telechron Clocks operate from any electric outlet and require no winding or bother. They are on sale at the Gas and Electric Shops, and at numerous other electrical dealers and department stores.

50 YEARS OF PUBLIC SERVICE

COURT UPHOLDS BOOK CENSOR

BOSTON, May 28.—(AP.)—The full bench of the State Supreme Court overruled the exceptions of Donald S. Friede, of New York, who was convicted by a Superior Court jury of selling to a Boston police officer a copy of Theodore Dreiser's "An American Tragedy." The bench also overruled the appeal of James A. Delacy of Cambridge, convicted of a charge similar to that against Friede.

The government contended that the novel contained obscene, indecent or impure language tending to corrupt the morals of youth.

Friede, whose exceptions were based upon refusal of Judge Hayes in Superior Court to allow the contents of the two volumes to be read to the jury and to having only passages read, must now pay a $300 fine imposed in the lower court.

Defeated Candidates Charge Vote Fraud

UNIONTOWN, May 28.—Charges of irregularities and violations of election laws were made in a petition filed by Jesse Y. Binns, of Brownsville and Dr. C. H. Sherry, of Uniontown, defeated candidates for the Republican nomination to the state assembly. The court is asked to recanvass the official figures.

Pittsburghers Bid For Airport Job

HARRISBURG, May 28.—(AP.)—Another move toward establishment of the Philadelphia to Pittsburgh air route was taken by the state with the opening of bids at the Department of Internal Affairs for conditioning of the intermediate landing field at Williamsburg, which will be on the new airway.

Five bids were submitted. Freeland, McHale and Patton, Inc., of Pittsburgh, made the lowest lump sum offer of $9,658.

Revona Youth Will Go to Annapolis

Appointment of Marvin Ellsworth Ludenfelt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ludenfelt, 514 Ontario avenue, Revona, to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., is announced by the United States Navy Recruiting Station, Pittsburgh. Ludenfelt, who enlisted at the local recruiting station during February, 1929, received his recruit training at the United States Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill. He entered the Naval Academy Preparatory School at San Diego, Cal., in November, 1929, where he remained until completion of the April entrance examinations for the academy.

Forum and Century Magazines Merged

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP.)—The Forum magazine has announced its purchase of the Century magazine and a merging of the two under one title, "The Forum and Century."

The Century was founded in 1870 with the backing of Charles Scribner and first called "Scribner's Monthly." The Forum is 16 years younger.

Invest in a Savings Account

Money in the Bank has Enabled Many a Young Man to Seize Opportunities

by

Albert J. Logan

Chairman of Board
A. J. Logan Company

MONEY deposited in a Savings Account is an investment—a very good one. Every day you can see examples of its value. It has enabled many a young man to undertake a new business, to make opportune investments and to have a ready supply of cash for unexpected emergencies. Thrift does not mean that you must save every cent possible, but implies, on the contrary, that you should spend your money in the best and most orderly way, making provision both for the present and for the future. An army must be carefully organized, if it hopes to win battles. Organize your income and live within it. Make every dollar serve a useful purpose. That is Thrift.

MR. ALBERT J. LOGAN started to work in 1878. He became greatly interested in his job, and four years later when the firm was going out of business, bought the bedding portion of it. From this as a small beginning, he has built up one of the most complete factories for producing bedding in the United States. He is one of the organizers and the first president of the Better Bedding Alliance of America. Through Mr. Logan's efforts the first Pennsylvania laws governing the making of sanitary bedding and providing for state inspection were enacted.

Mr. Logan's career in the army has been just as successful as his business career. Early enlisting as a private in the National Guard of Pennsylvania, he served successively through many grades, becoming during the World War a Brigadier General in the National Army.

Pittsburgh is a city of business and industrial leaders, men who have been able to foresee and create businesses and industries for the betterment of society. By the experience and authority of these men, the Union Savings Bank hopes to show you the value of thrift and saving. As Mr. Logan says, money deposited in a Savings Account is an investment and a good one. Save something regularly. The Union Savings Bank is always glad to help you with any of its banking services.

are an ASSET to Our Business

Exclusive Features* of Blowout-Proof GENERALS

Easier Riding: Lowest pressure of any tire, plus built-in rubber shock absorbers.

Extra Strength: Pure rubber only and more of it; greater toughness; extra layers of cords.

Longer Life: Extra layers of soft cushion rubber prevent internal wear from friction and absorb impacts that break other tires. The greatest mileage ever known.

Skid-Safe: Tougher, deeper tread—non-skid permanence. Extra softness and "give" inside means closer-clinging traction for life of the tire.

Blowout-Proof: The greatest safety advancement in modern motoring. Now, Safety at Any Speed.

If you are buying a new car ask about our special change-over plan—taking off the equipment tires and giving you the advantage of riding on Generals right from the start.

UNLIKE used cars to most automobile dealers, used tires are a real asset to our business. We never have too many. Through originating the tire trade-in plan and doing the biggest business for years, we have built up a big list of used tire customers who take the traded-in tires as fast as we get them.

This lets us start you off on Generals with a saving in first cost surpassed only by General's exclusive economy of performance.

Right Now A Double Saving

The rush season is here. We need hundreds more used tires of every make and size and are ready to make you a special offer on your present tires regardless of age or condition.

With new tire prices at rock bottom and now the special trade-in allowance we can make, this is a wonderful opportunity to make the safety of Generals—the Blow-out-Proof Tire—your safety, and at your price.

BUS-RAIL FIGHT REOPENED

The battle between the residents of Northwestern Washington County and the West Penn Power Company and the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company over the proposed substitution of motor buses for railroad passenger service between Pittsburgh and Avella was renewed today before the Public Service Commission.

At a hearing before Commissioner S. Ray Shelby scores of citizens of Avella, Hickory, Carnegie and other towns on the railroad line crowded the courtroom eager to testify against the proposition to discontinue the passenger train service.

Little progress was made in the taking of testimony. A few witnesses expressed the opinion that buses would afford better service.

The railways company called witnesses to testify that the passenger service results in a loss in operating expenses. This developed that a share of maintenance, care of buildings and officials' salaries have been prorated in a charge against the passenger service, the allocation of the cost being on the relative amount of fuel used between passenger and freight locomotives.

GET MILLION IN BOGUS MONEY

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP.)—Expertly counterfeited $10, $20 and $50 gold certificates with a spurious value of more than $1,000,000 were seized today with a large lithograph press by secret service operatives on an upper floor of a Brooklyn apartment house.

Three men, caught operating the press, were arrested. Secret service men, acting on a tip, located the plant and watched its operations with spy glasses from a room a block away.

Seven agents, holding pistols, rushed the apartment. They took Pericle Mannerini, alleged head of the ring; Joseph de Negros, alleged financier of the band, and Mattio Mattera, alias "the doctor," identified as an expert engraver and lithographer.

The agents found special paper ample for the printing of $4,000,000 more in counterfeit money.

The press weighs 3,500 pounds and occupied the entire side of a wall. Experts will dismantle it.

WOMAN IN RACE HITS DRY LAW

NEWPORT, Ky., May 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. Marie Haller, candidate for the Republican congressional nomination from the Sixth Kentucky district, has outlined her platform and advocated a change in the prohibition law. She said "the Eighteenth amendment has failed in its ideals and has become a thing of iniquity and sin."

Some people, she said, believe because a woman runs for office she should be defeated "because she is a woman." The congressional aspirant declared it was not sex but ability to handle government business that should decide votes at the polls.

START GAS LINE FOR 5 STATES

CHICAGO, May 28.—(AP.)—The industrial communities of Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky will receive natural gas, probably by next December, through a $40,000,00 pipe line, construction of which was announced by the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Company.

The gas will be brought from the Texas Panhandle by a line of pipe 1,250 miles long. Work already has begun at two points in Texas and Missouri and $25,000,000 worth of pipe has been ordered from the National Supply Company of Toledo, O.

Officials estimate the construction will provide employment for several thousand men and be completed by December 1.

The line will connect with the Missouri-Kansas Company's Kentucky pipe line system near Evansville, Ind.

The Illinois Power and Light Corporation and the Missouri Power and Light Company, subsidiaries of the North American Power and Light Company, have contracted with the Panhandle Eastern Company, subsidiary of the Missouri-Kansas Company to purchase the natural gas for all cities in Missouri and Illinois which they now supply with manufactured gas.

The project, not associated in any way with a Texas-to-Chicago line announced last month by Insull, Son & Co., will bring two natural gas pipe lines into Illinois.

POLES WIN QUIZ IN SHOOTINGS

WARSAW, May 28.—(AP.)—The Polish government announced last night that Germany had accepted a proposal for a mixed committee to investigate the shooting of Polish frontier guards on the frontier between the two countries near the Prussian village of Marienwerder. The shooting occurred on Saturday and one of the Polish officers died of wounds.

Germany also has agreed to permit a Polish doctor to perform an autopsy on the dead Polish guard officer, named Liskiewicz. It is reported here that Liskiewicz died in an automobile while being taken from the frontier to the town.

The police assert that the finding of blood on the Polish side of the frontier is proof that the Germans provoked the affray, but the German Foreign Office has rejected Polish indemnity claims with the assertion that Polish guards had invaded German territory and had shot first.

KARL'S SON TO CLAIM THRONE

BUDAPEST, Hungary, May 28.—(AP.)—Reports in legitimist circles were that Archduke Otto, eldest son of the late ex-Emperor Karl of Austria, on his next birthday would issue a declaration asserting his theoretical rights to the throne of Hungary.

The young Archduke will be 18 years old on November 20. He is now being educated in Belgium.

Legitimists say that he will make no attempt to disturb the peaceful development of the country. The Hungarian government will announce that agitation in connection with the question of the throne cannot be tolerated.

Would Let States Rule on Fight Films

NEWS OF PERSONS AND EVENTS IN BROADWAY AND HOLLYWOOD LIFE

Chaplin Meets Associate From Those Long-Ago $25-Weekly Times

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1930, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, May 28.

Years ago, at the Hammerstein Theater in New York, Nella Walker and Wilbur Mack headlined in their own hil' act.

Bime by, another act was added to the bill. It was called "A Night in an English Music Hall," Charlie Chaplin made his first American appearance in it.

Charles Chaplin

Miss Walker, a stellar figure on the boards, earned sufficient salary to equip herself with a car and the car with a chauffeur. She drove to the theater in style. Unbeknown to her, the little figure of Chaplin hovered in the shadows watching her arrival and departure, his eyes wistful as they contemplated such travel magnificence.

Today Miss Walker is in Hollywood after five years of domesticating on the Continent. She chanced to pass the attractive, English bungalow that is the exterior of the Chaplin lot. She hesitated whether to go in. She decided not to. Things had changed since the Hammerstein theater days in New York.

Later however, when Wilbur Mack played here on a local vodvil stage, Miss Walker met Chaplin, who visited Mack backstage. And he recounted to her how awed he was of her chauffeur and car and the pomp of it all and how he wondered if he would ever achieve such elegance. Charlie's salary was then $25 a week. Today? A different story. Yes, Miss Walker can go a-calling now to the Chaplin studio.

CADET CAREY

Harry (Trader Horn) Carey has enrolled his oldest son, "Dobie," in the Urban Military Academy. Jackie Coogan graduated from this soldiering school recently.

Harry Carey

Across the street from the Urban Academy, by the by, is the Black-Fox Military Academy. The Fox in the title is Earle, former flickite. I happened to be in an auto park t'other day when Earle Fox and a companion in uniform drove up. The parking boy stared!

"What picture is Earle Fox playing in now?"

"Picture? He's a headman in his own school."

"Oh, I thought the uniform was pictures."

Such being fame?

RUMORS AND SUCH

RUMOR: That George Bancroft is said to be asking Paramount a terrific salary if that kumpany still wants his services. Said salary also to include a 50 per cent cut on his pictures. RUMOR: "That Paramount is gasping but not answering—in the affirmative.

REMINISCENT: Umpty ump years ago, George Bancroft attired in tight breeches and a manner (he wore coat and shirt and collar, also) appeared in a play atop the Ziegfeld Roof in New York as a magician. His share in the show was to pull rabbits from a hat!

SUMMARY: How time doth change. . . .

NOT EVEN "OUT"

Must have been months ago. At all events Will Rogers was in an airplane smash-up back East and had three ribs broken. Nothing was said of the accident. Will came on West. Despite his disabled ribs, he resumed his favorite sport—polo. His horse collided with another while in action and Will's opponent player accidentally smacked his injured ribs. Will fainted dead away, revived, and resumed play. Nope, that boy is never out. . . .

In William S. Hart's valuable collection of firearms, et cetera, is an axe that belonged to Daniel Boone.

NEW DRAMATIC LEAGUE HAS SUBSCRIPTION PLAN HERE

Speaking for the Messrs. Shubert and their allies in play producing, Frederick Donaghey states that Pittsburgh will have its own subscription theater in the autumn, and that for next season a program of six new plays will be given by the casts organized to perform them afterward in New York. The venture, to be known as the Dramatic League of Pittsburgh, will use either the Pitt or the Alvin.

The plan will be practically that of the successful Dramatic League of Chicago and the Professional Players of Philadelphia. The Chicago venture, says Mr. Donaghey, former dramatic editor in Chicago, will go into its second season with not fewer than 10,000 paid-in subscribers—this enrollment being, he adds:

ALL NEW PLAYS

"The practical manifestation of an interest created and held by the first season's program of five new plays, all shown in Chicago previously to be acted in New York. Not one of the five has yet been shown in Pittsburgh, and that not one of the five would have been acted as yet in Chicago had it not been for the practical operation of the 'organized audience' idea of the Dramatic League."

The design of the first season of the Dramatic League of Pittsburgh indicates that the six new plays will be given four weeks apart, beginning November 3, with the second play December 1, and so on. The first play will be A. W. Pinero's "Doctor Harmer's Holiday," the world premier of which will take place October 6 in Chicago.

Other plays held for the uses of the Dramatic League are "A Symphony in Two Flats," by Ivor Bovello; "The Roof," by John Galsworthy; "The Man in Possession," by H. M. Harwood; "Wolf! Wolf!" by Ferenc Molnar; "Our Pleasant Sins," by Tremaine Houston, and new pieces by Elmer Harris, Hesketh Pearson, A. A. Milne, St. John G. Ervine, Roland Petwee, and the late George Barr McCutcheon.

Novello is to come with his London company to act for the Dramatic League and the Professional Players.

ALLIED PRODUCERS

Among the play producers allied with the Messrs. Shubert, in the making of programs for the Dramatic League are William A. Brady, Gilbert Miller, Sam H. Harris, Brady and Wiman, Winthrop Ames, William Harris, Jr., Crosby Gaige and Arch Selwyn.

"We have been repeatedly asked in Chicago," testifies Mr. Donaghey, "and we shall be asked in Pittsburgh if the Dramatic League is something like the Theater Guild. It isn't, save as both ventures operate on subscription. The League gives new plays while they are new."

The subscription plan of the Dramatic League of Pittsburgh is to deliver to subscribers a seat for all six plays at a rate about 20 per cent under box-office prices.

90% of a sandwich is bread . .

so why not use the perfected loaf?

You can't make sandwiches that are really fine—no matter how delicious the filling may be—unless the bread itself is fine. For after all, the greatest part of a sandwich is bread.

Then let's have perfected bread that is fresh and tender, yet firm and even textured, so that it slices well. And above all, let us use bread that has that good "bread" taste which blends so nicely with any kind of filling.

The perfected loaf—Mother Hubbard Bread—is the finest bread you can get for sandwiches—because it is perfected. Get a loaf of Mother Hubbard Bread at your dealer's.

Homestead Schools Hold Picnic Today

Schools of Homestead, West Homestead and Mifflin Township were to hold their annual picnic at Kennywood Park today, with a program of games, athletics and other recreation arranged. Tomorrow the schools of Braddock and Rankin are to picnic at the park.

The committee in charge of the outing today is composed of James Hull, Homestead, S. S. Power, West Homestead, and Ruben Hallam and William Marshall, Mifflin Township.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

To My Successor

She made a choice and I was counted out
And that is part and parcel of the game,
Small use for any lad to storm about—
I know too well that love's a fitful flame;
You wear the ermine cloak that marks the king.
And I must go the way that losers take,
And bear as best I can the bitter sting
Of heartbreak, far too deep to ever shake.

So, spend the gay enchanted months with her,
And revel in the prize that you have won,
But, if a wistful waltz she hears, may stir
Old longings that she thought were spent and done;

Remember, even though you are a king—
That memory will go on whispering!

—Pagliacci.

The Retort Grand

Leonard Liebling, the New York American's musical oracle, is telling it. When the great pianist, Paderewski, was premier of Poland, he met the late Clemenceau at the Versailles Peace Conference.

"You are Paderewski, the great pianist?" asked Clem.

"Oui, monsieur," said the artist, as he bowed.

"And now you are a statesman?"

"Oui," ouí'd Paderewski as he stole the second bow.

"Heavens!" chirped Clemenceau, "what a comedown!"

'Always Belittlin' '

"Dear Walter," passionately writes Robert L. Ripley, "believe it or not, one of the things you never knew till now, is that we both get a break by going on the air at almost the same time each Monday evening. We don't have to listen to each other!!!"

Not New, But Clean

Kale Smith, one of the better entertainers in "Flying High," has her favorite gag. It's the one about the man who was felled by a hit-and-run driver at Forty-sixth street and Broadway. A traffic cop hastened to his aid.

"Would you know the man who struck you if you saw him again?" asked the officer.

"No," replied the victim, "but I'd recognize his laugh anywhere!"

Squelch

Add Merciless Truths

The Saturday Evening Post offers a story by James J. Walker, the town mayor. Speaking of boxing, His Honor says: "I like boxing. It is the one game in all the world in which a man is thrown out of the ring if he hits below the belt. You have to fight one fellow at a time, and he is always in front of you. You do not have to worry about anybody behind you. I wish as much could be said about activities removed from the field of sport."

Novelette

A column or two or ten ago it was mentioned here that many illustrators are finding the going so tough that they will paint your barn. A Park Rowgue writes: "Well, then, you know how tough it is. I saw your comment last week. Jack C——, who draws pictures for advertisements, has a sad one to unfold about the situation. Jack has met with financial reverses and cannot afford to drive his $4,000 Marmon, which he is peddling to a pal for $100. That's how he and his pretty wife are fixed.

"The other day he got a job to design a theatrical poster, the sort of thing he wouldn't have considered twice a little while ago. He went to see the show with his wife to get familiar with the plot and then do the poster. The play was about a commercial artist, who lived in Greenwich Village, and who after many struggles gets a contract to paint a beautiful lady with much exposed legs for a hosiery firm.

"The model sits in a crescent moon, draped in nothing much, her hair flying, her hands over one swell knee. It was obviously The Blue Stocking girl, made a brunette for the occasion. The guy in the show clicks with this picture and goes for a world-tour on the coin.

"Jack himself painted the 'Blue Moon Girl!' Many years ago! And at the time he thought it was such a lousy job he didn't even sign it!"

O, Mr. Wilstach!

Suggestions for Frank Wilstach's annual simile dictionary: Clara Shanafield's: "Still and formal beauty like a stopped fountain in a garden sealed by frost." . . . Joseph Hergesheimer's: "A mouth like a thin scar of a riding whip." . . . Ted Cook's: "Dangerous as chasing a woman without four-wheel brakes." . . . Irvin Cobb's: "Unpopular as a motor cop on Sunday." . . . Lola Ridge's: "Stagnate like a knot in time." . . . Bugs Baer's: "His belt was so loose he looked like he was skipping a rope." and H. I. Phillips' "Leaky as a congressman's trunk."

To Dear You

Your frowns and bitter words
Have strained my heart.
Speak . . . speak gently
Or the aching strands will part.
—G.

The Morning Mail

"Dear Peck's Blab Boy," writes "One of the 69th," "your very sad paragraph recently about the neglect of a much-medaled man who was overseas with the Sixty-ninth Infantry may create a wrong impression. This tailor-made hero avoids the Sixty-ninth Infantry, where they know him best, because they know him best. And the regiment is always willing to help a deserving man whose name is upon its rolls. Father Duffy won't help him. Neither will Col. Donovan. There must be a reason. And there must be a reason why 'our hero' has never attended an annual reunion of the Rainbow Division!"

The Ethel Barry-war

"I think," thinks Indignant Reader, "that you may well claim the title of 'Typical New Yorker' after the way you have shown your disrespect for some women. First you abused Ethel Barrymore, one of America's nicest ladies, and now you are picking on Florabel Muir, the newspaper girl, just because she is stupid enough to flatter you with imitation. You most likely would hit a child, I'll bet. Are you a woman-hater?"

Nope. But we will fight any woman our weight.

Myth or Mythter?

The "Thru the Looking Glass" column, conducted by Jeanne Garrett, in the Akron, O., Sunday Times of May 18, has made a startling discovery. To wit:

"Walter Winchell has built up a fictitious personality with weird spelling and 'tsk' gossip . . . he writes under different titles and his real name is Winchell Smith."

And they hang pictures!

By DARRELL V. MARTIN
Radio Editor.

SIR HUBERT WILKINS will explain his plan to cross the North Pole by submarine when he speaks on the Mobiloil program, WCAE at 8:30 tonight.

The explorer's aim to sail beneath the ice across the top of the world between Point Barrow, Alaska, and Spitzbergen—2,200 miles—will require about 42 days. He has worked out many unique safety devices and says the trip is entirely practical. The trip is proposed for the summer of 1931.

In his explorations of Polar regions Captain Wilkins has flown a total of 21,000 miles. He is said to have discovered more territory than any other man.

Virginia Harrison, soprano, will return to radio tonight after two months' absence due to a serious throat operation. She will sing two solos in the Gospel Hour on WCAE at 7 o'clock.

* * *

Rube Waddell, who often demonstrated his pitching ability by calling the outfielders in to rest when there was only one man to retire, was the greatest hurler of all times, according to a baseball poll being conducted by WEBM.

Rube pitched many times on the site now covered by mills of the Homestead Steel Works.

The British derby is to come to Pittsburgh via WJAS next Wednesday morning from 9:45 to 10:15.

* * *

Harry M. Squirrel Hill Words to the Metropolitan chimes heard every morning on WCAE are:

"Oh, Lord our God,
Be Thou our guide,
That by Thy help
No foot shall slide."

All profits accruing to Rudy Vallee from the "Maine Stein Song" are to be given the University of Maine for the erection of a new gymnasium on the campus.

The following telegram was received by a southern station from a man in North Carolina: "Please save me cost of broadcasting news throughout the United States and Canada daily for 10 days of couple charged with desertion STOP will then wire you full description both of scoundrel and my wife STOP."

* * *

The "Saturday Nighters" are to entertain KQV listeners Saturday night at 8:30 in the Pittsburgh station's first hour with WLW.

HELP KIDNEYS BY DRINKING MORE WATER

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood, and pass it on to the bladder, where it may irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, causing you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse again, there is difficulty in holding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which may quickly relieve your bladder irritation.

"Blood Will Tell"
No Charge for Consultation or Advice. KeepWell!
But After a BLOOD Test What?

That's the question that should interest every sufferer. The microscope tells a truthful story — the Laboratory tests are a matter of science—but what of THE TREATMENT? How soon can HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE be lowered to normal? Can the terrible pain of stomach troubles be relieved? Will the treatment stop the rheumatic pains racking the muscles, and will the nerve-breaking insomnia yield? Will unsightly skin ailments disappear under treatment? Can the workingman and his family afford these treatments? All these questions find happy answers in the Health Service offered by this Institute.

Symptoms of a faulty blood stream we are successfully correcting: Anemia, Rheumatism, Kidney Trouble, High Blood Pressure, Neuritis, Nervous Disorders, Skin Disorders — Psoriasis, Eczema, Acne, Impure Blood — Stomach Troubles. Over 35,000 patients (men and women) successfully treated at this Laboratory.

ICY POINT SALMON

Icy Point Salmon means just what the name implies—the firm, full-fleshed fish who make their habitat around the Icy Points of the Northern Pacific. The pick of the catch, the best of salmon tenderloins. Excellent flavor, healthful, nutritious and palatable.

Any salmon recipe is made more delicious with the use of ICY POINT SALMON.

ANY RINSO IN THE HOUSE? ITS THICK SUDS SOAK THE DISHES CLEAN IN NO TIME —COME ON, WE WON'T BE LATE

Stop washing dishes!

Soak them clean in Rinso suds

SAVE time and work three times a day—with Rinso! It makes dishwashing so easy, you'll be amazed!

It's the suds that do it. Rinso's suds are so thick and creamy—even in the hardest water—that grease goes like magic. A hot rinse, and dishes dry clear without wiping.

Use Rinso for pots and pans, and for all household cleaning. No grit. Cupful for cupful, this compact, granulated soap goes twice as far as puffed-up, lightweight soaps.

Try Rinso on washday; saves scrubbing and washes clothes whiter. Two sizes—get the BIG package from your grocer and follow the easy directions on the box.

VITALITY!

"SURE! I can finish that today"

A strong, healthy body and mind always respond to the occasion. Employers appreciate and recognize unfailing freshness—always ready—cheerfully ready to carry on—minus that "tired feeling."

DON'T let a weakened body hold you back. Prolonged, it may result in so-called premature old age. Today's happiness and friends may be gone tomorrow. Has it ever been made clear to you that a strong, healthy body depends upon the right number of rich, red-blood-cells?

Thousands of people have a low blood count—to this may be attributed skin troubles, "run-down" systems and even more serious ailments.

Healthy blood should contain about 5,000,000 red corpuscles to every cubic millimeter—those tiny workers which give blood its color and are carriers of nourishment to every part of the body. Rich, red blood is the body's protector against infection and disease. It is dangerous to let the blood count remain below normal.

If you tire easily—lack pep—if your skin is not clear—if your appetite is "gone"—you owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S.

When you get your red-blood-cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, lack of appetite, skin troubles disappear. You should get hungry again and sleep soundly; firm flesh should take the place of that which was once flabby. You should feel strong. Your nerves become steady.

S.S.S. helps Nature build rich, red blood. It improves the processes by which the body is nourished.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been helping people regain and retain their strength and charm. Thousand of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. Many have found it beneficial to take a few bottles at least once a year to keep their blood in good condition.

S.S.S. is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and is easily assimilated. All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

POLICE ACCUSED IN POLL ROW

Police Supt Peter P. Walsh ordered an investigation today into charges of the Board of Education that two policemen forced their way into the O'Hara school, Smallman street Wednesday and arrested the custodian.

J. Rodgers McCreery, school board solicitor, has been directed by members to bring charges against the policemen. This action was taken at a meeting of the board yesterday on the resolution of N. R. Criss.

The policemen named in the report are said to be Patrolmen William Kessler and Daniel Owens.

John Spore, district custodian reporting to the board yesterday, declared one of the "Strip" polling places situated in the school was locked early last Wednesday following the election by Custodian Bernard Duffy on orders of the election board. Ten minutes after it had been locked, Spore reported, the police broke in through a door and rifled the place. Duffy was arrested as a suspicious person and lodged in the Penn avenue Police Station.

Gets Nine Months On Hit-Run Charge

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—(AP.)—Elmer R. Dean, 32, former resident of Philadelphia, was sentenced to nine months in the county jail after he had pleaded guilty to a "hit-run" driving charge.

Dean was arrested November 29 after his car had figured in three accidents, in one of which Miss Florence Paxon, 22, was injured. He testified that he had no recollection of the accident in which the girl was injured and said that he had suffered frequent lapses of memory since being injured in the World War.

Liked Other Better, Wife Says; Sues

Her husband having ejected her from the house because, she testified, he wanted another woman, Aura M. Wendel, 600 Island avenue, was yesterday granted a divorce from Robert J. Wendel by Judge James R. Macfarlane. In the testimony given before the court, the wife could assign no other reason for her husband desiring to get rid of her. The Wendels were married in 1915 and lived together until May 13, 1929.

Exquisite Frock of Flowered Chiffon

Pattern 1922

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS.

Quite simple and easy to make, yet extremely smart and becoming, this model of printed sheer fabric. The graceful cape sleeves are cut in one with the bodice in slightly curved effect. Bands of the material finish the neck and form the belt, leaving graceful ends that tie in soft knots.

Pattern 1922 may be fashioned of flowered georgette, chiffon or voile. The delicious, feminine pastel shades are quite the vogue and may be purchased in any number of charming combinations.

May be obtained only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 14 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Estate of $485,000 Willed by Farmer

LANCASTER, Pa., May 28.—(AP.)—The will of Leander O. Wright, a retired farmer of Quarryville, who died three weeks ago, revealed an estate of $485,000. Of the amount, $473,000 was in personal property, and all but $30,000 was left to the widow. Wright retired three years ago and moved from his farm to Quarryville.

College Gives Girls Aviation Certificates

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., May 28.—(AP.)—What was believed to be the first certification by an American school of ground work in aviation by girls was made at the Castle Junior College. Among those receiving the certificates in ground work were Martha V. Kirk, Bellflower, Ill., and Vera Lobitz, Cincinnati.

FIRE KILLING 5 LAID TO RUM

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 28.—(AP.)—State fire investigators today delved into reports that a liquor party was responsible for a fire which yesterday destroyed the Coliseum, a large auditorium, with loss of $300,000 and took a toll of at least five lives.

Hours of searching for the bodies of additional persons believed caught under falling walls in the annex of the structure, where 150 new motor cars were housed, lay ahead of rescue parties.

State Fire Marshal C. R. O'Neal was directing an investigation of a rumored drinking party in the north end of the building shortly before the flames were discovered Tuesday morning.

Bodies recovered were those of R. A. Mason, 29, a fireman; Dave Meszerl, 34, packing plant employe; Gordon Smith, 24, automobile salesman; Tom Smith, 19, nephew of Assistant Fire Chief A. E. Wilkerson, and an unidentified Negro. Three firemen were injured, none dangerously.

Downtown Basement Fire Damage $1,000

Fire in the basement of Simon Brahm Sons' building at 204-206 First avenue resulted in damage estimated at $1,000 last night. The entire structure, a four-story brick, was filled with smoke when downtown fire companies arrived.

Battalion Chief William Graves, who estimated the loss, said rubbish in the basement ignited. The fire was confined to the basement.

RHEIMS' HEROIC BISHOP DEAD

RHEIMS, France, May 28.—(AP.)—Cardinal Lucon, archbishop of Rheims, 87-year-old Catholic prelate who stayed in Rheims throughout its World War bombardment by the Germans, after most of the population had abandoned it, died here today.

He had been ill with bronchial pneumonia.

During the German bombardment Cardinal Lucon remained and counted the shells that struck the famous cathedral.

The cardinal was created and proclaimed in December, 1907. In 1914, during the war, he sent a message to the Pope denying that the French were using Rheims Cathedral for military purposes.

In 1919 Cardinal Lucon conducted President Wilson on a visit to Rheams and two years later he officiated at services commemorating American assistance in the devastated regions.

In 1920 he had a pastoral letter read in memory of the American dead.

27th Ward Arranges Memorial Services

Memorial Day exercises under auspices of the Women's Community Association of the Twenty-seventh Ward will be held at 11 a. m. Friday at Legion Park, Brighton road and Davis avenue. Coroner W. J. McGregor will give the address. A double quartet of Oliver High School students will sing. The Rev. Charles W. Fulton, of the Eleventh United Presbyterian Church, will give the invocation and the Rev. Walter J. Marshfield, of All Saints Episcopal Church, the benediction. Mrs. James Robertson is chairman of the committee in charge.

FILIPINO GROUP ASKS FREEDOM

PARIS, May 28.—(AP.)—One hundred Filipinos, representing themselves as delegates from the different Filipino colonies of the world, have just ended what was described as the "First Philippine Independence Congress," at which "immediate, complete and absolute independence" for the Philippines was demanded.

A resolution to that effect will be communicated to the American Congress through the resident commissioners of the Philippines in Washington. The resolution will be forwarded by Dr. Francisco Villanueva, Jr., who presided at the Congress.

It sets forth that the Filipinos are better prepared to govern themselves than many other people, and says:

"So far, the Americans have been fair and just with the Filipinos and have been fulfilling one by one their promises.

"The time has come for the American nation to finish her noble, altruistic work to carry out the sacred promise contained in the Jones law."

Man Killed by Cab, Widow Gets $10,000

Mrs. Elizabeth Blume, Millvale, whose husband, Albert Blume, was killed in a taxicab accident, received a $10,000 verdict in Common Pleas Court, against the Pittsburgh Transportation Company. Blume met death October 25, 1927, while walking in Grant avenue, Millvale. The taxicab ran on the sidewalk, knocking him down, it was testified. The widow asked for $25,000. Her counsel was A. M. Oliver. Judge A. B. Reid tried the case.

What a Different World when Appetite is Keen!

YOUR whole attitude toward food changes when appetite is keen. Your own doctor will tell you it is just as important to enjoy your food as to eat it.

Some folks just eat because it's meal-time. To them, eating is mechanical—a problem, not a pleasure.

But what a treat awaits these men and women when once they realize how sharpened appetite lends magic flavor to every blessed morsel.

To dull and drowsy appetites Flaxolyn cries "Awake!" It is a sluggish, stubborn appetite indeed, that will not respond to the effective stimulation which Flaxolyn can bring.

But Flaxolyn is not alone an appetizer. It is a formula with other important functions, direct and indirect. Yet Flaxolyn is gentle in its action. It is a combination of dried herbs and bile salts with highly approved medicinal extracts. No drastic or habit-forming drugs.

Flaxolyn contains Sarsaparilla Roots, Valerian (from Belgium), Dandelion Roots, Licorice (from Spain), Aloes (from Barbadoes Islands), Ginger, Senna Leaves, Buchu Leaves (from Africa), and other potent herbs.

Right here in this neighborhood Flaxolyn has proved a tremendous success. Thousands seeking keen appetite, richer sleep, clearer skin and energy unhampered by constipation's tax upon the body, are today using Flaxolyn. Many of these men and women are your own age.

Perhaps you, too, will benefit by the Flaxolyn formula. Why not try it and see? Flaxolyn is Free if you personally are not convinced it is all and more than claimed for it.

To The Public

the SUN-TELEGRAPH extends its sincerest thanks and appreciation

THE READERS of this newspaper have noticed, soon after the first of each month, full page statements of the fact that again, during the preceding month, the Sun-Telegraph enjoyed a remarkable gain in advertising linage. In all probability these same readers have wondered from time to time just why such statistical reports should be of interest to them. In what manner are they concerned by the monthly advertising gains of their favorite newspaper?

IN EXPLANATION thereof, we wish, first of all, to point out the fact that advertising gains, on the part of any publication, are a direct barometer of its success. And, logically, being successful, that publication is better able to supply its readers with the very best in news, special features, editorials, etc.

THEN too, these detailed linage reports should interest the reading public because they, more so than the advertising world, determine the nature of these statements. Fundamentally, it is always the reader and not the advertiser who makes or breaks a publication. Advertisers act on circulation figures. Circulation grows only when the public has placed its confidence in the news medium. The amount of advertising in the Sun-Telegraph is constantly on the increase simply because the results thereof show a proportionate gain. To our readers we owe our sincerest thanks and appreciation for both the quality and quantity of those results.

We trust that in the future our monthly statements of Advertising Linage Gains will bring the same sense of pride to our Reading Public as they do to us.

And please bear in mind that all of this increased advertising linage is but another step toward giving you the most complete news of the merchandising world. We trust that you will join with us in our pride at having practically every worthwhile advertiser represented completely in the Sun-Telegraph—your own newspaper.

WIFE GONE, SUES FOR $1,500,000

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP.)—J. Morgan Corbett, Boston real estate operator, arrested on a charge of conspiracy to kidnap James Quinn, aviator, has brought a $1,500,000 suit against Quinn and five other defendants for conspiracy to take his wife from him, an attorney disclosed last night.

Corbett named Quinn co-respondent in a divorce action he filed in Boston last fall against his wife, who, Corbett said, has been missing since the first of the year.

Corbett, accused by Quinn of having hired three men to kidnap him in an effort to discover the whereabouts of Mrs. Corbett, was taken to the office of the Bronx district attorney, where he offered to waive immunity and testify before a grand jury.

The three men who Quinn charged kept him a prisoner for three days in a shack in a lonely part of the Bronx and tortured him, are Arthur Hamel, 29, Haverhill, Mass.; Edward Kendall, 29, North Reading, Mass.; and Edward Kline, 30, of New York.

U. S., BRITISH IN RADIO DEAL

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP.)—An arrangement whereby British and American radio programs will be exchanged was announced here by Henry Bellows, vice president of the Columbia Broadcasting Company, on his return from Europe.

Bellows said that, with the aid of Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, a contract had been drawn between the Columbia and the British broadcasting companies under which they will exchange programs. The British company is non-commercial and broadcasts no advertising. Therefore arrangements was made for the American company to pay a small fee for British programs and give its programs for British broadcast without fees.

Ambassador Dawes was much interested in the plan, Bellows said, and will act in any advisory capacity on the programs to be exchanged.

Bellows also said he expected to complete within a few months similar negotiations with German, French and Italian broadcasting companies.

Cornstalks Concern In Receivership

DANVILLE, Ill., May 28.—(AP.)—Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley appointed P. E. Butcher and Clint C. Tilton, of Danville, as receivers for the Cornstalks Products Company, Inc., a Delaware corporation with headquarters in New York and a plant at Tilton, Ill.

The appointments were made with the consent of the company. The action is described as a friendly receivership in equity to conserve the assets pending a reorganization.

Wife and Child Escape Flames By Plunge

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., May 28.—Jerry Parker, occupant of the Ohio river houseboat Acorn, moored at the wharf here, was compelled to throw his wife and 2-year-old daughter into the chilly waters of the Ohio to save them when the boat was enveloped in flames in a gasoline explosion. Firemen rescued the two from the river.

Man and Wife Die Within Two Weeks

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., May 28.—Death has claimed both Mr. and Mrs. George Dickie, of 1234 Victoria avenue, within the past two weeks. They leave nine children, three of whom reside at home. Five of the six others are married, while an unmarried daughter lives in Cleveland.

Mr. Dickie, 55, died in the Citizen's General Hospital here less than two weeks after the death of his wife May 11 in a Cleveland Hospital.

RECIPES

Ham and Cheese Sandwiches

Spread a slice of Country Club Sandwich Bread with Country Club Sandwich Spread. For the ham sandwich, arrange a slice of boiled ham; for the cheese, a slice of Swiss cheese. Put the second slice of bread in place. Wrap each sandwich in waxed paper.

Potato Salad

4 cups boiled potatoes, 1 cup celery, parsley, pimento, hard boiled eggs, Country Club Salad Dressing.

Cut cold boiled potatoes into cubes. Add creamed, chopped celery. Mix with Country Club Salad Dressing. Garnish with chopped parsley, pimento and hard boiled eggs cut lengthwise.

Country Club Deviled Eggs

6 hard cooked eggs, 3 tablespoons Country Club Sandwich Spread, 1 teaspoon vinegar (more if liked tart).

Place the eggs on to cook in cold water and bring slowly to the boil. Simmer or keep just below the boiling point for 15 minutes. Shake the pan occasionally while the eggs are cooking, in order that the yolks be in the center when cooked and not on the side. Plunge the eggs into cold water and remove the shell. Cut in halves lengthwise. Remove the yolks and mash with a fork; add the Country Club Sandwich Spread and the Country Club Vinegar. Refill the whites and put together in pairs. Now wrap each egg in a piece of waxed paper, the ends of which are twisted.

BABY IS TICKET TO SUNDAY FILM SHOW

Stanley Theater Ushers In 'Family Week' With Special Matinee Feature

Your baby will be the price of admission to a theater!

Since the advent of sound and dialogue productions, a stringent rule has been in effect at all theaters prohibiting the admission of babies in arms.

But now! Here is a special show for babies alone!

As the initial feature of "Family Month," which is being celebrated by all Warner Brothers theaters during June, the Sun-Telegraph and the Stanley theater will give a special "baby matinee" next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock for babies and their parents.

A ticket for this event cannot be purchased. But any couple coming to the Stanley Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock with a baby in arms will be admitted!

Every mother and father of the city or country, or the state, too, for that matter, is invited to bring their baby—or babies, as the case may be—to the Stanley for the purpose of letting them see and hear their first talking film.

What will seven-months-old Jackie do upon seeing a thrilling airplane race? Will he clap his hands? Gurgle? Holler? Try to climb off your lap onto the floor? Laugh? Reach out his hand for the screen? Or will he just sit there as if nothing out of the ordinary was occurring?

MAGILL AGAIN K. OF C. HEAD

ERIE, Pa., May 28.—(AP.)—John R. P. Magill, of Philadelphia, was renamed state deputy of the Pensylvania Council, Knights of Columbus, at the closing business session of the thirty-third annual convention here yesterday.

Other officers re-elected were Bernard N. Hanlon, New Castle, secretary; John M. Boissou, Pittsburgh, treasurer; Ralph A. Dungan, Philadelphia, state advocate; Thomas J. Noonan, Mahanoy City, warden; Very Rev. Joseph M. Corrigan, Philadelphia, chaplain.

Delegates to the supreme national convention at Boston in August were William J. Carey, Erie; F. X. Weaver, McSherrystown; Dr. William J. Gatti, Punxsutawney; Samuel J. Fisher, Sr., Philadelphia; John P. Killeen, Pittsburgh; James S. Gosner, Philadelphia; Leo A. Ivory, Braddock; Dr. A. A. Whalen, Freeland; Lawrence G. Dana, past state deputy, Derrick City, and State Deputy Magill.

Alternates designated were John Kilcullen, Bethlehem; T. J. Kinsley, Renovo; C. E. Dolan, Philadelphia; James A. Boyle, Philadelphia, and Howard J. Kelly, Philadelphia.

OFFICIALS FINED IN RUM CASE

CHEYENNE, Wyo., May 28.—(AP.)—Seven of the nine city officials of Thermopolis, Wyo., indicted on a charge of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law, changed their pleas of not guilty to guilty in Federal Court and each was sentenced by Judge Blake Kennedy to pay a fine of $250.

C. W. Axtell, attorney for the defendants, in informing the court the seven municipal officials wished to change their pleas, said they were technically guilty, but were not guilty of any willful or moral wrong. He said the defendants, in levying fines upon bootleggers and having the revenue placed in the city treasury, had the interest of Thermopolis foremost in mind.

The seven fined are Mayor Charles Hoofnagle; Mike C. Savaresy, mayor from 1928 to 1930; Fred C. Hank, former police magistrate; Ray Foutch, former city marshal; C. W. Gibson, former city clerk; Walker Hummel, present police magistrate, and James D. Atfield, present chief of police.

BROTHERS HELD IN KIDNAPING

HAMMOND, La., May 28—(AP.)—Arresting five sons of a wealthy furniture dealer, authorities acted swiftly today against the men in the abduction and tarring and feathering of Dr. S. L. Newsom, prominent dentist.

The Tangipapoa Parish grand jury was in session and it was indicated that charges naming Newton, Gordon, Charles, Ike and Henry Starnes would be presented for action immediately.

Dr. Newsom accused the five brothers of kidnaping him and covering his body with creosote and feathers because they said he had been attentive to one of their wives.

Affidavits brought formal charges of conspiracy to commit a felony, hurling an acid on the person, wounding less than mahem, assault with a deadly weapon and assault and battery against the five. Each supplied $10,000 bond.

LABOR TO BACK DAVIS, PINCHOT

ALTOONA, Pa., May 28.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania Federation of Labor last night went on record in favor of modifying the national prohibition law and indorsed the candidacies of Secretary of Labor James J. Davis for senator and Gifford Pinchot for governor. A debate prefaced approval of Pinchot's candidacy by a vote of 86 to 39.

The federation voted to support only such candidates for Congress who declare themselves in favor of modification of the Volstead Law "in line and conformative with the expression of the American Federation of Labor."

The resolution referred to a letter sent President Hoover by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, in which Green pointed out the economic value of modification and urged the manufacture and distribution of "wholesale" beer containing 2.75 per cent alcohol by weight.

INTENDED TO HELP KEEP ONE WELL

World's Tonic Created to Enable People to Hold Health

Keeping well is the most serious business people have to attend to. With health they can do most everything; without they are handicapped in most everything. Exposure to changing temperatures, to frigs and dampness, is one of the hardest strains the body must undergo, and one that we are subject to many times over. Moreover, we are inclined to neglect Nature's distress signals when the body needs help. We say, "Oh, it is only a little cold," and we go on for weeks while the body is making a most strenuous effort to overcome this "little cold." Often we permit these colds to get chronic, and then catarrhal conditions seize hold of the body: first nose, then throat, then stomach, then kidneys and bowels—it is an old story to the observant.

Yet many of us go on unheeding the frantic signals our bodies are making for help until we have undermined our health. Then we try to treat the symptoms only. We take this remedy for indigestion, or that one for constipation, never thinking that the trouble has spread through our body, and that the only way we can overcome it is by a constitutional treatment that will restore the balance to all the organs. Give the body good rich blood and it will overcome most anything. Clog that blood with the by-products of catarrh in the lungs, head and digestive tract, and one will not get well.

It was a study of these very conditions that led to the creation of World's Tonic. Long research showed that our people are rapidly becoming victims of this catarrhal condition and that few received the right kind of treatment. World's Tonic was intended to help meet this very need. You have only to look over your own community to see how well it has succeeded. Thousands of testimonials as to its value are being published from people in this and adjoining states. If you want to keep well, or to free yourself from any of the above-mentioned conditions, a bottle of this good medicine will prove its own value. You can obtain it from Dow's, Mac-Liggett's, Mayflower, or any other first class drug store. (A-39)

CHILDREN HONOR CIVIL WAR VETERANS

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

Dice-shooters probably will be surprised to learn that theirs is not a modern sport, if it is a sport at all. We have indisputable evidence to prove that as long ago as the Fourth Century the cubes were not unknown in Greece.

Our evidence is a statue in Carnegie Museum—"The Apoxyomenos," which represents a Grecian wrestler. The gentleman is shown removing, with his left hand, the olive oil from his arms. Between two fingers of his outstretched right hand there is—a die. The figure five is plainly discernible in dots, even as today.

We asked John O'Connor, Jr., the museum explainer, to explain this statue. Why, we wanted to know, was the gentleman wiping something from his arm and at the same time holding aloft a die. Well, said Mr. O'Connor, this fellow was a wrestler and it seems that in those days the wrestlers spread olive oil over themselves before the match to add to their elusiveness. Now the match was over and this fellow was removing the olive oil.

That, of course, does not explain the die. Mr. O'Connor said he guessed the wrestler was on his way to a dice game.

Traffic cops dislike most the chorus of horn-honking which impatient motorists set up when they feel they are being delayed, justly or unjustly. One downtown cop has an excellent cure. The other day he directed a furious gaze at a line of stalled but noisy autos and asked threateningly, "Somebody want a punch in the nose?" There were no takers.

We have a success story. He was the candy man. Each day he trudged from building to building selling nickel bars from his suitcases. In time he prospered. He opened his first little shop, gave up the daily beat. His success was great. He opened his second shop, third, fourth, fifth . . .

Then came the day when he was proprietor of a long chain of candy shops. He became a millionaire many times. When he died he made Page One.

Some parts of that story are true. The man actually exists. Right now he is still going from building to building with his wares. But Sidewalks has such confidence in the basic soundness of this country that we feel the gentleman will make good our predictions. We merely thought we might as well write the story ahead of time. Sorry.

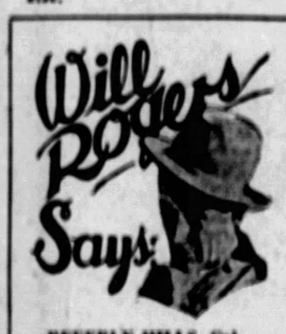
Back from five months in the Balkans, Capt. Ludwig von Fuehrer, a notable among hunters and bird collectors, returned with 300 birds for Carnegie Museum. If Capt. von Fuehrer has a home it is Pittsburgh. He lives here with his distinguished son-in-law, Milan Petrovits, the artist, but he refuses to stay put. Three days after he returned from the Balkans he was off for Yellowstone Park to collect more birds, this time for Uncle Sam.

In the Balkans he was marooned alone for two weeks on a flooded swamp island, living in a humble shelter house. No food, he faced starvation. For company he gazed hungrily at large grouse and wild pigeons. Fortunately the waters receded in time to allow the captain to return to Pittsburgh so that he might leave for somewhere else.



BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 28.

The Supreme Court decided that it was not illegal to be the buyer of booze. In other words, they said that your freedom was not in jeopardy, but your life was. They say you can buy it, but it's illegal to transport it. You got to gulp it right where you made the deal for it.

Now how are you going to get liquor to your mouth without transporting it. To really be within strict keeping of the law, the bootlegger is going to have to pour it into you and you are not allowed to lift a hand to assist. Yours,

WILL.

IMPROVEMENTS IN OVERBROOK OUTLAWED

City Has No Right to Pay For Work Ordered by Old Borough, Solicitor Rules

Hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of improvements were authorized illegally by Overbrook Council before that borough was annexed to Pittsburgh, City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt has informed Council.

The city has no legal right to pay the contractors who did the work and furnished the materials, the solicitor's report said. He declared that there not only is no legal liability, but that Council's own bonding power would be impaired by action in the way of paying the debts he declared were illegally sustained.

BILL BRINGS ACTION

The crux of Waldschmidt's contention was that, after obligations and indebtedness had reduced the borrowing power of Overbrook's Council to less than $2,500, it authorized street improvements totaling about $307,437.

The matter was brought forcibly to Council's attention yesterday when the Pittsburgh Paving Company asked payment of certificates of indebtedness for work done totaling $96,296. Attorney J. J. McGrath, representing the company, said that under a law passed by the 1929 session of the Legislature, the borough had the right to authorize such contracts provided the borough engineer signed an affidavit stating the assessments against benefited property would pay the cost.

WOULD DIVIDE MONEY

This was done, McGrath insisted, adding that the money will be in the hands of the city as soon as the Board of Viewers finish the work of assessment. The constitutionality of that laws was questioned by Waldschmidt and a number of councilmen and no definite action was taken.

Waldschmidt suggested that Council repeal all ordinances adopted by Overbrook Council and at the same time arrange to hold all funds secured by property assessments in order to prorata the amounts received among the claimants. He said the work ordered was in excess of the borough's councilmanic credit and illegal. The total cost to the city would be less than $50,000, said McGrath, predicting that the rest will be received from the awards of the viewers.

BELL EXCHANGE TO BE COSTLY

Central office equipment to cost more than $1,000,000 is to be placed in the Bell Telephone building under construction at 719 Warrington avenue, William Bradford, division manager, announced today. The building is designed to house a new dial central office for the Lafayette and Hemlock exchanges. It is to be completed next February.

When the building is completed workmen will begin installing in the central office equipment. This phase of the program will require nearly a year. The project, including purchase of the site, erection of the building and the new equipment, will make the total expenditure more than $1,800,000, Bradford said.

Dr. Lewin to Give Kindergarten Picnic

Dr. A. L. Lewin, of the Board of Public Education, will give his annual picnic to children of kindergarten schools on the Lewin farm, William Penn highway, June 11. Children will attend from the following schools: Ralston, Penn, Springfield, McKee, Andrews, Woolslair, Washington, Bayard, Foster, O'Hara, Lawrence, Fort Pitt, Morningside, Garfield, Sunnyside, McCandless, Rogers and McCleary.

School for Blind Graduation June 10

The baccalaureate sermon of the Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind will be preached by the Rev. Dr. Albert Edward Day, in Christ Methodist Episcopal Church, Sunday morning, June 8. Graduation exercises will be held June 10 in the school, Bellefield avenue and Bayard street.

Underhill Prompts Further Trouble for Ken

CHAPTER XLIII.

A few weeks later Ken entered Cecile's boudoir, his face pale with anger, lips nervously compressed.

Though it was the middle of the afternoon he found Cecile in the hands of her maid.

Marriage and motherhood had made little difference to Cecile's habits. Her beauty was still her chief concern. It was rather a startling apparition which greeted her husband's eyes today. Swathed in a sheet Cecile lay on the day bed and her face was an astonishing dark green.

At Ken's voice she opened her eyes and made frantic movements with her hands which the gaunt Swedish maid interpreted grudgingly.

"Mrs. Gleason is having a clay beauty mask, sir. If she talks she'll crack it."

"I'm sorry to interrupt at such a time, Cecile," Ken's voice was tight, "but it seems impossible to get a word with you at any other hour and I must speak with you. In private."

With immobile face but blazing eyes Cecile parted her lips long enough to say furiously, "You'll have to wait. This must not be disturbed for an hour."

"An hour will be too late for my purpose," Ken replied firmly. "I've tried to see you all day. I must ask you to manage this."

A cry of warning from the maid. "Don't frown, Mrs. Gleason!"

At any other time it would have tickled Ken's quick sense of humor to watch Cecile trying to be angry with a serene face. She struggled up, wound in the sheet and waved the maid away.

"Oh, all right! Go on out, Alma. I'll ring when I want you."

The woman went, resentment showing in every line of her broad back.

Dislikes Cyril

Cecile Scowls at Ken's Remarks

"Now," said Cecile when they were alone, "perhaps you'll explain the reason for this intrusion!"

Ken raised his brows. "Rather a strong word, isn't it? I intruded—as you call it—because you make it impossible for me to see you at any other time. One would think you deliberately tried to avoid me, Cecile. And I had to see you. I just learned that you invited Cyril Underhill to our dinner party tonight."

"Is my future life to be guided by your likes and dislikes?"

"That's not fair!" A hint of warmth creeping in despite Ken's effort to remain calm. "It isn't that I want to force my private tastes on you. But you know how I dislike that fellow. A male gossip . . . a charlatan . . ."

"That is your opinion. Others receive him. He was at Coralie Gaines' party last week."

Ken's face darkened. "You've only made his case worse in my eyes. Other people whom we know—and value. Look, Mary Eastwood never invites him. You never see him at the Forsythe's—"

Cecile forgot the injunction of her maid and the green clay split in a thousand cracks as she scowled.

The Shopgirl

Says Ken Sneaks Off To See Her

"Those wash-outs! Do you think I care who they invite? Cyril wouldn't go to their dull parties anyway——"

Ken struggled to keep his temper. "I'm asking you, Cecile—put it as a favor if you wish, to please not invite this fellow to the house. I've heard some of his remarks about women and I don't intend my wife shall be gossiped about."

Cecile's smile was ghastly. "Oh, you are giving orders?"

Ken flushed. "An order to protect my wife and my home from a slanderer's tongue."

Again the white teeth flashed in the dark green mask.

"You are suddenly solicitous about your wife," she said softly, and there was the hiss of a cat in her voice. "Perhaps if you worried more about your own reputation it would be more to the point."

He regarded her with narrowed eyes. "What are you driving at?"

"You know." Still in the soft tone. "But I am not surprised to know that it startles you to learn that I do as well! Well . . . . we understand each other, Ken. I'll speak even more clearly. I'll allow you so much leeway—" she held her long white hands a short space apart. "So-o-o much, Ken." She nodded her head. "that is all. Therefore, you can see, as far as Cyril is concerned—he comes to the dinner tonight. And you will be pleasant to him."

Evidence

Cecile Has Part of Broken Necklace

"The man's eyes were blazing. "I don't know what you're talking about. And if that fellow comes here—"

"Please!" She held up one hand in affected weariness. "Don't shout. There is no need of taking the servants into the argument." Then, with a sudden furious change, her eyes glared and her teeth were bared. "You'll do as I say, do you hear? If you don't you'll be sorry! You'll—you'll—" She hesitated, at a loss to vent her spleen. "Look here," she went on in a low, furious voice, "as long as you can go sneaking off to visit your shopgirl, I'll invite whom I please—"

Amazement in his glance. "Why . . . what are you talking about?"

"I'll show you!" The sheet snapped at her heels as she ran over to the dresser. She flung back the lid of a jewel case. Picked up something between thumb and forefinger; held it out to him.

"There! Didn't know I held the ace, did you?"

She put the tiny object on her palm. A small flower, made of seed pearls.

"The baby's nurse found this in his hand one Sunday after you had taken him out . . . calling on your shopgirl! I recognized it at once. I remember the day Jeanette bought that chain for the shop. It was imported, the only one of its kind. Now, what have you to say?" Her eyes were half closed in triumph as she faced him, so that they looked like pale slits in a mask of jade.

Will Hold Ken

Says She Will Not Give Him Up

Ken's eyes had gone bleak. "Just this—no matter what you may choose to think, that meeting was entirely harmless. If fault lies anywhere, it is with me. I was weak enough to see her. But you mustn't blame her—"

Cecile's lip curled. "Blame her! I don't consider her! But—I think this makes us quits!"

The man's mouth tightened. "No. It doesn't enter into the case. I am making no pact with you, Cecile. I repeat the request I came in here to make. I do not wish Cyril Underhill received in this house. I have asked you to do me the consideration—"

"And I——" Cecile said through her teeth, "I have decided that he shall come here whenever I wish! If you make a scene I'll drag in your shopgirl——"

"Leave her out!"

"Has she ever been out?" asked Cecile with false sweetness. "Do you think I'm a fool? I know she was trying to get you. And I'll tell you something further and you can pass it to her. You're mine! She can't ever get anything of mine away from me! Her little game will do her no good! I'll never give you a divorce. Tell her that for me!"

VETERANS HOSTS TODAY TO PUPILS

H. MacDONALD R. N. SPOHN

Mr. MacDonald, Soldiers' Memorial Hall attache, and Mr. Spohn, commander of Post 157, G. A. R. Today they'll entertain more than 1,400 school children in a Memorial Day program.

16 SCHOOLS JOIN IN TRIBUTE

Reverence Paid Veterans At Special Exercises Held At Memorial Hall Today

Tribute to those who answered Lincoln's call to save the Union during hectic days of the Civil War was paid today by Pittsburgh public school students at special services in Soldiers' Memorial Hall.

Sixteen institutions were represented.

The exercises were held in the main auditorium, with R. N. Spohn, president of Post No. 157, G. A. R., master of ceremonies. Spohn, an attendant at Memorial Hall, escorted the visitors on a tour of inspection of the priceless Civil War relics housed there after the services end.

FOUR SPEAKERS

Speakers included William E. Ralston, Veterans of Foreign Wars; the Rev. Albert E. Ray, R. M. Sherrard, associate superintendent of schools, and W. B. McFall, Jr.

The invocation was asked by Dr. Grafton T. Reynolds.

Dr. Will Earhart, director of music in the public schools, and Oscar W. Demmler, director of the orchestras, co-operated with the G. A. R. in the services.

Schools taking part included Dilworth, Forbes, Frick Teachers' Training, Frick Elementary, Fulton, Friendship, Holmes, Liberty Junior High, Linden, Minersville, Park Place, Regent Square, Rogers, Soho, Sterrett and Wightman.

LIST GROWS LARGER

The list of Civil War dead to which tribute was paid his grown much larger since last Memorial Day, according to C. H. W. Ruhe, superintendent of Memorial Hall.

Out of several thousand who answered the call to colors in 1861, but approximately 160 are still living. Within the past 12 months, Ruhe says, more than two score have answered taps.

Ninety of those still living are members of the Allegheny County Association, Grand Army of the Republic. There are 13 posts here.

WOMAN CALLED IN CONTEMPT

Cora B. Klein is to appear before Judge James B. Drew in Common Pleas Court to show cause why she should not be adjudged in contempt for alleged statements she is said to have made to jurors hearing the damage suit of her father, R. M. Curry, against the Wheeling, Pittsburgh and Baltimore Railroad.

Judge Drew ruled that the woman should appear after a petition had been presented by the railroad's attorneys in which it was alleged that she told jurors of facts that were irrelevant to the issue. It is alleged that she talked in an effort to secure a verdict in an excessive amount.

The father sued the railroad for damages in connection with the condemnation of seven acres of his land in Snowden township. The case was heard last week and on Thursday a verdict awarded the father $12,000.

Injured by Auto, Sues for $25,000

Oliver Thompson, Jr., knocked down in Wylie avenue, April 6 last, by an automobile owned by Henry P. Payne, has sued him for $25,000 damages for injuries to his face, nose, eyes and mouth. The action was brought by the father of the boy, on account of him being a minor. The plaintiff lives at 2906 Wylie avenue.

Harvard Escapes Censure Over Scrubwomen

BOSTON, May 28.—(AP.)—Resolutions of protest of the discharge of scrub women at Harvard University last December were refused adoption on voice vote in the House of Representatives.

Representative Hearn of East Boston, sponsor of the resolutions, asked if the university or its agents were going to be allowed to flaunt the minimum wage law. Representative Estabrook, speaking for the committee on rules which had adversely reported the resolutions, said he saw no effort on the part of Harvard to flaunt the law, that it merely desired to change its system. It was an individual matter, he said.

MEMORIAL DAY AT EMSWORTH

Memorial Day services will be held at 9:30 a. m., Friday, at the Soldiers' Plot, Emsworth, under auspices of the Emsworth Mothers of Democracy.

Brief addresses will be given by Burgess W. C. Anderson and the Rev. Owen W. Pratt. The Rev. J. W. Springer will offer prayer and pronounce the benediction. A bugle corps will be directed by John Broadfield, assisted by the firing squad of North Boroughs Post No. 116, American Legion. A male chorus led by E. A. Brunner will sing.

Falls Through Hole, Suit Asks $15,000

For injuries he sustained when he fell through an opening in the sidewalk, Joseph Paper, 825 Whiteside road, has brought suit against the Caplan Baking Company for $15,000 damages for hurts to his head, chest, hips and arms. The accident happened August 31, 1929, in front of 16 Townsend street. His counsel is Ben Paul Brasley.

CONVICT 3 IN HOMES FRAUD

A verdict of guilty of conspiracy to defraud has been returned in Criminal Court against three men connected with the General Homes Company, including David S. Hammond, 910 Fordham avenue, president; Arthur L. Brown, Fordham avenue, general manager, and D. E. Walker, 916 Berkshire avenue, Brookline, salesman.

They are to be sentenced Monday by Visiting Judge J. Frank Graff, of Armstrong County.

Samuel Aoia, 1334 Western avenue, brought the charge and testified that he contracted with the company last August to build him a $9,000 house in Ingham street, paying $1,100 down for the lot and advancing $1,500 as first payment on the house. He testified they did not begin construction nor return him his money, and that he had them arrested January 14.

It was testified that after the warrants had been served work was begun on the house and Toia was given a deed for the lot on February 28. On March 3 a receiver was appointed for the company.

The defendants testified they had the house partly built and did not return Aoia his $2,600 for that reason.

Leaking Water Line Wins $1,376 Rebate

Council has approved an exoneration of $1,376 for water rent to Shadyside Academy and Fox Chapel Golf Club. It was recommended by James W. Gray, chairman of the board of water assessors, who reported a leak for which the properties were not responsible.

TELETYPE MEN TO GET PAY

The state police teletype operators, who have been working without pay for six months, are going to have a fat payday soon. The county commissioners have approved a $6,300 appropriation to take care of three operators in the County Detective Bureau.

There was an argument between former District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner and the commissioners as to who should pay the operators. The result was that nobody paid them. The operators' salaries yesterday were set at $175 a month.

Swimming Pools to Open On Decoration Day

The city's swimming pools will open at 10 a. m. Decoration Day, with the possible exception of the new West Penn pool which is nearing completion.

From that hour until noon the pools will be open to boys under 16 years of age. After an hour's lunch period the same lads will have possession from one until two o'clock. From then until 3:30 older boys and men can take their splashes, girls under 16 going in from 3:30 until 4:30 and older girls from then until 6 o'clock.

The same schedule will be in effect Saturday from now on, the usual schedule being in effect daily and Sundays. The pools will be open Sundays, according to W. C. Batchelor, head of the Bureau of Recreation.

The pools are located at Arlington Playground, Sterling and Eccles street; Homewood, Hamilton and Lang avenues; Katherine Kline, Washington boulevard and Burpee street; Kennard, Kirkpatrick and Reed streets; Leslie, Forty-sixth and Butler street; Olympia, Virginia avenue and Olympia street; Ormsby, South Twenty-second and Sidney street; Phillips, Carrick; Schenley, Schenley Park; Sheridan, Surban near Sherwood; Magee, Greenfield avenue; West Penn, Thirtieth and Brereton street; Lake Elizabeth, West Park; Roberts Lang, Woods Run; Riverview Park; Troy Hill, Goettman street, and Sue Murry, East Park.

The summer recreation centers and playgrounds will be opened July 7, Batchelor announced.

County Provides Widening Of Ardmore Boulevard

Improvement of the Ardmore boulevard from East Pittsburgh to Wilkinsburg with two one-way traffic lanes at a cost of $756,000 was approved by the county commissioners at a meeting yesterday afternoon.

Completion of the project, which includes the George Westinghouse viaduct and will cost $2,506,000, will give a four-and-one-half-mile boulevard along the Lincoln highway from East McKeesport to Wilkinsburg.

The project is being built in cooperation with the State Highway Department, the county sharing in half the cost.

The Camera Question Box

Today's question: Some parents have objected to Council against building a swimming pool at the Paulson avenue playground. As one very interested in the playground, how do you feel about it?

ROLAND MIGLIORATA, 14, 3 Indian avenue: Aw, put one in and let us kids have our fun. Somebody's always trying to stop us from getting something.

R. Migliorata

MIKE PAGANO, 13, 120 Winslow street: Yeah, 'cause that'll be near to our house. I want to learn how to swim, too — all the kids say it's fun and I never had a chance to learn.

Mike Pagano

SAM DONATELLI, 8, 147 Winslow street: I don't want a swimming pool. I don't want to swim either. Why should I? I might drown.

Sam Donatelli

WILLIAM McKINLEY, 6, 124 Flavel street: Sure! That's fun. Gee, it's fun to swim, everybody says. Teacher says it's good for you, too. Aw, why don't they let us have a swimming pool? Everybody else has one.

Wm. McKinley

PAUL DeKENZO, 14, Stobern way: Sure, I'd learn how to swim if they did. And be a life saver. Gee, the water's nice in summer.

Paul DeKenzo

MIKE DeRIGGI, 14, 616 Winslow street: Sure, put it in. Then we can swim without walking so far. What if we do make a little noise? Swimming? Noise never hurt anybody. Why, just because some of them are grown up, they think a fellow doesn't have to have fun. How do they get that way?

Mike DeRiggi

LIBERTY TUBES' CONGESTION CITED

Better Traffic Committee Holds Plan Unworkable; 'Z' Project Given Favor

Pointing to the congestion of vehicles each morning and evening in the Liberty tunnels end on the Liberty Bridge as an example of the impracticability of a traffic circle in the movement of heavy streams of motor cars, the Better Traffic Committee has declared the proposed surface project at Eleventh street and Liberty avenue to be unworkable.

With even greater volume of traffic at Eleventh street, it is asserted that the delay would be worse than that experienced at the Liberty Bridge.

Frank L. Duggan, of the Better Traffic Committee, said:

"Any attempt to handle the traffic at Eleventh street on the same level will result in congestion and the slowing up of vehicles in all thoroughfares leading up to this point."

The project of handling traffic at Eleventh street on the surface, known as "T" plan, would cost $650,000, according to estimates of city engineers.

The City Planning Commission's "Z" plan, providing for a depressed street at the intersection of Liberty avenue and Eleventh street, is estimated to cost $2,200,000.

Both plans are now before City Council and the question of funds caused consideration to be given to the surface plan. Proponents of the "Z" plan urge its adoption now, declaring that it eventually will be necessary.

An Example of One-Level Circle's Traffic Snarl

99TH RESERVES TO AID COAST 'DEFENSE'

Citizen Soldiers of This District Will Oppose Imaginary Foe Forces

A powerful enemy from overseas will attack the United States early in July. His invasion from the north will be checked, but on July 6 he will make a landing on the Chesapeake Bay and will threaten Baltimore and Washington — and immediately the troops in the United States Army Third Corps area will be mobilized.

Interesting news is this for Western Pennsylvania, where the Ninety-ninth Division, Infantry Reserve, will be called upon to participate in the first line of defense.

MAKING PREPARATION

The enemy, of course, is imaginary, and the defense will be theoretical, but in going to war against the "Red" army the officers of the Reserve Corps will participate in an interesting military game. Col. T. M. Anderson, chief of staff of the Ninety-ninth Division, and the other regular army officers at the headquarters in the Westinghouse building already are actively engaged in preparations for the summer training the war game will supply.

CPX, the military term for this duty, means command post exercise, and 75 staff officers from the Ninety-ninth will go to Lansdowne Md., on July 6, and remain for a two-week period.

At Camp Meade, Md., from August 2 to 16, a school of infantry weapons will be conducted for officers of the infantry who do not participate in CPX duty and will be attended by about 200 officers of the Ninety-ninth. Artillery officers will go to Tobyhanna, Pa., July 6 to 19.

ASSIGNMENTS GIVEN

Officers of other units in the division have been assigned as follows: Engineers, Ft. Humphreys, Va., August 2 to 20; medical regiment, Carlisle Barracks, Carlisle, Pa., July 6 to 19; quartermasters, Camp Holabird, Md., July and August; air corps, Langley Field, Va., August 7 to 20.

Serving with Col. Anderson on the division staff and as instructors are Maj. Walter Moore, assistant chief of staff; Maj. P. A. Hernandez, adjutant general; Maj. X. F. Blauvelt, Col. Eben Swift, Jr., Capt. C. R. Toy, Capt. C. M. Walton.

REPORT ON TUBE SAFETY DUE

The report of special investigators, as to whether the Liberty tubes are fire traps and present a danger of asphyxiation in case of a traffic jam will be made to the Better Traffic Committee tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. in the council committee room.

The investigating committee, appointed two weeks ago, is composed of Traffic Inspector Jacob F. Dorsey, H. B. Kirkpatrick, chairman of the street facilities section of the traffic committee. Acting Traffic Engineer Donald M. McNeil and County Engineers W. H. R. Krieling, R. E. Hellick and P. J. Adams. They are expected also to report on the advisability of a stop light at the north end of the tubes and an automatic ventilating system.

Trolley Passenger Injured in Fall

John M. Hull, 47, of 417 West street, Wilkinsburg, today was in a serious condition in St. Joseph's Hospital with injuries suffered last night when he slipped on the step of a street car while alighting at Forbes and Brady streets, police reported. His head struck the side of the car.

EX-BOXER GETS YEAR IN PEN

Samuel Manuel, 35, of Jamestown, N. Y., a former pugilist, who fought under the name of King Manuel, and who claims a decision over the late Harry Greb, onetime champion, was sentenced by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson to serve one year in the Atlanta penitentiary for possessing and passing counterfeit $20 Federal Reserve Bank notes.

Mike Zaffuto, 25, and Joseph Ricuparo, 28, of Indiana, Pa., co-defendants, also were sentenced to serve one year each in the penitentiary. The three men pleaded guilty of passing the spurious notes in Saltsburg and Indiana in December, 1928. The sentence of Manuel is to run concurrently with a two-and-a-half-year sentence impost last January in the Federal Court at Buffalo for passing fake notes.

The three men were arrested by United States Secret Service operatives.

HERRON FAVORS CITY HOSPITAL

The city may purchase the property of the Sisters of the Good Shepherd, Lincoln avenue, for a hospital for girls suffering from social diseases who are sentenced from Morals Court.

The property has been offered for $250,000 by L. W. Monteverde of the Real Estate Company of Pittsburgh. It had been erroneously stated the price was $225,000. Councilman John S. Herron, commenting on the offer at a committee meeting yesterday, said it is merely a question of time before the city must secure a hospital for such cases.

Reports were asked from the Law Department, the Department of Public Health and the Department of Public Welfare.

BAN BASEBALL IN TWO PARKS

Complaints from residents have caused Council to order baseball games stopped in the Winters and Phipps playgrounds.

The order may be extended to the Warrington avenue and Paulson avenue playgrounds, against both of which other complaints have been received.

W. C. Batchelor, head of the Bureau of Recreation, while announcing his approval of the order as far as the first two recreation centers are concerned, delayed the Warrington avenue ban. A number of Class A teams are scheduled to play there and he urged delay until other grounds can be located.

Only mush balls will be permitted on the Winters and Phipps fields.

ASKS $500,000 FOR ARREST

Albert Farneth, of Logan Ferry Hill, Plum Township, has entered suit against the Commercial Credit Company and Earl E. Chrisman for $500,000 damage for malicious prosecution.

The plaintiff, whose action was brought in Common Pleas Court by Attorney John D. Meyer, alleges he was made to sign a number of affidavits, charging fraudulent conversion of washing machines and embezzlement. He was arraigned before Justice of the Peace John Hunger of Arnold, held for court and tried in Westmoreland County. The jury was instructed to acquit Farneth and to put the costs on his prosecutor. Farneth was in jail for a time and claims that the action of the concern prosecuting him has greatly damaged his reputation.

HURT IN CRASH, WINS $4,800

Bridget Conroy, North Side, won a verdict of $4,800 in Common Pleas Court against the Pittsburgh Railways Company for permanent injuries received in October, 1927, when two street cars collided in front of the Hotel Schenley.

This is the jury on which Ralph E. Flinn, son of the late Senator William Flinn was accepted as a juror after being notified by a deputy sheriff his presence was desired in court. Flinn had failed to answer a summons to serve on the jury.

When asked the customary questions, Flinn admitted he was interested in some of the subsidiaries of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, but both sides accepted him as a juror, regardless of the fact. The case of the Conroy woman, employed by an East End family, at the time of the accident, was heard before Judge Ambrose B. Reid.

MAILERS' UNION ELECTS TODAY

Members of the International Mailers' Trade District Union today will elect their president, the election being held throughout the United States and Canada. John McArdle, of New York, is the candidate of Mailers' Union No. 6, affiliated with the International Typographical Union. There are 41 locals in the Mailers' Union in this country and Canada with 3,500 members eligible to vote.

Mr. McArdle is known throughout the international organization and has been active in labor organization for many years.

Three years ago in New York he was honored at a testimonial dinner tendered by Mailers' Union No. 6 in commemoration of his 25 years' service as an organizer. There were 2,500 men and women in attendance. He was presented a check for $5,000 and it required three automobiles to carry his other gifts to his home.

Auto Victim Asks $25,000 of Township

Joseph R. Oliver, of Overbrook, has sued Mt. Lebanon Township for $25,000 damages for injuries he said he received when his automobile skidded on Castle Shannon road January 31.

He claims there were ridges and accumulations on the road, which resulted in his machine colliding with a truck. He claims the township was negligent in allowing such conditions to exist.

43 SENTENCED OVER RUM

United States Attorney Louis E. Graham has cleared the Federal Court docket of 40 more liquor cases. Forty-three defendants admitted violations of the prohibition law.

Many were first offenders, charged with possession of contraband. Judge R. M. Gibson, who heard the pleas, imposed fines ranging from $50 to $400, which aggregated $6,150. While the court of Judge Gibson was busy with liquor cases, those of Judges F. P. Schoonmaker and Nelson McVicar engaged in prosecution of other Federal offenses.

William J. Bost, a prior liquor offender, was sentenced to undergo two months in jail and pay a $200 fine when he pleaded guilty of sale and possession of liquor and maintaining a common nuisance, a saloon on the Homestead-Duquesne road, Mifflin Township. William J. Kelly was acquitted on a charge of possession of liquor in Homestead on December 21.

Other defendants were fined as follows: John Rostek, $400; Rocco Emborgno, Sharpsburg; Baldassare Meli, Sharpsburg; Mike Bush, Joseph Lotz and Harold Feldman, $300 each; Morris Sullivan, Millvale, and Louis Vertullo, $250 each; Clarence Rowman, William R. Davis, Charleroi; Wade I. Stewart and Frank Ipavec, $200 each; Louis Zorn, John Michael Grabowski, David S. Jackson, Homestead; Nicholas Staresenic and James P. Harrington, $150 each; Denny B. O'Donnell, Joe Mugnola, Frank McCoy, Thomas Baranowski, Roy Miller, George Xeros, John A. Udamis, Sharpsburg; Anna Potcova, Edward J. Carroll, Albert Seig, East Pittsburgh; William P. Anthony, Albert Thuransky, B. F. Tyler, Phillip Pappas and James Williams, $100 each; John Hecker, John Zorn, Frank Kietgen, Elijah Belcher, Homestead; Sam Lease, P. J. Madden, John Ridgway, John Marnella, Jacob Theobald and George Williams, $50 each.

COURT RETURNS SEIZED AUTO

An automobile owned by William P. Hawkes, of Brighton road, seized April 6 by government prohibition agents, was ordered returned to the owner by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson because it was seized without probable cause. The court also suppressed as evidence six pints of whisky found in the car.

At a hearing on a petition for suppression of evidence and return of the machine, prohibition agents testified they had made the seizure on instructions of the sergeant at prohibition headquarters. The owner was represented by Attorney Benjamin Diamond.

Wilkinsburg Man Succumbs in Street

The coroner's office today attributed heart disease as the cause of the death of Joseph L. Gallup, 60, of 444 South avenue, Wilkinsburg, who collapsed last night at Trenton and South avenues, Wilkinsburg. He was dead when a physician arrived.

OBITUARY

Wagner Funeral.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon for Leonard Wagner, 75, who died Monday in his home at 1208 Davis avenue, North Side. The services will be held in his late residence and in the St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Lockhart street. Burial will be private. Mr. Wagner was born in Germany and came to Pittsburgh when a boy. He had been engaged in the manufacture of cigars on the North Side for 52 years. He was a charter member of St. Peter's Church and was an organizer of St. Peter's Lutheran Church. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Buente Wagner; four sons, William, Albert, Leonard and Charles Wagner, all of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. William S. Gumbert.

Funeral services for Mrs. Anna Roxborough Gumbert are to be held at her home, 6511 Shetland avenue, East End, tomorrow afternoon. Interment is to follow in Homewood Cemetery. Mrs. Gumbert, who died at her home yesterday, was a lifelong resident of the East End. She was a member of the East Liberty Women's City Club and of the League of Women Voters. She leaves her husband, William S. Gumbert; two daughters, Mrs. Ralph A. Sheasley and Miss Adele J. Gumbert, and a brother, Frederick Roxborough.

ASSETS HIDDEN, GETS YEAR

Albert S. Bertannetti was convicted in Federal Court and sentenced by Judge R. M. Gibson to serve one year in the Atlanta Penitentiary, for concealing assets from a receiver in bankruptcy. Ernest Bettegar, a co-defendant, was acquitted.

An involuntary bankruptcy petition was filed against Bertanzetti in January, 1928, when he was trading as Victoria Auto Company, in Millsboro and Fredericktown, Washington County, and Waynesburg, Greene County. In contemplation of the proceeding he disposed of household goods and other property, the proceeds of which were withheld from the receiver, it was testified. Bettegar was an employe.

LATEST ORDER NEW THREAT TO TRADE

Traffic Manager Moore To Carry Protest Before Commission on June 17

Donald O. Moore, manager of the traffic division of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, will go to Washington June 17 to attend the Interstate Commerce Commission hearing, in opposition to the order abolishing certain circuitous rail routes here. He will present evidence to show that the order, as prescribed in the fourth section of the iron and steel rates, would greatly handicap manufacturers and fabricators of steel products in this district.

The discontinuance of the routes by the Interstate Commerce Commission would be a decided disadvantage to the shipping public and would deprive Pittsburgh of at least four of the principal routes to the East, Mr. Moore stated. It would mean eventually a heavy loss to business and many industries now located in the Greater Pittsburgh district may be forced to move elsewhere.

With the important hearing in view, Moore wrote to the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission yesterday, urging that the proposed hearing on the increased tariff on short hauls of iron and steel in the Pittsburgh district be held before or after the Washington hearing, as many of the attorneys here have interests in both cases.

NEGRO ELUDES POSSE, SOUGHT

Police of a half a dozen towns today were searching for a Negro who eluded a posse formed at Coraopolis Heights after two Negroes had escaped from Police Chief Francis Hissam. One of the pair was captured following a pursuit of four hours through the wooded sections between Coraopolis Heights and Cliff Mine.

Constable Thomas Drexler, of Moon Township, captured the Negro after firing three shots. Trail of the other Negro was lost near Oakdale late last night, police said. The prisoner said he was Lindsey Maddox, 21, of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Chief Hissam accosted the Negroes as they were driving an automobile through Coraopolis Heights. Suspicious of their actions, the chief ordered them to the police station where he prepared to docket them. When he turned his back the pair ran through a door and jumped into the automobile. They failed to make a turn in the road and abandoned the car and took to the woods, police said.

Aliquippa police said the escaped Negro answered the description of a thief who was surprised in Russell's notions store, Glenwillard, at 2:30 a. m. The prowler escaped.

Burned by Gasoline, Sues for $25,000

Alleging that he was burned seriously, when the gasoline hose came out of the tank of the truck, spilling the fluid which caught fire, Max Goldman, 5808 Margaretta street, has sued the Gulf Refining Company for $25,000 damages. The accident happened in Monongahela City, February 24 last, the plaintiff alleging he was burned about the arms and body. His counsel is Ben Paul Brasley.

8 U. S. WOMEN BOW TO QUEEN

LONDON, May 28.—(AP.)—The third royal British court of the season, at which eight American girls and women were among the 600 from all nations presented, was a brilliant affair last night, despite the absence of King George because of a rheumatic attack.

The presentees were received by Queen Mary alone, but they were consoled in the absence of the King by the figure of the Prince of Wales.

Americans who bowed to the Queen were: Mrs. Frederick Thwaits, Milwaukee; Mrs. George Phelps, Detroit; Miss Helen Howell, Chicago; Mrs. Guy Goff, Clarksburg, W. Va.; Miss Vera Bloom, New York; Mrs. George Carr, Chicago; Miss Carolyn Widman, Brooklyn, and Miss Elizabeth Plankinton, New York.

The function, considered London's outstanding fashion show, gave approval to the new silhouette long skirt, the high waist and feminine lines in general. All the gowns were long.

The final royal court for the season will be held tonight. Six other American women will be presented.

Husband Missing, War Bride Sues

As she does not know if her husband is dead or living, Gladys MacAllister, 110 North avenue, yesterday asked Judge James B. Drew to divorce her from Wilbur R. MacAllister. The libellant was a war bride and lived with her husband 11 months following their marriage, April 16, 1918. He left his wife on numerous occasions, Mrs. MacAllister told the court she has no idea where her husband is and could obtain no information from his people as to his whereabouts.

1,500 PUPILS IN PAGEANT

More than 1,500 pupils of the Mt. Lebanon elementary schools participated in the pageant, "From the Other Side of the Mountain" on the Washington School athletic field last night. The pageant is to be repeated this evening. A large crowd filled the grandstands.

The children represented the characters of fairy tales and Mother Goose rhymes. The pageant was in three acts and seven scenes. The costumes were designed under the direction of Mrs. W. B. Hamilton of the Household Art Department and Miss Mary Stubler, the art supervisor in the schools.

Miss Rosamond Van de Water and Miss Jean Morrison directed the dances and drills with A. S. Miescer directing the band. John Rogers directed the making of the stage. Miss Catherien Clark arranged the music for the dances and David Davis had charge of the orchestra. The pageant was under the general direction of Miss Jeannette Blair.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Mrs. S. Gail Landon, Jr., To Be Bridesmaid at Eastern Wedding

If members of the younger set are not being married themselves these bridal days, they are entertaining for brides-to be, or attending weddings, or going East to serve in bridal parties. Mrs. S. Gail Landon, Jr., will go to Bridgeport, Conn., in June to be a bridesmaid at the wedding of Susan Jennings, daughter of the Edward Jennings, of Brooklawn avenue, Bridgeport, and Kenneth P. McNeil, son of the Kenneth P. McNeils, of Bridgeport, to take place June 12 in the United Church.

After the ceremony there'll be a large reception in the Brooklawn Country Club.

Plight Troth

Another betrothal of exceptional interest graces the social news of the month. The Oliver P. Nicolas, of the Schenley Apartments, announce the engagement of their daughter, Josephine Ormsby Nicola, to David Mead Gilmore, of Sewickley.

Josephine is a graduate of Rosemary Hall, and her fiance of Yale. Both are prominent in the activities of the Allegheny Country Club set, and Mr. Gilmore is also a member of the Pittsburgh Club and of the University Club. Josephine is a member of the Junior League of Pittsburgh and is an active worker in local charities and a familiar figure at social events.

Mr. Gilmore is a son of the Edward Gilmores of Sewickley.

Although no date has been set for the wedding, it will probably be an event of early fall.

I want to tell you about the marriage of a Pittsburgh boy and a girl who belongs to one of the oldest families of Virginia. Henrietta King Page, daughter of Mrs. Nathaniel B. Page, of Clarke County, Virginia, and Washington, and of the late Mr. Page, and John Henderson Farrar, son of Dr. and Mrs. William Farrar, of Wightman street, were married Monday in Frederick, Md.

Marry In South

The bride is related to Harry F. Byrd, former Governor, of Virginia, and Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd. Mr. Farrar is a grandson of Capt. James Henderson, of the University Club.

A year ago the bride and her sister-in-law, Henrietta King Page, were graduated from Chevy Chase School, Washington, and the bridegroom was graduated from the University of Pittsburgh.

Several entertainments are being given in honor of Eleanor Tiers, daughter of Clarence Van Dyke Tiers, of Oakmont, who will become the bride of George C. Quelch, Jr., of Oakmont, on Tuesday afternoon, in St. Thomas' Memorial Episcopal Church, Oakmont.

Dinner Party

Her father is giving a dinner dance on Saturday evening for her in the Valley Heights Country Club. And I might add that after the wedding there will be a small reception in the home of Mrs. William N. Ogden, the bride-elect's mother, for the immediate families.

Tomorrow Mrs. Horace Forbes Baker, of Beaver road, Sewickley, will give a luncheon in honor of Miss Esther Hughes, of Philadelphia, a house guest of Mrs. Wilson Ferguson, of Dalzell place. Miss Hughes was a classmate of Mrs. Baker's at Vassar College. Yesterday Mrs. Ferguson gave an informal tea in her home to honor her guest.

And I know of another June wedding and it is to take place on the fourteenth day of that month in the First Presbyterian Church of Butler. Mary Violet McKee, daughter of Attorney and Mrs. Arthur Vincent McKee, of East Penn street, Butler, will be the bride, and she will marry Hugh Stuart Fullerton, Jr., of New York. The ceremony will take place at noon with the Rev. Henry A. Grubbs, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Waterford, Pa., formerly of Baltimore, and an uncle of the bride, officiating. Assisting him will be the Rev. S. Wilmer Beitler.

And Mary has named Helen B. Kay, of Philadelphia, as her maid of honor and only attendant. The bride-elect's brother, Arthur Vincent McKee, Jr., a classmate of the groom-elect at Princeton University, will be the best man. And the ushers will include James McKee Garroway, of Butler; three of Mr. Fullerton's classmates at Princeton, Clinton Harrower, of Plainfield, N. J.; Henry A. Grubbs, Jr., of Princeton, and Walter Schob, of Philadelphia.

A reception and wedding breakfast will follow the wedding, and it will be in the McKee home. Mr. Fullerton and his bride will live in New York, after an eastern wedding trip.

Wandering Boy Held in Bellevue

Found wandering in Lincoln avenue, Bellevue, early today, an 8-year-old boy, who said he was the stepson of Edward Hendsall, of 1236 Success street, North Side, spent the night in the Bellevue police station. Bellevue police notified Woods Run police, who in turn communicated with the boy's parents. Police were told to hold him at the Bellevue station, pending arrival of a relative.

SCORE RESCUED AT SEA LAND

GALVESTON, Tex., May 28.—(AP.)—Twenty members of a fishing party who narrowly escaped death when the three-masted schooner Flechas was disabled in a gale today were safe in their homes here.

The party arrived in Galveston late last night on Coast Guard Patrol Boat 115 which rescued them from the stricken ship early yesterday. The boat was left without motive power when all masts were broken.

Rockets sent into the air by the crew of the Flechas were observed by the tanker Derbyline, which radioed for assistance. The Flechas, which had been drifting since Saturday night, is being towed to port by the Coast Guard cutter Comanche.

HIGHWAY GROUP TO MEET HERE

An invitation to the American Association of State Highway Officials to hold its annual convention here has been accepted and the dates will be November 17-20, Chamber of Commerce officials announced today. President James Rae of the chamber said he had received a telegram from officials of the association announcing acceptance of the invitation.

The convention will bring 500 delegates representing the 48 states. Samuel Eckles, chief engineer of the Pennsylvania State Highway Department, is president of the organization.

Grant Given Cross By Huguenot Society

READING, Pa., May 28.—(AP.)—At the annual meeting of the Huguenot Society of Pennsylvania, held here today, with Ralph Beaver Strassburger, Norristown, presiding, the Huguenot cross, emblem worn by the Huguenots in France before they came to a religious refuge in America, was presented to Col. U. S. Grant III, director of Public Buildings and Parks in Washington, and Orra Eugene Monette, Los Angeles historian and expert in genealogy. President Strassburger was elected without opposition.

Guilty of Perjury In Denying Arrests

Sam Morfetas, a Greek, of Third avenue, was convicted of perjury in Federal Court. In his application filed with immigration authorities to have his entry into the United States legalized, he said he never had been arrested. Testimony was given at the trial that he had been arrested twice by prohibition agents. He will be sentenced later.

82 and Broke, She Spurns Home For Aged

CHICAGO, May 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. Elizabeth Mills is 82 years old and destitute, but she won't go to the old folks' home.

"I was out there two years ago," she told Judge Heller yesterday. "I can't get along with those people."

The court pondered and then called for contributions. Fifty dollars was collected. The old lady said she would get herself a room and hunt for a job, for she is, after all, only 82 years old.

U.P. CHURCHMEN AT DES MOINES

DES MOINES, May 28.—The seventy-second annual assembly of the United Presbyterian Church of North America opens tonight. Approximately 200 delegates are attending from all sections of the continent.

At the pre-assembly conference last night, 500 persons heard Dr. Paul C. Johnston, Lincoln, Neb., and Dr. Martin E. Anderson, Denver, Col.

Dr. Johnston declared evangelism today is a partial failure because of its lack of faith in the "the potent good" in all mankind.

Among Pennsylvania delegates were George A. Lang, H. H. White, J. C. Pinkerton, E. M. Milligan, J. R. Miller, J. C. Downs, E. C. McCown, R. A. Hutchinson.

McIntyre Attends Traffic Conference

Lewis W. McIntyre, traffic engineer and vice president of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, is in Washington attending the third meeting of the national conference on street and highway safety, of the Department of Commerce. The meeting was called by Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont.

Action is to be taken on a proposed uniform state motor vehicle act regulating traffic and a proposed model municipal traffic ordinance. McIntyre is attending all sessions of the conference.

ASPINWALL WOMAN'S CLUB ISSUES VARIED CALENDAR FOR JUNE ACTIVITIES

Ride on Boat Is Planned For 14th

One of the few clubs that carries its activities into June is the Aspinwall Woman's Club, the June calendar for which has just been sent out. The first announcement for the month is of the ilterature and arts department luncheon at Mrs. W. P. Meyer's lovely home in Fox Chapel road. Mrs. D. J. Evans is to be assistant hostess.

One of the club's numerous sunshine parties is scheduled for June 5 and this means that all those having the familiar little sunshine bags will come to luncheon at the clubhouse that day, bringing with them the bags of money.

A boat ride is dated for June 14 on the Julia Belle, and Mrs. O. R. Noe and Mrs. H. H. Bright have charge of the tickets. On Monday, June 16, an executive board meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. R. Paul Scott, Lexington avenue, and on the nineteenth the club's annual meeting will take place for the hearing of reports and the election of officers.

Garden Party

What will probably be one of the largest club affairs of the summer season is the garden party which the house committee of the Congress of Clubs will give Wednesday, June 21, at Mrs. Guy Taylor's home, Oak Hill Farm, Butler pike. The affair is to be a bridge luncheon.

* * *

Mrs. D. T. Jonas heads the entertainment committee for the boat ride which the social service committee of the Association for the Blind will give June 6. Assisting Mrs. Jonas are Mrs. I. S. Miller, Mrs. Helen D. Harris, Mrs. Winnie Fogarty, Miss Ethlyn R. Harris, Mrs. Beatrice Diamond, Miss Birdie Hyman, Mrs. A. L. Veter, Mrs. Charles Goldsmith, Mrs. Florence Fairman, Mrs. W. T. May, Mrs. Philip Harrison, Mrs. Sarah Pettit, Mrs. J. W. Rickey, Mrs. W. H. Fundenberg and Mrs. H. D. Stark.

Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the association and the board of directors of the Pittsburgh Home for Babies will be held Wednesday, June 25, at the Woman's City Club. The sessions begin at 10:30 o'clock and are open to the public.

A luncheon on June 3 at the Stanton Heights Country Club will close the year for the Regent Square Woman's Club.

The anual business meeting of the Women's Press Club will be held Monday in the Woman's City Club. Officers and committee chairmen will make their reports and new officers will be elected.

NAVY BLUE LACE DINNER FROCKS TO BE POPULAR

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, MAY 28. — Lace has joined the navy and has proven itself to be an extremely popular recruit. Navy blue lace as a medium for a dinner frock has not been outstanding in the past, but the painless but expensive sartorial revolution of last Autumn brought many innovations in its wake and one of these was the introduction of lace in all colors and shades for day and evening frocks. And with the enormous popularity of blue and particularly navy blue, it was but a logical step to its adoption an an evening as well as a day shade, especially in a fabric of such gossamer weave as lace, that is so well designed to give lightness and an ethereal quality to so sombre and subdued a hue as navy blue.

Lately we have encountered several ensembles of dark blue lace and have noted that they were worn with great eclat and success. Of course, light blue for evening wear is too established to invite comment, it is so becoming to women of both the blonde and the brunette type, that it is a perennial favorite.

BOTH OF THE sketches shown on this page are of attractive frocks for wear after dark. The drawing to the left is of a very likeable Augustabernard evening frock, fashioned of pastel blue crepe marocain, fitted snugly at the hips and belted at the natural waistline. Circular godets are appliqued at either side of the hips in peplum fashion, while lower down more godets trail at sides and back. There is a detachable three-cornered scarf of matching crepe.

No less a couturier than Patou is responsible for this navy blue lace dinner frock, which he advised for wear at an informal dinner. The amusing little coat also of the lace barely reaches to the hips and has long straight sleeves. Interesting circular draping is placed low on the snug-fitting skirt and does its part in giving a smart, but not too obvious flare to the silhouette.

Buhl Foundation Gives $168,000 to Found Child Center

A grant of $168,000 to establish a child guidance center in Pittsburgh, consisting of a clinic and nursery school, was announced last night by the Buhl Foundation. It is to extend over a four-year period, administered by a group of representative citizens incorporated as the Child Guidance Center, headed by Frederic Schaefer.

Through this center the foundation hopes to demonstrate for the first time in Pittsburgh what mental hygiene has to offer in the guidance of children. It provides for a laboratory and research center intended to contribute to the training of students, physicians, teachers, social workers and parental education, as well as to existing health, educational and social services.

Co-operating will be the University of Pittsburgh, Frick Training School for Teachers, Board of Public Education, Children's Hospital, Falk Clinic, Pittsburgh Federation of Social Agencies, Pennsylvania College for Women, social work department, Carnegie Institute of Technology, and the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Free Kindergarten Association.

The clinic will be housed near the medical center of the University of Pittsburgh, while space for the nursery school is expected to be provided by the Board of Education in the Bellefield school, adjoining the Frick Training School.

Besides Schaefer incorporators are Joseph F. Dilworth, G. C. Coolidge, Dr. R. H. Huggins, Herbert L. Spencer, Mrs. Frank T. Hogg, Elias Sunstein and Dr. E. E. Clopper. Representatives of all co-operating agencies complete the committee.

CAMPAIGN ON AT WEST VIEW

The West View Board of Trade at its monthly meeting this week adopted a resolution calling on real estate men and building contractors to join with the board in a boosting campaign for West View. Increase of 200 per cent in population in the last decade and a higher type of dwellings being erected will be among the points stressed. The board authorized an appropriation of $100 for prizes for school children at the annual picnic to be held in West View Park June 3. C. V. Shoup, president, presided.

Canned Foods Reliable And Nutritious

New problems in the demand for foodstuffs are created by the great increase in population. Dr. Copeland points out the many advantages of canned fruits and vegetables.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Former Health Commissioner of New York City
United States Senator From New York

Enormous increases in population in the United States have created new problems in the supply and demand for foodstuffs of all kinds. Canned foods today serve a real and essential purpose in our highly civilized life.

The latest discoveries known to science are being applied in improving and perfecting every phase of the canning processes. Modern canners insist that all food products shall be delivered in first-class condition from the fields, orchards and the sea.

The recent development of closing the cans under a vacuum has lessened the necessity of cooking foods at high temperatures. This is well because heat destroys to a great extent their valuable vitamin and mineral content.

After a long series of studies carried on by scientists at Columbia University certain facts concerning the properties of the vitamins have been established beyond a doubt. We have made great progress in this field.

The food values of vegetables and fruits are derived not only from their vitamin content but also from their bulk and roughage, and from the mineral salts which give an alkaline residue. It has been found in canning that no considerable amount of these mineral salts are lost, that the juices have definite nutritional value and in most cases the vitamins are left intact.

Two vegetables which are the most popular of all the canned products are canned tomatoes and canned peas. Experiments have shown that canned tomatoes are richer in vitamins A and B than orange juice and a little lower in vitamin C. Canned tomatoes are equivalent to butter fat in vitamin A and they are a good source of vitamin B.

Foods Are Pure

It has been shown that the destruction of vitamin C during the commercial canning of corn, beans and peas can be reduced materially by removing the air in the cans before canning. The more the air can be excluded in canning the greater will be the vitamin content.

Canned peaches were found to be equivalent to raw peaches in their vitamin content. Canned strawberries, like tomatoes, are very rich in vitamin C. Experiments were made with canned strawberries over a year old and they were found to show a similar vitamin C content to fresh raw strawberries.

The canned foods of today are highly nutritious, pure, clean, safe and reliable. The world's fruits and vegetables are yours for the asking. They are good foods, and good foods are the basis of good health.

PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES

Chocolate pie has always had a tremendous influence on me; most recipes for chocolate pie prescribe a meringue icing, which of course is the next best thing if you have forgotten to order cream.

But chocolate pie rests more luxuriously and temptingly under a whipped cream top; remember that please when you are following the recipe.

CHOCOLATE PIE — Add 3 squares of chipped chocolate to 2½ cups of milk and heat in a double boiler. When the chocolate is melted, beat with an egg beater for 1 minute. Sift 1 1-3 cups of sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup cornstarch together and add a small amount of the chocolate mixture, beating until smooth.

Return to the double boiler, add 2 tablespoons of butter and stir until thickened. Cook 10 minutes. Pour a small amount over the slightly beaten yolks of 3 eggs, stirring vigorously. Return and cook 3 minutes. Remove, add a teaspoon of vanilla and cool. Fill a cooked nine-inch pastry shell and cover with whipped cream.

Since we are on the subject of chocolate, let me give you a really superior recipe for Chocago Filling:

Melt 2½ squares of chocolate over hot water, and add ½ cup of powdered sugar and 1 tablespoon of milk. Add another half cup of powdered sugar and the yolk of an egg. Then cook in a double boiler until the mixture thickens, stirring constantly at first so that the mixture will be perfectly smooth. Cool slightly, flavor and spread.

CINNAMON TOAST. Cut the bread into rather thin slices. Toast to a golden brown and spread with butter. Cut off the crusts. Sprinkle liberally with sugar and cinnamon and place under the broiler to melt a little. Serve from a heated plate covered with a napkin.

MUFFINS: ¼ cup of shortening, ¼ cup of sugar, 1 egg, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 2 cups of flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk.

Cream the shortening, add the sugar and the well beaten egg. Sift the baking powder with the flour and salt and add to the first mixture, alternating with the milk. Bake in tiny greased gem pans at 375 degrees. Split, butter and serve hot.

BUTTER CAKES—½ cup milk, 1 cup water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, ½ yeast cake mixed with 1 tablespoon water, 4 cups flour, 3 tablespoons shortening.

Scald the milk and cool to lukewarm. Add water, salt, sugar, dissolved yeast and 1½ cups flour, beating until thoroughly blended. Let rise to double the bulk and add softened shortening and the rest of the flour. Beat and knead well. Let rise to double its bulk in a warm place.

Flatten out to ¾-inch thickness and let stand until light. Shape with a biscuit cutter and bake on a griddle. Let rise well on one side before turning to bake on the other. Allow about 20 minutes to bake.

FRENCH SAUSAGES—Cut 8 pork sausages in pieces about an inch long. Brown them in a frying pan and when well browned remove from the pan. Pour off all the fat except 1 tablespoon. To this add 1 tablespoon flour and when browned add ½ cup water. Stir until the sauce is thick; then add the sausage, ½ cup peas and 4 eggs which have been well beaten. Pour into a baking dish and bake in a slow oven until the eggs are set.

LAMB EN CASSEROLE—Dice 3 cups cold cooked lamb and brown in 1 tablespoon fat. Put in a baking dish. Add 1 cup each of cooked potato balls and cubed carrots and 6 to 8 small cooked onions. Add enough left over gravy and hot water to moisten. Season with salt and pepper. Cover the baking dish and bake in a hot oven 20 to 25 minutes.

* * *

CRAB RAREBIT—Make a white sauce by blending 1 tablespoon butter with 2 tablespoons flour, then add 2 cups top milk, ½ teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon soda. Chop 2 cups canned crabmeat and add to the white sauce. Serve it piping hot over buttered toast and sprinkle with grated cheese.

VEGETABLE AND NUT LOAF—Combine 1 cup of peas, 1 cup of cooked lima beans, 1 cup of cooked rice, 1 cup of chopped walnuts and salt to taste. Add 2 eggs well beaten and 2 tablespoons of melted fat. Seasonings may be added to taste, as pepper, paprika and celery salt. Shape into a loaf and bake in a hot oven for 45 minutes. Serve with a highly seasoned tomato sauce or a cheese sauce.

* * *

STRAWBERRY WHIP — Cut about 20 marshmallows in quarters and fold in the stiffly beaten whites of 2 eggs. Flavor with ¼ teaspoon vanilla and add ⅛ teaspoon salt. Crush 1 cup strawberries and combine with the first mixture. See that the ingredients are thoroughly mixed. One-half cup broken nut meats may be added if desired. Chill in individual glasses before serving.

ORANGE SYRUP SAUCE: One cup orange juice, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind, 1 cup sugar, juice 1 lemon, grated rind ½ lemon.

Put ingredients into saucepan and boil 15 minutes. Skim, strain and pour into sterilized glasses. Use as a sauce on vanilla ice cream or on baked rice pudding. This sauce when sealed in sterilized glasses will keep well and will be found convenient to have on hand for emergency in the summer.

RISSOLE POTATOES: Select small potatoes of even size for this. Let stand in cold water for 15 minutes, drain and dry between towels. Fry in deep fat until a golden brown and drain on brown paper. Put in baking pan and bake in hot oven until soft, time required being about 25 minutes. Remove from the pan.

* * *

DUTCH APPLE CAKE—Make a rich biscuit dough of 2 cups of sifted flour, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 teaspoons baking powder, mixed together. Sift twice then cut in 2 tablespoons shortening and when well mixed, add ¾ of a cup of milk, to which has been added 1 whole egg, well beaten. Mix lightly then pat into a well-greased pie pan, into the surface place in rows, sliced apples that have been coated with sugar and cinnamon. Sprinkle the dough and apples with more sugar and cinnamon and dot with butter. Bake in moderate oven 20 minutes. Serve with a lemon sauce.

BANANA AND PEANUT SALAD—Peel bananas, allowing one banana to a salad. Cut in quarters, roll in finely chopped peanuts, cover with mayonnaise and sprinkle with chopped peanuts. One teaspoon peanut butter may be spread over each banana before cutting in quarters for extra flavor if desired.

BAKED RICE AND CHEESE—In a double boiler cook 1 cup rice in 3 cups milk until the rice is tender. Make a white sauce by blending 2 tablespoons butter with 2 tablespoons flour, add ½ teaspoon salt and a few grains each of pepper and paprika, gradually stir in 1 cup milk. Add ½ pound grated cheese and continue stirring until the cheese melts. Arrange alternate layers of the rice and cheese sauce in a buttered baking dish. Cover with buttered bread crumbs and bake until brown.

CARROT SALAD WITH LORENZO DRESSING—Place crisp shredded lettuce on salad plates. Pipe a circle of cream cheese on the lettuce. Have uniform-sized carrots peeled and crisped. Cut in slices of paper thinness. Mix with a little chopped chives and parsley to taste. Pour on Lorenzo dressing and garnish around edges with cress sections of radishes.

To make Lorenzo dressing use a French dressing base and add 1 tablespoon chopped water cress and ½ teaspoon chile sauce.

SCALLOPED APPLES—Melt ¼ cup butter and stir lightly into 3 cups bread crumbs. Cover the bottom of a baking dish with half the buttered crumbs and spread with 2 cups sliced apples. Mix together ¼ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon grated nutmeg, and the grated rind and juice of ½ lemon. Sprinkle the apples with half the mixture; repeat with another layer of apples and spices, cover with the remaining bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven about 40 minutes, covering the dish during the first part of the baking. Serve hot with hard sauce.

BREAKFAST CORN—Chop 2 large cold boiled potatoes fine and saute until brown in 2 tablespoons fat. Add 1 cup left-over canned corn and brown again. Season well with salt and pepper. Break into the mixture 2 whole eggs, and scramble lightly together. Serve with broiled bacon.

CHARLESTON CORN CAKE—Beat 2 eggs well, add ½ cup of sour milk, ¼ teaspoon soda and 1 cup of canned corn. Sift together 1 cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking powder and add. Then add 1 tablespoonful melted butter. Fry in small cakes on a hot griddle. Serve with maple syrup.

FRUIT SALAD DRESSING—Juice of 1 orange, juice of ½ lemon, 1 tablespoon butter, ¼ cup sugar, 2 egg yolks and ½ cup cream whipped.

Melt the butter in the top part of a double boiler over hot water. Add the fruit juices, sugar and slightly beaten egg yolks. Cook over low flame until thick, stirring constantly. Cool. Fold in whipped cream just before serving. Note: Juice from the canned grapefruit to the measurements of 1 cup may be used instead of the orange and lemon juice and lends quite an agreeable flavor.

CABBAGE AND PINEAPPLE SALAD—Ingredients: Three cups shredded cabbage, 1 cup diced pineapple (fresh or canned), 12 (¼ pkg.) sliced dates, mayonnaise or French dressing and lettuce.

Directions: Soak cabbage in cold water to crispen. Drain thoroughly. Add the pineapple, dates and dressing and toss with 2 forks until well mixed. Serve on lettuce leaves. This mixture may be served as a relish with cold meats, if desired. Six servings.

CHICKEN TIMBALES—Two tablespoons butter, ¼ cup stale bread crumbs, 2-3 cup milk, 1 cup chopped cooked chicken, ½ tablespoon chopped parsley, 2 eggs, salt and pepper.

Melt butter, add bread crumbs and milk, cook in double boiler 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Add chicken, parsley and eggs, slightly beaten. Season with salt and pepper. Turn into buttered individual molds, having molds 2-3 full, set in pan of hot water, cover with buttered paper and bake 20 minutes. Serve with cream sauce.

ROLLED ORANGE WAFERS

One-half cup butter, 1 cup sugar, grated rind 1 orange, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 tablespoon cold water, ½ cup orange juice, 2 cups flour.

Cream butter; gradually add sugar and orange rind, beating until light; dissolve soda in cold water; add to orange juice, then add, alternately with flour, to first mixture. Spread mixture on well-buttered sheet in the thinnest possible layer, and bake in a moderate oven. When baked, cut in squares; quickly roll each square, while hot, over handle of wooden spoon, and arrange on a doily-covered plate.

GRAPE MARLOW FOR SPRING DAYS—Melt 20 marshmallows in 1 cup of grape juice over hot water. Add 1 tablespoon orange juice and cool. When quite cold and slightly stiffened, carefully combine with ½ pint cream which has been whipped stiff. Pour into trays and freeze without stirring.

Coffee marlow is another delicious dessert. To make it melt 20 marshmallows in coffee over hot water, stirring from time to time to produce a smooth mixture. Add ¼ teaspoon salt, cool, and when quite cold and slightly stiffened carefully combine with 1 cup cream which has been whipped until stiff. Pour into freezing trays and freeze without stirring.

STRAWBERRY LOAF — Two cups strawberries, halved; 12 marshmallows, finely cut; ½ cup sugar, 1 package strawberry flavored gelatin, 1 pint, minus 3 tablespoons, boiling water, 1 cup cream, whipped.

Combine strawberries, marshmallows and sugar, mixing well. Let stand at least one hour.

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Chill. When slightly thickened beat with rotary egg beater until of consistency of whipped cream. Fold in strawberry mixture and cream. Turn into mold. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve in slices.

STRAWBERRY WHIP — One package strawberry flavored gelatin, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup strawberry juice, 1 cup strawberries, crushed and drained; ½ cup sugar.

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add strawberry juice. Chill. When slightly thickened beat with rotary egg beater until of consistency of whipped cream. Fold in strawberries and sugar. Turn into mold. Chill until firm. Unmold.

BEEF LOAF—Mix together 1 pound round steak with 1 egg, 2 cups strained cooked tomatoes and 1 cup bread crumbs. Season with 1½ teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper and 1 tablespoon onion juice. Shape and place in a greased loaf pan. Bake about 45 minutes in a quick pan.

CHICKIE By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER XCVII

It was noon. Chickie went to meet Janina, who had a little shopping to do. Picking over ribbons, Chickie happened to glance toward the elevators. She saw a stout, rosy girl with blonde hair step out—come towards her. Her thought collapsed—the girl in the town store—the girl who had sold her and Agnes Robbins materials—ribbons—baby things.

She said to Janina: "Let's get out—close in here—" and, deliberately turning her back, rushed to the door—

Janina gripped her arm—"Hell's bells! Well—what's up?"

Chickie dashed along, half leaning on Janina's arm. Finally she said: "It was someone I saw—I didn't want to see—that's all—"

"You poor loon! Can't you give a more accomplished snub than this? Dash for death—the latest in rural elegance. Deliver us!"

Chickie was thinking: "I wonder if it was Leta? Was it? Was she coming to meet me?"

Safe now she wasn't all certain. Perhaps not, but it looked like her.

If it were Leta Joyce and she said, "Oh—how do you do Mrs. Clayton! I heard the baby died. Awful sad. I felt sorry for you—" she would blurt that out right before Janina.

Fear grew heavy within her. Any day she might meet people from the small town—Dr Emerson or the nurse who had bought lilies and little pink roses. They would recognize her; would call her "Mrs. Clayton;" speak of the child, ask after her health; had she suffered any setback; did she like the little monument—

Jonathan Buys Machine

A mad restlessness seized her—get away—miles—years—distant—the three of them—hide in some remote place—

For days she didn't leave the house.

One evening he came into the kitchen as she was cooking the dinner. He swung her about, his hands on her shoulders.

"What color do you like?"

"Color? Are you out of your mind? What do you mean—color?"

"Answer—blue or red or perhaps brown?"

Jennie came in and he asked her. Jennie answered, "Blue." "Then blue it is!"

One noontime he came home and shouted through the open door: "Blue — it us; see for yourselves!" And the old giant seized them and rushed them to the street. An automobile, small, closed, but painted blue—blue—blue as millions might have made it — stood at the curb.

After much hedging he told them: "Your friend, Mr Munson, Chickie. He invested for me—that oil money of mine—"

"When?"

"Oh—shortly after that deal of mine. You remember when you went to see him. I visited him. I took counsel with him. He advised me. I doubled the $1,500. Been a good deal over a year, you know. Fine fellow—that Jake! Step in—"

Stranger Seeks Chickie

He looked like a mountain towering over the steering wheel.

He sat forward and spread out his elbows, but he could drive.

That night he wrapped his arms about Chickie: "It's for you, Chickie girl. Your old dad can give you a thing or two that some lads couldn't! How about the little springs now? Ready to sing?"

She lowered her head against him—covered his grizzled cheek with her lips—"Jonathan—oh, you darling—darling—"

Some joy left—oh, yes—they loved her so—those two—she should be glad for them. She would.

She took long walks with Wildie when loneliness oppressed her; when Jimmy's insistence made her desolate. She said to herself, "Oh, I should be glad—I should—"

But she wasn't. Fear never left her—a stray word—a searching look set her trembling.

One day she went to the library—found the weekly paper of the town. It was an issue of seven weeks previous—just after she had left. She saw the name, "Mrs John Clayton." There was an account of her disappearance . . . then an explanation—and comment.

Not long after this coming home one afternoon she saw a machine at the door. It was spattered with mud—dust covered. She stared at it. It was directly in front of the cottage.

She went quietly up the stairs—into the hall—voices in the living room—a man was saying: "Mrs. John Clayton—"

Chickie shrank—she cowered against the wall—

Jonathan said—"No one by that name—"

Death Investigated

A pause—"Well—oh—I've made a mistake—Miss Bryce—Miss Heleina Bryce—"

"My daughter."

"She was up in Vermont."

"Yes—are you from the Farm Bureau—she's not going back—"

"I see—well—Miss Bryce was a friend of Mrs. Clayton's—We want to clear up—"

Chickie lunged. She crushed her hands over her heart—She said—"Oh—you wish to see me" and stood at the door, ashen—smiling—waving Jonathan and Jennie away—the room spun about her—

Tracked her!

Come to beat her down—shout it to the world. No! Dying, she would fight. She stood up now with the smile frozen on her deadening lips, motioned them away.

The man said: "If you don't mind, I have business with Miss Bryce."

But she asked, gasping, "Business? Well?"

"Sorry, miss—sorry—nothing to be frightened about. Just want you to clear up a little. You see, the coroner didn't like the look of things. Dare say it's all right, all right, but there was a lot of talk around the farms after you left. Want you to clear up about the baby death."

A cry, maddened, imploring, "Oh, oh!" She tried to tear words from her throat. "The doctor—oh, the doctor knows!"

Jonathan Overhears

"Yes—or, it's all right, I guess. Don't be alarmed. We just want you to straighten things out. Coroner isn't satisfied. Just want you to come back up there with me."

"With you—you? I don't understand."

"Nothing to fear, Miss. Just an inquest."

She pressed her fingers into her cheeks.

"Yes—this is just an investigation. No charges—none at all. You're only to appear as a witness."

"Go back—up there? With you?" She took a little step, wringing her hands. Her voice broke. "I can't—I can't—"

"Better, miss; better for you to come quietly. That's the only way to do. Makes it neater all around. Just want you to tell your story—why you left—how and when the baby died—why you didn't stay for the funeral. The baby died in your presence—in your arms—then you left—"

Chickie saw Jonathan walking in the hall. Jonathan hearing. She cried out. The sound died on her lips. She took a step and moaned—shrill, desperate, agonized: "Go! Jonathan—go! Leave—"

She saw her father turn—saw an astonishment as though his heart staggered. She saw that and flung her hands outward, pitching headlong to the floor.

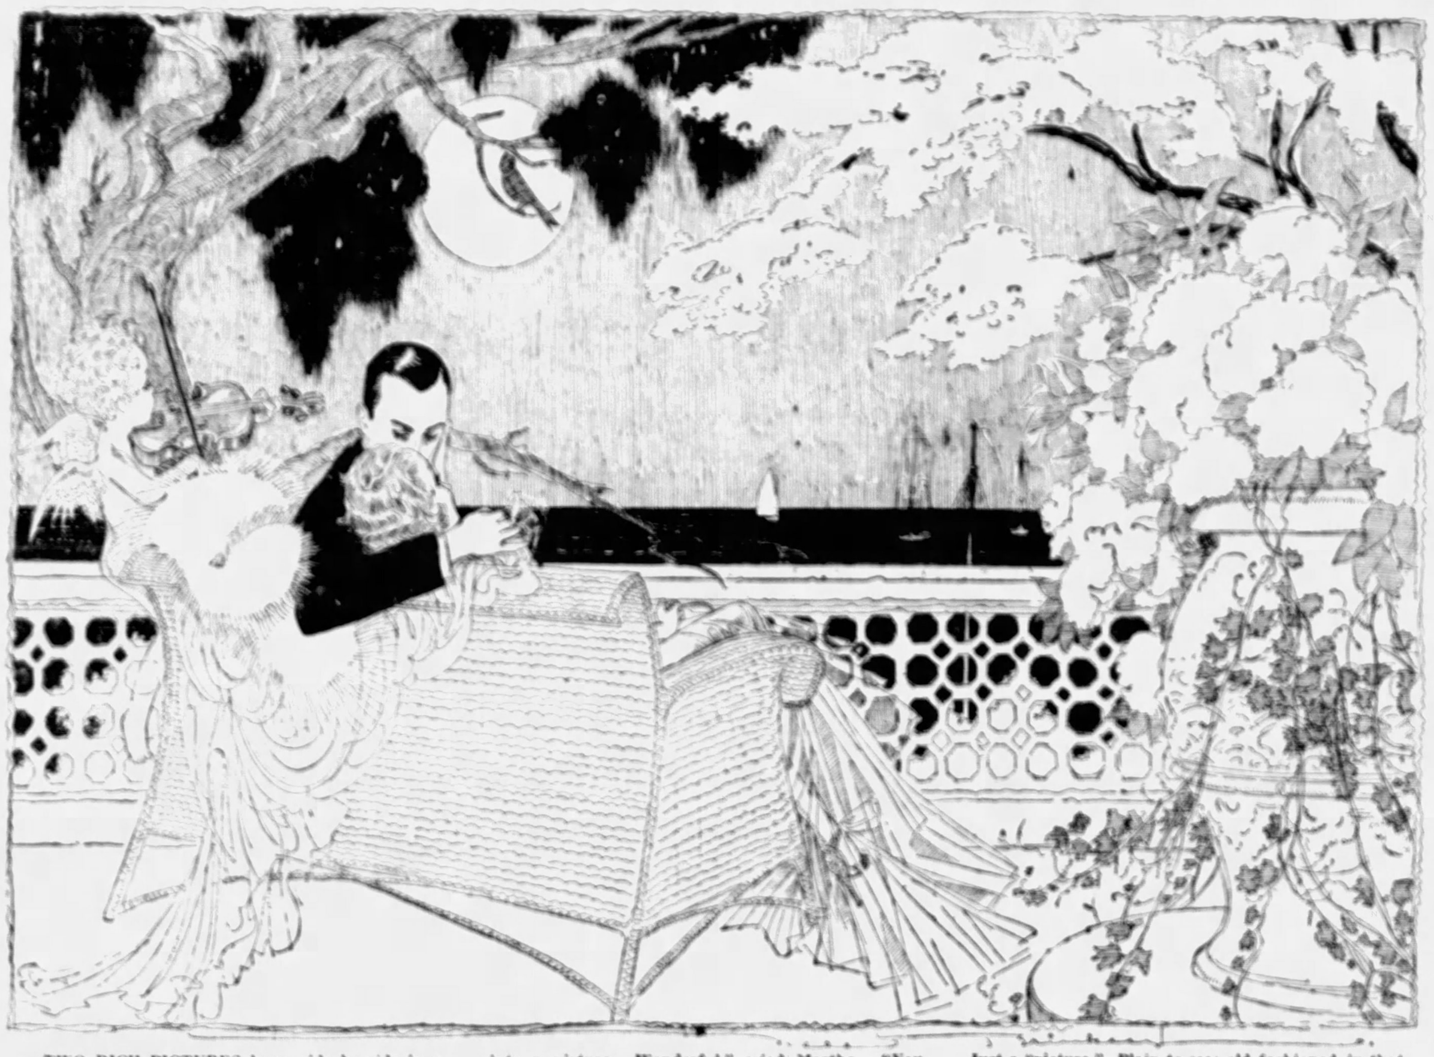
A Lovely Landscape

Drawn by NELL BRINKLEY



TWO RICH PICTURES hung side by side in a gallery. Wide gold frames shut the world out, separating the landscapes from their surroundings, so that the one who looked seemed to look out of a window upon some lovely land.

One was a startling arrangement of masses of color. Color that took the innocent one aback. Two dear old ladies, who were gay young flutterers when balloon sleeves of bright plaid were in, studied it. They saw it first two feet from their noses. "Strange," said one, amiably. "I don't seem to see what it is, Martha." Drawing farther away, two grey heads together, the gay splash of paint began to materialize into a picture. Wonderful," cried Martha. "You see it now, dear? Quite wonderful. Of course, he did it intentionally. But I can't quite say I like these things. Do you?" And the other old darling said, "N-n-n-no. Can't say I really do. I don't want to be an old fogey, but I call it tricky." "Beautiful color, though, eh?" said Martha, anxious to placate the unknown modernist whose jewel they were presuming to find a flaw in. Apologizing to some worker who did not care, for finding his offspring less than perfect. Youth could do well to cut their manners a bit after the kindly and thoughtful ones of the older "boys and girls."

Then Martha and her friend saw the other one. Just a "picture." Plain to see; old-fashioned, in that it told a story, and each line and flower and face were carefully drawn, each color laid on tenderly, and as carefully as a Meissonier. There were birds in it, flowers, moonlight, the blue and lavender of shadow and shine on marble balustrades—and LOVERS, with Eros in the background with a violin!

Martha and her friend got their glasses settled again. Two old rosebud cheeks on two old faces puffed tight with smiles, four old blue eyes beamed; and says Martha to her friend, crossing one gloved hand over the other and laying her head on one side, "Now THAT'S what I call a LOVELY picture!"

How to Keep Well

—By DR. COPELAND—

Painful Feet

Statistics show that nine out of 10 people have some form of foot trouble. Why is this?

DR. COPELAND

Wrong fitting shoes, wrong methods of standing and walking, with the toes turned out instead of straight ahead, lack of exercise—these are common faults. All of them cause weakness, strain and stress of the feet, and, as a result, the entire nervous system may be disturbed.

Your feet play a large part in your welfare. No one can be a success in life if these members are subjected to constant strain.

The nerves of the feet are connected with the nerves of the leg and body. Many a person has pains in various parts of the body and wonders at the cause. Many a stubborn case of headache, backache, poor circulation and spinal disorder has been mistaken for neuritis, rheumatism or kidney disease when the trouble has been nothing but poor, misused feet.

Much damage is done by wearing too high-heeled shoes. A high-heeled shoe throws the arch of the foot out of position and the weight of the body is placed on the front part of the foot. The present fashion of too high heels for women is a foolish one, for it must bring with it many ills of the body.

Many people suffer from fallen arches. The majority of them feel aches and pains of one sort or other and become tired after being on the feet for awhile. By use of the correct shoe this can be overcome in time. Change the shoes and stockings often. This eases the feet immeasurably.

The proper care of the feet begins with cleanliness. Every night the feet should be thoroughly bathed. All day long they are kept in an almost air-tight compartment. The foot perspires and the oil glands pour out their oily secretions. The feet need more bathing than the rest of the body. After bathing the feet, twist and turn them so that the muscles, nerves and blood vessels can be exercised and stimulated. Massage the foot gently. You will relax and feel better all over for this extra care of the feet at night.

Do not be forgetful of the necessity of careful selection and fitting of your children's shoes. Have them properly fitted to combine comfort and foot health as well as for looks. Many of the foot troubles of childhood bring on poor posture. The child does not complain of the pain, but symptoms of fatigue and weakness are often due to improper shoes. See that the stockings are not too short or too long, so as to cramp or injure the feet of your child.

This marvelous mechanism called the foot carries you on your way over the floor of the world. It gives grace to the dancer, cushions the descent of the pole-vaulter and carries the soldier with his heavy pack over dreary miles on the march. How little we appreciate its worth.

Walking is a fine art and one of the best exercises in the world. If your feet are to function properly, house them in roomy, comfortable shoes, so that your body will be poised, your stride vigorous and easy and every movement of the body lithe and supple with energy and good health.

Madge Relieved to Know Katie Didn't Learn Secret

It was with difficulty that I kept my voice steady in answer to Katie's impassioned plea "not to let old vomans hear" my questioning of her concerning her knowledge of my father's fingerprint apparatus which she had just betrayed. I felt as if the inside of my brain were a race course around which apprehensive conjectures were speeding.

"No one can possibly hear us," I told my trembling little housekeeper, hoping that she did not notice the shakiness of my own knees as I sat down in the nearest chair and motioned her to take one opposite me. But Katie, thoroughly frightened, threw herself on her knees beside my chair and caught my hand in hers, clinging desperately to it.

"Oh, Meesis Graham, my meesis Graham," she cried. "Eet not vot you tink. Me I no snoop, I no oonlock troonk. Plees you listen by your poor Katie vunce."

"I am listening, Katie," I told her, keeping my voice calmly judical with an effort, for the girl's terrified anguish was tugging at my sympathies.

"Vunce, ven your fader foosing mit hees flash-light camera," she began, "he set fire to roog. He put eet oudt right away, but dere mess to clean oop und he send for me. All dot fingerprint beesniss vas oudt und ven he saw me looking, he say mit a foony grin, 'Oh! Katie, I oonderstand you stoodying to be grate detecatif,' and I get so red und my tongue all get tied oop in leedle knots und I no can say noodings, and den he laugh but his voice awful kind, und he say, 'Look here, my girl, I show you how dees go,' und he put stoof on my fingers und roll dem and den show me how to do eet, and after vile he say, 'Now you sure enuff finger preent expert, Katie. Dot makes you a sooper-detecatif.

"I look dot oop," Katie went on, her terror forgotten in her childish pride, "und I feel awful goot ven I find oudt vot eet means. But I nefer, nefer, go snooping to look at dot beesniss again. I see vere he put eet too, he no try to hide eet, he lock eet oop vile I dere, but I nefer try to see eet again."

"I am glad to know this, Katie," I said. "I was sure you must have some good explanation, but, you know, my dear child, after our other experiences—"

"Sure thing. I know," she said. "Gif a dog a bad name, and I sure used to be vun bad beetle puppy."

"I am glad you realize that, Katie," I said. "It will help you to understand when sometimes we feel that we have to question you about things which puzzle us."

"Oh! sure ting. I alvays oonderstand dot," she returned eagerly and then she scrambled up from her knees with an anxious glance toward the door. "Vot you vant to show me, Meesis Graham?" she queried. "I vant to get back before 20 meenits are oop. Meesis Ticer she good vomans. I no mad by her no more, but I no vant her meddling mit my apple doomplings."

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

A Decided Breach of Etiquette

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am rather puzzled with sending a wedding present. We are newcomers in this city and my husband alone received an invitation to his assistant's wedding. Although I have not met either party concerned, I consider this a decided breach of etiquette. I wish to know how you feel about it, and if I should not send the wedding gift including my name?

MRS. J. H.

Yes, you are right, and this was a very decided breach of etiquette. Regardless of whether or not you knew either your husband's assistant or his bride-to-be, the wedding invitation should have been sent in both your husband's and your name. This is one of the fundamental rules of etiquette.

If you are planning to send a wedding present, it should be sent in both your names—enclose both visiting cards, or a "Mr. and Mrs." card, if you have one. And the present, of course, should be addressed only to the bride-to-be, at her home.

The Marry-Go-Round

—By HELEN ROWLAND—

Dementia "Domesticia"

Are you a victim of the D. D's? Stop! Don't strike me! I didn't say the D. T's—I said the D. D's. Meaning the latest popular form of neurosis, Dementia Domesticia, which Dr. Lovell, of Los Angeles, has discovered.

In common or garden parlance, Dementia Domesticia is wife-trouble or husband-trouble. Like heart-disease and the modern woman, it is being blamed for everything, which can't be diagnosed or traced to the teeth.

According to the doctor, if a man's digestion is out of order and his complexion becomes suddenly a sun-tan sallow, it is a sign that he has had a losing battle with his wife that morning. "Every scrap is a stomach attack."

* * *

If his blood pressure is too low, it means that his bills are too high, or that his wife's charge accounts have brought on a brain-storm.

If he suffers periodic attacks of vertigo, it is proof that his wife has made him DIZZY with her nagging or her demands. Or that her determination to "keep up with the Joneses" is making him mildly unbalanced.

* * *

If he is tortured with insomnia, it is not his passion for lobster or the black cigars he smokes. It is because he is WORRIED to death—either because his wife is threatening to leave him, or because she continues to stick around.

And, if he has a complete nervous breakdown, it is because the strain of living with one woman for 52 consecutive weeks in the year is more than he can BEAR! And what can you do with a wife, who insists on being faithful, even though she is a total loss in all other respects?

On the other hand, if a woman is twittering from neuritis, it is a sign that she has been to the mat again, with the Light of her Life.

If she can't eat her spinach, and her lamb chops disagrees with her, it means that she is lying awake nights wondering what her husband is DOING, when he isn't fooling with the radio or puttering around the car.

If her blood-count is low, it is because her sentimental nature is undernourished and she is wasting away for lack of a little fresh, convincing, red-blooded love-making from the man who promised to adore her for life.

If her knee-kicks are not what they used to be it is a sure indication that all the "kicks" she expected to get out of love and marriage have ceased to register, and her emotional nature has run down from slow starvation.

Wonderful, how all this simplifies matters! Now, we know that overeating, financial worries, bridge madness, speedomania and synthetic gin "have nothing to do with the case." We can lay ALL our troubles at the door of our current soul-mate—and go right on eating lobster salad a' midnight. Whoopee!

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, May 29

A very prosperous and progressive day is presaged from the generally benefic rule of the planets in important angles of the heavens. There is a sign of much activity and initiative, especially with negotiations with large corporations or combines, with the assurance of the friendly assistance of the Great Benefic Jupiter to increase, expand and multiply.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a particularly enterprising and lively year under the benignant sway of the expanding and enhancing force of powerful planets. New ventures and affiliations with corporations, mergers or secret societies are presaged to have splendid impetus. It is an auspicious period for pushing to the goal of the ambitions.

A child born on this day should be progressive, ambitious and enterprising, with every prospect of achieving its desired goals in life.

Household Hints

To clean a stained copper kettle, rub well with half a lemon dipped in salt. Wash with clean, tepid water and polish with a dry cloth.

The bright sunshine of the first spring days has a habit of illuminating spots on painted woodwork. Any painted article of furniture that has become soiled may be cleaned by using paraffin mixed with soap powder. Porcelain and dirty enamel is improved by the same treatment.

The Talking Picture Story of

"CAUGHT SHORT"

Starring

MARIE DRESSLER
POLLY MORAN

Based on

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Caught Short," Written by Willard Mack,

A Cosmopolitan Production.

Mrs. Marie Jones and Mrs. Polly Smith quarreled when they both had boarding houses, and quarreled more when Mrs. Smith graduated from the boarding house business by making a fortune in Wall Street. Now in Atlantic City, Mrs. Smith has broken the match between her son, William, and Mrs. Jones's daughter, Jenny, by announcing William's engagement to Fanny Lee, an actress.

"Pretty soft for me—marrying all these stocks and bonds," Fanny Lee is thinking.

"Oh, dear," muses William, "I'll bet more marriages are made in boudoirs than are made in heaven."

Newspaper extras about the Wall Street crash interrupted the wedding of William and Fanny Lee. Fanny ran as soon as she heard the bad news. Then William and Jenny just naturally drifted together.

"I only got hooked by that dame trying to make you jealous," William says, "and now I'm broke."

"It wasn't your money I love; it's you," Jenny cries.

"I'm glad Fanny was marrying Wall Street, not me," says William.

When Polly sees the newspaper headlines she screams, "I'm wiped out!"

"Don't worry," Marie comforts, "you and I'll run a boarding house together. Smith & Jones makes a great name for a boarding house."

"Let me do the cooking if we get any stock brokers for boarders," Mrs. Smith says; "I'll fix 'em something special."

"Well," Marie says, "the bride of this wedding that you've paid for has gone, but, thank goodness, this punch hasn't been scared away. Let's have a drink."

"It's lucky the stock market wasn't as strong as this punch," Polly said, "or else my son would be married to the peroxide actress."

"This is the first wedding without a marriage I ever attended," Marie observes, "and I like it. Let's have another real soon."

(To Be Continued Tomorrow.)

STOCK MARKET DULL, TREND UPWARD

Progress Slow, Uneven But With Large Scale Buying in Utilities

NEW YORK, May 28 — (AP.) — Speculation was mainly for the rise in today's stock market, but bears continued to search out air holes, and forward progress was slow and uneven. Large scale buying appeared in some of the utilities, but on the whole the market remained a dull affair. Gains of 2 points or so were numerous and a few shares displayed considerable buoyancy but a handful nevertheless recorded new lows for the year.

Complexion of the days news were the weekly steel trade reviews, and while far from cheerful, they were notably less pessimistic than a week ago. Iron Age pointed to active pipe line demand, brisk business in reinforcing bars, the prospect of a continuance of the present rate of automotive production a fair outlook in structural steel and shipbuilding as encouraging factors. Iron Trade Review said that such factors were substantially moderating the decline in the demand for steel. Mill output however, continues to sag and is now at about 70½ per cent of capacity, against about 74 last week, 90 per cent a year ago and 75½ per cent two years ago.

REDUCTIONS SLIGHT

While the price structure in the steel industry shows little sign of hardening it was notable that reductions have been slight during the last week. Both the Iron Age and Iron Trade Review composite prices were unchanged. Natural gas developments under way or planned are expected to require a huge amount of steel during the summer. The line from Amarillo, Tex., to Indianapolis announced yesterday alone will require about 200,000 tons.

News in general was scarcely of a character to help the bullish element. Further delay in disposing of the tariff bill was regarded with displeasure in speculative circles. The weekly car loadings report showed a slight decline from the previous week and gave no indication of a breaking away from the lowest levels since 1924. Latest estimates of last week's crude oil production indicate a decline of only about 28,000 barrels daily, against earlier estimates of about 35,000 barrels. The Federal Oil Conservation Board's recommendation of the unit plan of control in its report to President Hoover, however, was regarded as a favorable augury.

LONG LIST RISES

International Business Machines, Worthington, Norfolk and Western and Bullard gained 4 points or more, and issues selling up 2 to 3 included North American, American and Foreign Power, American Water Works, Corn Products, Eastman Kodak, Fox, International Harvester, Houston Oil and Skelly Standard of New Jersey gained moderately in heavy buying. National and United Biscuits, Hershey Chocolate and Coca Cola A reached new 1930 tops.

American Rolling Mill and Lambert each dropped more than 5 points to new lows for the year. The management of the latter said business was improving and the dividend not endangered. St. Paul preferred and Pullman also reached new lows.

Pacific Gas Gets Stock Approval

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—Pacific Gas and Electric Company has been authorized by the railroad commission to issue and sell 400,000 shares of 5½ per cent first preferred stock to aggregate par value of $10,000,000 at not less than $24.50 a share on or before June 30, 1931. The purpose of the issue is to reimburse the treasury for capital expenditures.

Byles Denies Firm Considering Merger

NEW YORK, May 28.—A. J. Byles, president of Tidewater Associated Oil Company, states concerning reports of a proposed merger between Continental Oil Company and Tidewater Associated, that there are no negotiations between the companies and no merger is contemplated.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, May 28. Wheat scored material price gains early today helped by upturns in quotations at Liverpool and less favorable crop reports from Europe. Both Russia and Italy reported crop deterioration, with probable yields well average of wheat. Opening ⅝ to ⅞ higher Chicago wheat afterward fluctuated somewhat and then rose higher than before. Corn was unsettled starting ¼ to ⅝ off and then tumbling but subsequently rallying. Oats was firm. Provisions tended to advance.

Talk of the export business overnight in Canadian wheat did a good deal today to lift wheat values and so too did Kansas dispatches telling of unfavorable crop developments. For example half of the wheat in Rawlings County, Kansas was reported as not doing well with the straw short and spindly and roots apparently not deep enough to furnish plant support. Similar complaints were at hand from Edwards, Reno and Hodgeman Counties, Kansas.

Free buying of July and September deliveries of wheat was witnessed after receipt of the pessimistic crop comment from Kansas. The ensuing advance of the market carried prices up to the highest point reached since April 17. Traders who were early sellers became eager buyers on the bulge.

Aluminium Limited Net Profit Increases

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

COMPLETION OF NEW PLANTS in Canada and increasing demand have resulted in rapid expansion in the earnings of Aluminium Limited. Net profit after depreciation, depletion, present interest charges and taxes in 1929 was $2,618,219. This was equivalent to $4.57 a share in 572,678 shares of common stock. It compared with net of $1,202,558 or $2.09 a share in 1928.

Expansion of plants is being continued. As additional manufacturing facilities are made ready for operation further gains in profits may be logically expected.

The company was formed in May, 1928, to take over the foreign operations of the Aluminum Company of America. There is at present no direct connection between the two organizations since all the common stock of Aluminium Limited was distributed to the Aluminum Company stockholders on a one-for-three basis.

To Offer Rights

RIGHTS TO BUY additional common stock will be offered to Aluminium Limited common stockholders before the close of the present year, according to an announcement made yesterday in connection with the sale of $13,000,000 of 6 per cent preferred stock by the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh. The rights will permit stockholders to buy one additional share for every eight shares held. The price was not stated definitely beyond the fact that it will be not less than $30 a share. Judging from the current price of the common stock of about 198 the rights will be of considerable value.

The offering of the preferred stock as well as the proposed issue of additional common will pay indebtedness incurred through additions to plants and will provide for further expansion work now being planned.

Plant in Canada

THE PRINCIPAL PLANTS for the production of aluminum are located in Canada where some of the most modern equipment used by the industry has been installed. Exceptionally favorable contracts have been made for the large amount of electrical power necessary for smelting operations. Ore reduction plants are also located in Norway and Italy where low cost transportation facilities are available.

The company also has fabrication plants at advantageous points in Canada, England, Germany, Switzerland and India. In carrying out its operations on a world-wide scale the organization has been able to locate in plants in territory where the most satisfactory conditions prevail for production and for reaching markets in international competition.

Further Development Expected

A VISIT TO THE RESEARCH laboratories of companies producing aluminum immediately brings realization of the fact that the markets for the metal are still in a very early stage of development. Many things that can be done with aluminum and the places it can be sold are still being discovered.

In recent years the perfection of alloys has opened up entirely new uses for the product. Aluminum can be made nearly as strong as steel volume for volume. The work now being done in laboratories indicates that the future development of aluminum will be far greater than the impressive accomplishments of the past.

EATON EXTENDS OPERATIONS

CLEVELAND, O., May 28.—Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, has extended the bounds of his midwestern steel and ore operations through affiliation with Oglebay, Norton & Co., of Cleveland, an outstanding iron ore development organization.

The affiliation was viewed by Cleveland observers as a major move by Eaton in strengthening the future security of the Republic Steel Corporation, the nucleus of his iron and steel projects.

Oglebay, Norton recently received a contract from the union of Socialist Soviet Republic to supervise the development of the iron ore industry in the union as part of the five-year industrial program there.

SHEET MARKET MORE ACTIVE

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, May 28.—Makers of electric refrigerators and radios are somewhat more active in the sheet market than heretofore, but automobile requirement continue intermittent and irregular. The hot strip steel industry, active at 70 to 75 per cent, is dependent upon the auto trade for steady operations, and thus far production has been maintained at a satisfactory rate.

Ford is producing 9,300 cars per day and Chevrolet 4,400. These two companies are taking bulk of the strip output of the Mahoning Valley. Buick is coming into the market for steel for its new models, which are to come out in August.

The semi-finished market closely follows that of rolled steel and outside shipments, except to regular customers, do not involve heavy tonnages. While the market is nominally held at $33 for sheet bars, slabs and billets, large buyers are getting the benefit of preferential treatment, but adjustments in contracts are not being made public, as a rule.

Steel pipe continues to lead the finished steel market and promises to provide leading independents in this districts with operations through the summer months.

Paramount Expected to Set New Record in Second Quarter.

The return into market favor of the amusement group, after a considerable period of irregularity, should find reflection in more aggressive activity in Paramount-Publix. From unofficial sources comes the report that earnings for the second quarter will again establish a record, although it is not probable that the 86 per cent increase that was shown in the first three months will be equaled. Estimates for the full year's results are expected to exceed by a comfortable margin the $6.34 per common share reported in 1929, with a figure approximating $7 on present outstanding capitalization. With the current quotations for this stock under 10 times earnings, and with the annual $4 dividend providing a yield of close to 6 per cent, the stock appears to be in an attractive buying zone.

It is pointed out in Wall street that the stock market has never started a major downward movement during a period of business depression. The swing downward starts when everything looks rosy. After industrial production has been decreasing for six months to a year, the stock market is in a buying rather than a selling zone. Of course, this must be qualified somewhat. It is never the right time to buy stock of corporations which are not looking ahead to expanding activities and a rising curve of net income over a reasonable period. When general business is bad, some industries show their mettle by making better profits than in normal times and some corporations make a better showing than their fellows. These industries are quick to recover and to take advantage of the opportunities afforded to make profits in a dull period. The tobacco and amusement companies have been making excellent records along these lines.

The large scale expansion which is going on in the utility field, is responsible for the persistent demand for Foster-Wheeler, which is an important beneficiary of the business emanating from this source. Interests who have made a study of the progress of the company thus far this year, have estimated that unfilled orders to date are some 75 per cent over those on hand at the like period a year ago. It is more than likely that this increase will reflect favorably in earnings results, which are expected to be well above 1929 results of $6.35 per common share. Indications are that an increase in the present annual dividend of $2 will be voted on shortly.

The consistent firmness which the carrier group as a whole has shown since the downturn in this section paved the way for the market break in the earlier part of the month, has been an important factor in hastening accumulation of Alleghany Corporation, through which the Van Sweringen brothers are centering their plans for important consolidations in this field. Quarters familiar with this stock are pointing out that current market levels are somewhat below the break-up value of the common shares, and considerably higher prices are anticipated in forthcoming months.

Heavy bear pressure was directed yesterday against the leading farm implement company share, namely Case Threshing Machine and International Harvester, coincident with recurring reports originating in Chicago to the effect that the slowing down in that line of business is assuming more than normal seasonal proportions. Weakness which became quite pronounced was effective in influencing a good deal of general, profit-taking in the afternoon. Inasmuch as these companies built up substantial inventories in the last half of 1929 against an anticipated heavy demand in the first half of this year, it would be no surprise if operations should be tapering off at present. Harvester for example came into the current year with $102,295,000 in inventories contrasted with $80,231,000 at the beginning of 1929. Harvester, moreover, ranks as one of the largest producers of motor trucks and should benefit from any pick-up in demand for such products.

The action of the market during the greater part of the session yesterday proved an encouraging surprise to those who, while of bullish leaning, had expressed the opinion Monday that the market would very likely drift into the doldrums in view of the long holiday recess ahead. Quite to the contrary, the market developed much evidence to support the view that big interests arrayed on the constructive side were determined to maintain the improvement wrought since the middle of last week. Trading was not especially active, yet some groups such as the utilities, in which speculative interest seemed to center for the moment, changed hands in goodly volume.

Atlantic & Pacific Awards Contract

NEW YORK, May 28.—The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company has placed a contract with International Business Machines Corporation for Dayton moneyweight porcelain computing scales for use in the A. & P. stores throughout the United States and Canada.

Packard Makes Cut In Standard '8' Line

DETROIT, May 28.—The Packard Motor Car Company has reduced the price on all models of the standard eight line $400, preparatory to introduction of a new car in the fall.

PACKARD STANDARD EIGHT PRICES REDUCED $400

THE Packard Motor Car Company has just advised us by telegram that effective May twenty eighth (28th) prices of all current models of the Standard Eight have been reduced $400. The new prices are as follows:

Closed Models

5-Passenger Sedan	$2085
2-Passenger Coupe	$2125
2-Passenger Convertible Coupe	$2150
5-Passenger Coupe	$2275
5-Passenger Club Sedan	$2275
7-Passenger Sedan	$2385
7-Passenger Sedan Limousine	$2485

Open Models

2-Passenger Runabout	$2025
4-Passenger Phaeton	$2025
7-Passenger Touring	$2125
4-Passenger Sport Phaeton	$2325

(Prices F. O. B. Detroit)

These reductions are made because the factory expects to announce in the Fall new cars which, though the same in size and of practically unchanged appearance, will have enough changes to classify them as new models. The new cars, like those we are now offering, will, of course, have straight eight motors exclusively.

The new prices give today's purchasers a very great price advantage, and also immediate use of the largest selling and most popular car in the fine car field.

Now, it is even more true—by $400—that you are paying for a Packard. Why not own one? You will never have a better opportunity.

Two-Thirds of those who buy the Packard Standard Eight give up other makes of cars Thousands prefer to buy out of income. Your used car will be accepted as cash and if of average value will more than make the down payment on a new car.

STEEL OUTLOOK IMPROVING

NEW YORK, May 28.—The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade tomorrow will say:

Pipe line demand is the conspicuously active feature in an iron and steel market characterized by sharp contrasts. One large pipe maker is now booked for the greater part of the year and, with others rapidly building up their backlogs, utilities are hastening to enter orders, in some cases placing tentative contracts before the complete details of projects have been worked out.

Brisk business in reinforcing bars, the prospect of a continuance of the present rate of automobile production, a fair outlook in structural steel and sustained activity among shipbuilders and manufacturers of road machinery are other encouraging factors.

Aggregate demand for iron and steel, however, continues to sag and ingot production for the country at large has receded from 14 to 15 per cent of capacity. The Steel Corporation, because of its diversification, has succeeded in holding its rate at 80 per cent. The downward trend of prices has not yet been halted.

Motor car production is being maintained and the expectation is that May output will equal that of April. June will show little curtailment, according to present indications, and may even register a slight gain, since larger schedules by manufacturers bringing out new models will tend to offset possible reductions by the Ford and Chevrolet companies.

The Iron Age composite prices are unchanged, finished steel at 2.214c a lb. and pig iron at $17.58 a gross ton.

RAIL OFFICIAL OPTIMISTIC

CHICAGO, May 2.—Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway, said:

"There should be a gradual increase in our business from this time on, but it will not equal last year until we get along toward the close of the year, when we should be carrying a tonnage equal to that of the closing months of 1929.

"We expect to be in the black in May and in the subsequent months and to come to the end of the first half with our fixed charges fully covered and something over to apply on dividends."

Hoover Week-Ends Cited By Wives of Work Slaves

By B. C. FORBES

THE WIVES of at least a few business men who are abject slaves to work are holding up President Hoover's week-ending example. They emphasize that the President never misses an opportunity to close his desk and devote Saturday to fishing.

The popular notion that practically all highly successful men of affairs indulge in long week-ends for recreation is totally wrong. A great many business men work more hours than their employes work. It isn't uncommon for high-up executives to work on Saturday and then take work home with them for Sunday.

Not many of our leading bankers find this necessary. Somehow bankers, as a rule, manage to compress their duties into reasonably short hours—although it is pure fiction that most bankers work only from 9 or 10 to 3 in the afternoon.

Golf is always mentioned as the most fatal lure for business men supposedly busy. The fact is that the fellows who take most time off are those who, like Coolidge and Hoover, become addicts of the fishing rod. Nor are most of them satisfied with week-end expeditions. There isn't much very good fresh water fishing near New York. So enthusiasts who can afford it rent fishing rights farther afield, including Canada, and hie off there quite frequently for considerable stays.

Among the most expert anglers is Walter Teagle, head of Standard Oil of New Jersey. Although he is a glutton for work, he darts off quite frequently to fish.

SINCE the war, yachting has become much more popular among wealthy financial and business giants. Many who are not wealthy have been buying small motor yachts and taking to the water instead of the congested roads during week-ends. James A. Farrell, head of the Steel Corporation, is easily the most expert skipper among industrial leaders. He learned seamanship when a boy from his father, a shipowner on a modest scale.

Some yachting enthusiasts are sending their sons on a two-months' expedition with Count Von Luckner, the famous and jovial "Sea Devil" who made entertaining history during the war by his amazing exploits as a lone sea raider—without even taking or losing a life. During this cruise the boys and youths will be taught seamanship, a smattering of astronomy, fishing, hunting and mild exploring among quaint islands in Southern Seas. Every day a radio goes to each boy's home.

MOTOR KINGS are particularly prominent among our present-day yachtsmen. A. P. Sloan, head of General Motors, recently built a yacht almost comparable to J. P. Morgan's new two-and-a-half-million dollar Corsair. The famous Fisher others have also taken to the water. John N. Willys acquired a yacht quite early in his career. Walter Chrysler is another convert. So is Edsel Ford. Happy is the man who can wisely blend play with work. Overwork is far more common among business notables than overplay.

INSTEAD of making business comparisons only with a year ago, it has been frequently emphasized here that comparisons should be made also with earlier years in order to get a true picture, a proper perspective of conditions this year. This table compiled by Paine, Webber and Company, compares physical production in the first quarter of 1930 with the preceding three years in six key industries:

FIRST QUARTER, 1930

	% Ch'ge from '29	% Ch'ge from '28	% Ch'ge from '27
Pig iron	—31.2	— 9.4	— 8.9
Steel ingot	—32.0	— 11.0	— 9.4
Copper	—18	— 1.0	— 2.0
Coal (bituminous)	— 4.8	— 17.0	— 23.0
Elec. power	+ 4.8	+ 17.0	+ 25.0
Autos (pass.)	—32.6	— 2.6	— 6.4

It will thus be seen that output this year has been well ahead of 1928 and about equal to 1927.

HAS PESSIMISM been overdone? Wall street is beginning to take the view that it has. Several influential firms, institutions and individuals that were strongly counseling caution have switched to the view that the worst is over and that a more confident course can be safely followed. There has been lately developed what Wall street calls "good" buying of stocks, meaning purchasing by wealthy individuals, investment trusts and the like. As recently told here, the bears have been finding it harder to send quotations down sharply.

The writer clings to the view that the next important movement will be upwards.

THE STOCK EXCHANGE'S ruling against the purchasing of their own stocks by investment trusts is eminently wise. What was there to prevent an investment trust from buying in a very large percentage of its shares and then running up the price sensationally against bears who would find themselves virtually trapped?

THE NEW ENGLAND Council finds, on investigation, that New England business is doing more advertising this year than last year. New England too long hid its industrial light under a bushel. It too long adhered to old-fashioned ways, now it has aroused itself.

TO PLAY SAFE, get vacations over as early as possible this year. Things may get distinctly more active before the customary vacation season is over.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, May 28.—Bond prices moved uncertainly today. A few railroad issues showed some signs of recovering, but in common with other strong spots in the list made narrow strides forward. Selling was concentrated in a few domestic bonds, which moved irregularly, and foreign governments, which maintained a firm trend.

Call money renewed at 3 per cent. Time money eased on short maturities.

MONEY PROBABLY FACTOR IN DICKERS

CINCINNATI APPEARS TO have taken the place of Boston as a supply station for the New York Giants. For years, just before the trading deadline, which is now June 15, John McGraw had only to reach into the camp of the Braves to get anything he needed or wanted. It came to be such a regular thing that charges of syndicate baseball were heard more than once. Now it's to Cincinnati that the Giant chief turns when his club requires bolstering in some department, and Sydney Weil, the new owner of the Reds, is qualifying to succeed Harry Frazee, Emil Fuchs and William F. Baker as a magnate ever ready to sell valuable players to McGraw under the pretense of making a trade.

Pete Donohue

On May 21, the Cincinnati club turned over to the Giants Hughey Critz, the best second baseman in baseball, and received in exchange for him, on the surface, only a practically worthless pitcher in the person of Larry Benton. Yesterday, the Red boss shipped to New York Ethan Allen, a fine outfielder, and Pete Donohue, who may become a high-grade pitcher again with a change of scenery, and all that he got in return for them, if his own statement were to be credited was Pat Crawford, a substitute infielder and pinch-hitter.

IN THIS LATEST deal Weil and McGraw will find it just as hard as on the occasion of the Benton-Critz transaction to convince the fans that no money changed hands in the dicker. It was generally estimated that about $20,000 went along with Benton to Cincinnati, and there is hardly any doubt that from $35,000 to $50,000 was given in addition to Crawford for Donohue and Allen.

For in playing values, this latest deal is even more lopsided than the first. New York gets so much the better of it that it is hard to believe it could have been put over on Weil and Manager Dan Howley, if the latter had any say in it, unless the club owner had received a fat roll of currency on the side.

ALLEN, ONLY 26 YEARS old and four seasons in the majors, is a fast and dependable outfielder who hit .308 in 1926, .295 in 1927, .305 in 1928 and .292 in 1929. He will furnish McGraw with valuable reserve outfield strength.

Donohue, it is true, has failed to live up to his old form in recent seasons. His last good campaign was in 1926, and in no year since has he won as many games as he lost. For the present season his record is one victory and three defeats. But there is a good chance in environment, and with a club like the Giants behind him, he may regain much of his former effectiveness.

Sydney Weil

NO MATTER HOW Donohue performs he can hardly fail to be at least as serviceable as Benton was to the Giants, and that leaves McGraw sitting pretty with these results in the two deals. He has replaced Benton with Donohue, and as he did not need Crawford as a regular he has added to his team just as much strength as Critz and Allen represent, which is considerable. Those two players are actually clear profit or whole velvet to him. It's absurd to ask the fans to believe that he got them for nothing.*

McGRAW IS TO be commended for his willingness to spend money for the purpose of strengthening his club, and as the owners of other teams probably could have obtained the same players by outbidding the New York man they have no kick coming. Neither can any one dispute the right of Weil to do as he pleases with his own property.

The main fault to be found with the dickering outside of Cincinnati where patrons have a real cause for complaint over the weakening of their club by cash sales, is the attempt to cover up the financial side of it. It's a reflection on the intelligence of the fans to expect them to believe that McGraw got three players like Critz, Allen and Donohue for two of the caliber of Benton and Crawford without throwing in a pile of cash to boot.

IT WAS RUMORED last winter that the new Cincinnati ownership planned to clean house and get rid of the old Red crowd. Quite a bit of progress has been made in that direction in the dropping of Hendricks, Wingo, Lugue, Critz, Donohue, Allen, Ehrhardt, Zitzmann, Purdy, McMullen, Dixon and others.

Jim Elliott

It's all well enough to make over a ball club, but it's not progressive baseball, nor fair to the Redland fans, to let old standbys get away without obtaining better men or players at least as good, to replace them. Little wonder that interest in Cincinnati has fallen to such an extent that the club has found it necessary to resort to sidewalk bargain sales in which 21 grandstand admission tickets are offered for $20.

NO SOUTHPAW IN the National League has won more than three games in succession this spring, and only two have done even that well. They are Jim Elliott, of the Dodgers, and Bill Hallahan, of the Cardinals. Elliott had a chance to get a record of four straight yesterday, but lost to another left-hander, Bill Walker, of the Giants, after he had beaten New York, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia in a row. In number of games won, Walker and Hallahan are the league's leading fork-handers, each having won five decisions. Larry French, Carl Hubbell and Watson Clark have won four each.

FRENCH AND WALKER tightened up the race in the Heydler wheel by stopping the Cards and Dodgers yesterday. The Pirates, in the third hole are now only three games below first place, and the Giants, though ranking fifth, are but five box scores behind the leaders. French did a neat job, after only two days' rest, in checking the Cards, who had won eight in succession and 17 out of 18. The Bucs have beaten the Redbirds five out of six to date.

It's hard to recall a previous major league race in which five clubs were so closely bunched as late as May 28. The clubs may be streaky, and may be playing loose baseball at times, but the going on the whole surely is tight enough to satisfy the most exacting.

OUIMET, VOIGT, JOHNSTON AND VON ELM WIN

ST. ANDREWS, England, May 28.—(AP.)—Bobby Jones today eliminated Cyril Tolley, defending champion, in the fourth round of the British amateur golf championship, 1 up, 19 holes.

The battle of the open champion of the United States against the amateur champion of Great Britain was a ding-dong match, square at the end of nine holes. Jones went one up at the fifteenth, but Tolley squared the match again at the sixteenth and the seventeenth was halved with birdies. The home hole, too, was a half and the extra hole was necessary.

Jones, by his victory eliminating the titleholder, advanced to the fifth round, joining his Walker Cup team-mate, George Voigt, who won his fourth-round match before Jones finished his titanic struggle with the gigantic Tolley. George Von Elm, and Francis Ouimet.

Ouimet won his second match of the day and advanced to the fifth round when he stopped J. Lyndon Jones, Cardiff, 7 up and 6 to play.

VON ELM VICTOR

Von Elm won his way into the fifth round by defeating Walter H. Ricardo, West Cornwall, 5 up and 3 to play.

Roland MacKenzie, Wilmington, Del., was eliminated by Kenneth Greig, St. Andrews, 4 up and 3 to play, in the fourth round. The defeat of MacKenzie marked the first Walker Cup team casualty of the day and the third of the week. Dr. O. F. Willing and Donald K. Moe losing yesterday.

FINISH DRAMATIC

Ten thousand madly excited Scots and all the Americans who could get here from London and other centers saw the spectacular finish of the match of the champions.

All St. Andrews was packed about the house green and hanging from windows of the hotels and buildings nearby. After the seventeenth was halved with birdie four and the home hole developed a pair of par fours, the crowd followed Jones and Tolley across the Swilcan Burn to the nineteenth.

At the extra hole Tolley was stymied and barely missed when he attempted to jump Jones' ball with a mashie. Jones holed a three-foot putt for a par 4 and the match was over. The cards:

Jones, out	454	544	435	—29
Tolely, out	544	454	543	—28
Jones, in	445	343	544	—36—75
Tolley in	434	435	444	—37—75

Extra hole:
Jones 4.
Tolley 5.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The third and final game of the Pirate-Cardinal series at Forbes Field was called off shortly after noon today on account of wet grounds. In making the announcement, the Pittsburgh officials stated that the game would be played in the Oakland Orchard on Thursday, July 31, this date being open on the schedule of both teams.

The cancellation of today's sport card means there will be no more baseball at the home of the Pirates until Friday morning. Tomorrow also is an open date on the schedule of the Bucs, the Reds to be here for the annual holiday games on Friday. The morning contest will begin at 10:30, and the afternoon game at 3 o'clock.

THREE GAMES LISTED

Only three more battles, aside from an attractive exhibition tilt, will be staged at Forbes Field before the Pirates depart on their first Eastern trip. The Reds will remain over for a Saturday contest, the Pirates to jump to Chicago for a single game with the Cubs on Sunday.

The new champions of baseball, the famed Athletics of Philadelphia, will take on the Buccos Monday in Oakland. The monarchs of the sport will stop over their first big invasion. Connie Mack has assured the home management that his stars will be in action in the inter-league till.

The two days of rest are welcomed by Skipper Ens and his sick team. Paul Waner would not have played this afternoon, had Harold Carlson, Cubs' right-hander who died last night in Chicago, was a popular member of the Pittsburgh baseball club under four managers, the good-natured, Swedish boy spending more than six seasons under the Pirate banner. The four pilots were Jimmy Callahan, Hugo Bezdek, George Gibson and Bill McKechnie.

Hal joined the Buccos in their spring training camp at Columbus, Ga., in the preparatory season of 1917, he having been drafted during the winter from the Rockford club. The Chicago White Sox, it seems, also drafted Carlson, but he was awarded to the Pirates.

IMPRESSIVE ROOKIE

Jimmy Callahan was managing the Buccos when the youthful right-hander reported at Columbus. Carlson was one of the most impressive of the new crop of recruits and he was one of the first-string pitchers in his first year. The Buccos, nevertheless, were a wobbly ball team and Hal won only 7 games as against 11 defeats, but he had an earned run average of 2.91.

Carlson was one of the Pirates who saw active service in France, he taking part in only three games in 1918 before he received the call to arms. He returned in 1919 and was a member of the slab staff right through to the early days of the 1923 season when he was sold by the Pirates to the Wichita Falls Club of the Texas League.

Carlson had big success in the Texas League in the remainder of the 1923 season and the Phillies drafted him at the close of the season.

The trip to Texas apparently had a beneficial effect on Carlson for he came back to be a real pitcher for the Quakers until he was purchased by the Cubs.

The spitball legislation appears to have militated against the big righthander. When Hal came to

JAYS, JOHNNIES REMAIN CLOSE

Defeating Scottdale 7 to 1 at Jeannette, the Jays kept on the heels of the league leading Johnstown Club in the Mid-Atlantic circuit yesterday, and are only a half game behind the pace setters.

Johnstown downed Clarksburg at Clarksburg, 8 to 5, after the Generals had taken an early lead.

At Cumberland, the Colts defeated Wheeling, 18 to 17, and at Charleroi, the Governors nosed out Fairmont, 11 to 10.

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

By THE BENCHWARMER.

Well, folks, I guess my roomie has showed you that he has the stuff. Larry started the home season by pitching in snowstorms and rain, and now he's pitching out of turn to try to give Jule a lift. And you can take it from any of us that sat on the bench or the fellas in the field, Larry had something on that swifter and his ol' screw ball was doing tricks.

I think Jule got quite a kick out of Larry workin' so good on two days' rest. When he was walkin' off the field after the game I says, "Well, Jule, do you still think the left-handers are daffy?" and 'hen I kept on goin' before he could think up a wise crack for an answer.

BRAME BETTER

Erv Brame is beginnin' to get better and when he gets ready we won't miss Steve so much. The doctors say Steve will be back in a month and ready to pitch, but none of us believe that. I know Jule doesn't, because I heard him talkin' with some of the others. If Steve is ready to pitch in his regular form in two months he'll be doin' pretty good.

It's no cinch to beat a club like the Cardinals with Paul and Lloyd both out of the lineup and two of the best pitchers laid up. It only goes to show what hustling will do. We'll make our share of

Italians Qualify For Hoosier Classic

INDIANAPOLIS, May 28.—(AP.)—Foreign competition in the eighteenth annual 500-mile automobile race to be run at the Indianapolis motor speedway Friday was assured yesterday when Baconi Borzacchini and Letterio Cucinotta, Italians, qualified their respective mounts.

Borzacchini, whose home is in Bologna, Italy, toured the course in his 16-cylinder car of fire engine red at 95.213 miles per hour. Cucinotta, whose home is in Messina, Italy, negotiated the 10-mile qualifying trial at 91.584 miles per hour in an eight-cylinder racer.

While the foreign entries were the attraction, it fell to Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis veteran dirt track driver, to steal the show by passing the test at 106.132 miles per hour in a four-cylinder car.

Three others qualified yesterday, bringing the total to 30. They were Joe Huff, Indianapolis, 101.178 miles per hour; Marion Trexler, Indianapolis, 92.978 miles per hour, and William (Speed) Gardner, Pittsburgh, 95.585.

N. B. A. Turns Down Cochran Challenge

CHICAGO, May 28.—(AP.)—The National Billiard Association has refused to act on the challenge directed by Welker Cochran to Jake Schaefer for a world's 18.2 balkline match.

Cochran challenged the champion and said he would claim the title if Schaefer refused to accept, but the N. B. A. ruled the time was inopportune for such a match and that Schaefer was the recognized champion.

By TOM BIRKS.

Two games in the City League will head this evening's sandlot card. The league-leading Book Shoe aggregation will clash with St. Johns at Sullivan field, and the J. L. Thomas nine, fresh from its victory over the champion Smilers, will travel to McKees Rocks to meet W. O. W.

Many fans in the district who are following the fortunes of the City League feel that Mike Jedinak and his hard-hitting Woodmen are going to get some place in the City League. Evidence of Cholko's hitting was very evident at Olympia Park against Book Shoe, when the Rox team scored eight runs to nearly tie up what appeared to be a one-sided ball game.

SAINTS TACKLE LEADERS

Book Shoe will try and keep its winning stride at the expense of Pat O'Shea's club. St. Johns is playing better baseball than ever, and when Chippy De Stout gets into the lineup in the shortfield, it is going to be a real club.

Two games will be staged in the C. & I. circuit. Reliance Life, now leading the league, will tangle with Mine Safety at the Homewood playgrounds. Mine Safety, with Gettings on the mound, is going to be a tough obstacle for the Insurance boys. Gettings, when right, is one of the best pitchers in the district. He will be opposed by Dutch Spencer.

HORNES MEET DRAVO

The other game will find Joseph Horne travelling to Neville Island to meet Dravo.

One game will be staged in the Central League. Soho Traders will go to Etna. The upriver boys are going to make an effort to tie up the league race by stopping Hornyak's club.

In the West Penn League, Verona Community will meet Homewood. The first game between the teams was one of the best staged in the loop this season. Isherwood will probably face Steele again.

Four games will be played in the two sections of the Steel City League. St. Joachims will meet Observatory Civics at Pleasant Valley, the Demor club will travel to the South Hills to tangle with Fox A. C. in western games.

In the eastern division the Crimsons will meet St. Elizabeth at Leslie Park, and the Young Men's Star Circle team will appear at Lincoln Place.

DORMONT LEADS

Dormont gained undisputed possession of first place in the West Penn League last evening, defeating Homewood in a sandlot classic, 6 to 2. Verona remained in the running by turning back Universal, 6 to 1.

In the City League, St. Johns walloped the N. S. Civics, 9 to 1. Pleasant Valley defeated W. O. W., 6 to 2 and Jimmy Smiths and Stowe tied, 3 to 3.

St. Philips nosed out the Methodists, 3 to 2 in the Crafton-Ingram Church League. Demor won over Dom Mazzie, 6 to 4 and St. Elizabeths tied the East End Cardinals, 4 to 4 in the Steel City circuit.

GRAYS WIN AGAIN

The Homestead Grays added to their long list of triumphs, defeating Glassport, 14 to 5. Crawfords won a close one from J. L. Thomas, 2 to 1. The Option club defeated the DeSota nine, 7 to 5; N. B. Collegians won over the Dan Heeps, 7 to 6; Christe nosed out the Collier Juniors, 3 to 2; Primrose won from the Warrens, 5 to 3, and the Brown Stars defeated Beaver Falls 5 to 4 in other independent contests.

In the Monongahela Valley League, Fairhope defeated Dunlevy, 10 to 5.

a game been staged, but the two additional periods of rest may bring him around in time for the holiday scrops. Pitcher Ervine Brame is slowly recovering from his attack of grippe, but Brame hardly will pitch before the club invades the East.

Reports from St. John's Hospital today were to the effect that Pitcher Steve Swetonic is getting along in a satisfactory manner. The appendicitis patient will be able to leave the hospital in a week or so, if he continues to improve, his doctor said. Steve, however, will be lost to the team for the duration of the Eastern invasion, but if Brame is able to take his turn on the mound, Ens will not feel so badly over the slab situation.

The Pirates defeated the Cardinals, 8 to 5, yesterday, thereby making it five out of six from the Redbirds. The invaders, nevertheless, were able to hold to their first-place position, for the Giants downed the Robins.

Larry French was a big here in the triumph of the Buccos. The Coast League southpaw worked on two days of rest and besides pitching cleverly, Larry uncorked a clean-up three-bagger in the second round that really was the winning punch of the game. The home team rode merrily to victory after that wallop, although the pace-setters threatened them as the battle progressed.

Al Grabowski, also a young left-hander, opposed the Pirates for five rounds, Hal Haid and Herman Bell finishing on the mound for the Cards.

PATSY PIRRONE, WILLIAMS REBOOKED

By HARRY KECK.
Sports Editor.

A third meeting between Harry Williams, local Negro light-heavyweight, and Patsy Pirrone, of Canton, O., has been arranged for the eight-round semi-final to the Willie Davies-Black Bill bout at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, next Monday night, according to announcement today by Matchmaker Jules Beck.

The pair first met in McKeesport, Williams winning by a knockout. In a return bout, at Motor Square Garden, recently, Pirrone really had the better of the battle, but didn't get the decision. Their third meeting should prove an interesting event in view of the history of their relations.

Johnny Warner, of Clairton, and Georgie Tomosky, who now makes his home in Trafford City, will box the second bout. The first bout will be arranged today.

Between Rounds

Jimmy Dale, of Indianapolis, will wind up his training in the Homewood Progressive Club gym today with a light workout for his main bout with Jackie Rodgers in the Hickey Park arena, Millvale, tomorrow night. He worked with several sparring partners yesterday and surprised the fans with his showing. As a result, he is being touted as a "dinger" who may upset the dope by beating the local star. Rodgers will wrench today from Willie Davies' training camp in the mountains ready for the battle.

Joey Goodman, who meets Benny Bass, the featherweight champion, in the Meyers Bowl, June 23, has been matched with Angie Fiscina, of New York, at the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, next Monday night, in three six-round prelims. Tom McCafferty boxes Joe Edwards, Tommy Arnold meets Mike Keller and Billy Fennert opposes Tony Brush. Bass boxes Eddie Anderson again at Milwaukee, June 9.

Fidel LaBarba and Buddy Graham box in Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight with Joe Dundee, former welterweight champion, meeting Harry Mason in the semi-final and Phil Rafferty taking on Willie Singer in another 10-rounder. In bouts at other New York clubs, Murray Sikola boxes Eddie Shapiro, Davy Alley engages Jimmy Jones and Pete Lavigueur stops with Willie Garbola and Joe Eyrel battles Mario Lenzi.

Frankie Wine boxes John Schwake and Harry Kirst meets Kit Adams in bouts at Springfield, Ill., tonight. Ohio Von Portz and Jack Gaglion appear in a feature event in the Chicago Stadium. Harlem Ramos boxes Vittorio Livesi in the eight-round semi-final.

Joe Lewis, of Cleveland, manager of Paul Pirrone, was a chapter of the Gorilla Jones-Vincent Forgione bout in the Meyers Bowl Monday night. He plans to send Pirrone against a good opponent here soon. Pirrone is matched with Sam Bruce, of Buffalo, at Akron, June 9.

Willie Davies will box an opponent to be named at the Fourth Brothers' Bowl in East Liverpool, O., on the night of June 16.

Matchmaker Ray Eberle, of the Junction Park arena, New Brighton, has arranged the following all-star card for his first open-air show of the season on the night of June 12: Ted Yarosz vs. Young Rudy, 10 rounds; Nick Peris vs. Harry Spencer, six rounds and Sue Hardy vs. Kenny Davis, Bobby Bedford vs. Eddie Flick, Jackie Wilson vs. Bobby Dempsey, Johnny Morgan vs. Lynwood Eudy, Paul Krajewski vs. Eddie Reimer and Nick Gruber vs. Mike Kelly, three rounds each. The entire proceeds will go to the American Legion, Boy Scouts' camp and the Welfare Committee of the town.

George Hagen, Polish 214-pounder, and George Manich, 210-pound Jugo Slav, have been matched for the main bout of the opening wrestling show in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, Friday night of next week. They will grapple on a two-out-of-three-falls basis. Vanka Zelinsky, of Russia, and Frank Brunkowich, of Finland, who also weigh close to 200 pounds, will be in the semi-final, one fall to a one-hour limit. Pete Alaxis and Jap Washington, local rivals, will wrestle the opening bout.

Midget Mike Moran, Mt. Washington featherweight, is back in training and will be seen in action in the local rings again shortly.

DUKE NETTERS MEET GROVERS TODAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Today's varsity tennis program brings Grove City to the Bluff for a return engagement with the Dukes. The Hill-toppers invaded the Crimson stronghold Monday and dropped a 4-3 decision. The summary:

Singles—A. Smeaton, Duquesne, defeated M. Kuzan, Grove City, 6-0, 6-1; Gregory, Grove City, defeated Campbell, Duquesne, 6-2, 11-13, 6-2; B. Kuzo, Grove City, defeated Casey, Duquesne, 6-4, 2-6, 6-3; Montgomery, Grove City, defeated Sweeton, Duquesne, 4-6, 8-1, 6-3; Burton, Duquesne, defeated Reeves, Grove City, 7-5, 6-2.

Doubles—Smeaton and Sweeton, Duquesne, defeated Kuzo and Kuzo, Grove City, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2; Gregory and Montgomery, Grove City, defeated Campbell and Casey, Duquesne, 6-4, 6-8.

OHIO DATE SET

Official announcement from Cleveland conveys the news that the annual United States Inter-City Doubles tournament will be staged at the Tennis and Racquet Club in the Forest City the week of June 16. Concurrently with the dual event will be reeled off, as per time-honored custom, the Ohio State championships, one of the strongest and most colorful net events of the Middle West.

The foregoing proclamation is of particular interest to Pittsburgh racqueters, for it has been an almost unvarying practice for the past half-decade or more for quite a coterie of local performers to attend the fracases in the neighboring metropolis. Dr. Billy McElroy, Dave, Dr. John, and Billy O'Loughlin, Jack Lauler, and Paul Sullivan have represented the Steel City in the United States tussles within recent history.

LOCALS TO ENTER

It is already well settled that the West Penn quota will include Sam Keller, former Duke court captain; Austin Famaras, southpaw star of College Avenue; Billy O'Laughlin, P. A. A. ace, and Sullivan.

Dave O'Loughlin will not be among the Cleveland contenders, nor will he be able to compete for the McCahill Cup, symbolic of the Western Pennsylvania title. The P. A. A.-Panther flash will go East the night of June 14 for a fortnight of intensive action on seaboard turf. Along with his brilliant teammate, Eddie Jacobs, he will spend the week of June 16 either at the Crescent A. C. of Brooklyn, where the Eastern intercollegiates will be held, or at Philadelphia, scene of the Pennsylvania state championships. On June 23 he and Jacobs will hit the national intercollegiates at the Merion Cricket Club.

Fight Results

At Boston—Jimmy Slattery-Pete Latzo bout declared no contest by referee, seventh round.

At Lafayette, Pa.—Billy Angelo knocked out Mike Goodman, 4 rounds; Spike Kenny defeated Kitchin Manford, 6 rounds; Frankie Fain and Billy Kilbane drew, 6 rounds; Leo Duncan knocked out Young Mitchell, 1 round; John Beu defeated Chuck Henderson, 6 rounds.

At Los Angeles—Dave Shade defeated Ace Hudkins, 10 rounds.

At Cumberland, Md.—Buddy Crane defeated Mike Ferrar, 6 rounds; Harry Lamont knocked out Tad Lewis, 3 rounds; Young Flynn defeated Jackson Myers, 6 rounds.

At Chicago—Jackie Brady defeated Al Wright, 8 rounds; Jimmy Lundy defeated Ben Duke, 6 rounds.

At New York—Sammy Cherin defeated Johnny Cuneo, 6 rounds; Al Cohen defeated Max Fleisher, 6 rounds.

At Greenville, Miss.—Eddie Finzo defeated Johnny Flynn, 10 rounds.

At Seattle, Wash.—Dode Refroe knocked out (technical) Mathews Dix, 7 rounds; Tony Portillo defeated Leslie Carter, 8 rounds.

At Philadelphia—Johnny Pippe defeated Marty Collins, 8 rounds; Joe Bovee defeated Joe Houghton, 8 rounds.

GRID DATES SET

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., May 28.—(A.P.)—The University of Minnesota football team will meet Stanford here October 18, 1930, in the second game of Minnesota's two-year home-and-home agreement with Stanford, it was announced here today on receipt of a telegram from Coach H. C. Crisler, of the Gopher squad.

Stanford will journey to Minneapolis October 11, this year, to play Minnesota.

NATS DEFEAT YANKS; GIANTS CHECK ROBINS

CARDS' STREAK SNAPPED; A'S WIN AGAIN

Associated Press.

Two major league baseball teams, the St. Louis Cardinals and Washington Senators, are doing their best to break away from the pack of contenders in the close major league races. But so far their efforts have resulted only in a pair of fine winning streaks and rather precarious holds on first place.

Washington is quite safe for the present, holding a margin of four games over the Philadelphia Athletics. However, the Senators cannot take many chances and still remain ahead.

The Senators held their place yesterday by beating the New York Yankees, 7 to 2. Sad Sam Jones was the whole show. He held the Yanks to four hits, three of them going to Babe Ruth, pitched his fifth complete game of the year and won his sixth successive victory.

The Cardinal string of victories was broken for the second time in 19 games yesterday, and St. Louis lost a fine chance to get a safer lead over the Brooklyn Robins. But the St. Louis hitters were not much more effective against Larry French than the Robins were against Bill Walker, and the two leaders of the National League went down in defeat, remaining only a half-game apart. St. Louis lost to Pittsburgh, 8 to 5, and Brooklyn to the New York Giants, 3 to 1.

Brooklyn did not get started against Walker's pitching until the eighth inning, and by that time the Giants had gained a three-run lead, which was just enough.

The Philadelphia Athletics, who had the makings of a nice winning streak of their own until they played two double headers at the Yankee Stadium, continued to pick up steam at the expense of the Boston Red Sox. They won their third game in a row and gave Boston its tenth successive defeat by a 7 to 5 score.

The third place Cleveland Indians did even better against Chicago, sending the White Sox down to sixth place by sweeping their second double header in two days, 3 to 2 and 9 to 8.

Detroit, supplanting Chicago in fifth place, went to even greater heights of slugging for a 16 to 11 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

The Big Swede! That's what they call H. G. Olsen, professional at the Burke Glen Golf Club, out on the William Penn highway, who today is celebrating his twenty-fourth birthday. Seems funny a guy would celebrate on his birthday, but Swede is—an' how! At any rate, Olsen started playing and caddying at the tender age of 15 at the Hagerstown, Md., Country Club, after which he moved on to Chicago, renewing his interest in the game at the Jackson Park Golf Club.

H. G. Olsen

Olsen came from the West to Pittsburgh about six years ago, playing at the Schenley Park municipal links, where his game developed rapidly. He hands J. J. Whittingham a great deal of credit for straightening him out all around. While at Kiski, in 1923, Olsen was No. 3 man on the golf team and also played tackle on the football team. He is a product of Schenley High School, where he participated in football and track, being a crack miler. His best scholastic athletic days were back in 1926. This is his first year as a golf professional, and he likes his berth at Burke Glen very much. He has entered the national open championship qualifying round and hopes to make the grade. He appears to be promising as a golfer.

By KNUTE ROCKNE.
Member All America Board of Track and Field.

We have our raisin weeks and our prune weeks, which are fostered by our breezy compatriots from California. This will be track week, with California still in the limelight. Despite the fact that Harvard, Penn and Cornell are stronger than usual and N. Y. U. has some fine individual performers, none of these teams is string enough to stop the onrush of the Pacific Coast invasion.

Knute Rockne

The Intercollegiates on Saturday should lie between the University of Southern California and Stanford. From my way of computing, Southern California should be good for about 40 points, while Stanford should shade 30.

WYCKOFF SPRINT ACE

For Southern California, Frank Wyckoff, who ran 9 4-5 seconds in the 100 meter without starting blocks, should win one of the sprints and get second in the other. Captain Jesse Mortensen, who also plays football and basketball rather heftily, looks like the likely winner in the javelin throw. Welsh, Carls and Payne, among them, should annex at least 12 points in the hurdles races. Dick Barber and Paul should be good for first and third in the broad jump. Van Osdel and Stewart, both of whom have done better than 6 feet 5 inches this year, should garner six points in the high jump. Hubbard, in the pole vault, has done 13 feet 6 inches, and although there are a lot of Eastern vaulters who have about the same mark, he should be good for a point or two. Hall and Stewart, in the shot and discus, may score some counters, although just how many is problematical. All of this means at least 40 points for the Trojans.

The Cardinal athletes from Stanford should make more than 30 points and will make it mighty interesting for Southern California all afternoon. They do not appear to have enough balance to win.

DYER CLOSE RIVAL

Krenz, who set a new world discus mark of 167 feet some inches recently, should win the discus and take second in the shot. Rothert, who has put the shot more than 53 feet, should win that event and take about third in the discus. Dyer, the crack sprinter, ought to win one of the sprints and run second to Wyckoff in the other. These two lads are very evenly matched.

Smith, the hurdler, is good for points in both hurdles races. Dowell has done better than 24 feet in the broad jump. Morrison, the Stanford quarter-miler, with a mark around 48 seconds, will meet some terrific competition from Monroe, of Harvard; McCafferty, of Holy Cross; Engle, of Yale, and St. Clair, of Syracuse, but should place well up.

Rothert, Krenz and Dyer should account for 25 points, while their teammates should bring the total up to more than 30.

Of course, it is not without the bounds of possibility that Dick Templeton's boys may rise to heights and win as they have in past years, but the dope points to Southern California. It looks like a Trojan year.

DISABLED VETS WATCH MAXIE LAND K. O.

ENDICOTT, N. Y., May 28.—(AP.)—Max Schmeling continued yesterday to practice his knockout punch on Jack DeMave, who spends much of his sparring time with the German on the floor. Fifty disabled veterans of the World War saw Max flatten the Hoboken blond in the second round of their workout. The veterans were guests from the State Hospital at Binghamton.

Schmeling worked under wraps in the four rounds he boxed with Stanley Poreda and George Neron, another pair of spar mates. He worked easily with DeMave until the second round when a short right hand smash to the chin spun DeMave around and stretched him on the canvas. Schmeling worked indoors due to the chilly weather.

JACK RESUMES GRIND

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., May 28.—(INS.)—Back in camp after a two-day visit with his three children in Boston, Jack Sharkey resumed training today for his bout against Max Schmeling in New York, June 12.

When he resumes boxing this afternoon, the Bostonian will have James J. Braddock, King Solomon and Johnny Grosso as sparring mates. Braddock will take the place of Paul Cavalier for a few days while Cavalier is recovering from an injured arm.

Sharkey weighed 203 pounds today and expected to reach the 196-pound mark he has set for his final days of training without difficulty.

St. Joe's Manager To Join Rochester

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., May 28.—(AP.)—The St. Joseph Western League Club announced today that Manager Gene Bailey will go to Rochester, of the International League, to play in the outfield.

Joe Sugden, St. Louis Cardinals scout, will succeed Bailey as St. Joseph pilot.

WEST PENN CLUBS CLASH IN TEAM MATCHES

WOMEN PLAY AT ALCOMA TODAY

By VERNE SWARTSFAGER

Two golf tournaments are being played today on local links. The annual club team championship of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association, involving 16 clubs of teams of eight men each, is being played today over four courses—The Pittsburgh Field Club, Fox Chapel Golf Club, Oakmont Country Club and South Hills Country Club. At the Alcoma Country Club, the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania is staging a one-day tournament.

In the team matches today, events are being staged morning and afternoon. The victors of today's contests meet July 2 to determine the district club team champion.

Tomorrow will be the last day of tournament golf until next week, excepting only the big club matches slated for Memorial Day. The Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania, Section I team league, will be cavorting over the soil of the Allegheny Country Club and a fine bit of tilting is in prospect.

In today's team matches Highland, Valley Heights, Stanton Heights and Chartiers Heights are competing at the Pittsburgh Field Club. Westmoreland, New Castle, Alcoma and Shannopin are playing at South Hills. South Hills, Hannastown, Fox Chapel and St. Clair are meeting at Oakmont and Pittsburgh Field Club, Allegheny. Greensburg and Oakmont are staging their battle at Fox Chapel.

PESCI TO END FINE CAREER

By JESS CARVER.

Athlete, scholar and diplomat, and, when he's not doing anything else, chief bouncer in the office of John Holohan, graduate manager of athletics, Joe Pesci brings his brilliant athletic career at Duquesne University to a close Friday when he leads the Duke track and field squad into the Tri-State Conference championships at Beaver Falls.

Pesci holds the conference record for the mile run, which he set last Memorial Day in the league meet with a run of 4.28. He is captaining the Red and Blue squad again this year, after having led it through the 1929 campaign. In addition to holding the conference mile championship, Joe is also possessor of the A. M. A. of the A. A. U. title, which he won last year in the title meet at the Stadium.

ALL-ROUND ATHLETE

Joe was a member of the 1926 and 1927 varsity football squads at Duquesne, and could have won a berth on the Duke cage squad had the authorities decided that with his scholastic duties and the responsibilities of captaining and being practically the entire Duke track team, he had enough to do and barred him from listening in on Chick Davies' ravings.

Pesci is a pip of a scholar, and is vice president of the senior class of the school of accounts council and president of his fraternity, Alpha Phi Delta. He's a diplomat, for he has been running the inter-fraternity council, and if you think it doesn't take diplomacy to keep a flock of fraternities in line, you've never sat in on a meeting.

ILLNESS HURT FORM

The Duke leader has been slowly rounding into form this year, due to an attack of appendicitis that laid him lower than Phil Scott early in the season. He may attempt to run both the mile and the 880 in the Conference meet, though in the latter, he'll have to beat Geneva's star middle distance plodded, Nulton. He will rule the favorite in the mile.

Joe aids John Holohan, the guy at the helm of Duquesne sports, during office hours. He keeps insurance agents, book peddlers, tramp athletes, half of the 10,000 who want tickets on the 50-yard line, sport writers and other folks who haven't much to do from turning Holly's palatial office into a clubhouse.

As secretary of the Monogram Club, it also is Joe's duty to see that Babe Kelleher don't blossom forth wearing a basketball letter and that Brud Stephens doesn't break out with a football "D."

Aside from all this, he hasn't much to do—except run.

BRADY WINS.

CHICAGO, May 28.—Jackie Brady, Syracuse welter, won over Al Wolgast in an eight-round main bout here last night.

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

SHADE VICTOR.

LOS ANGELES, May 28.—Dave Shade, veteran middleweight, defeated Ace Hudkins in a torrid 10-round battle here last night.

Nick Altrock Says:

NEW YORK, May 28.—Several subscribers have written my conundrum department to find out what is the matter with the Giants. Well, several of McGraw's boys waited to have the mumps this season when they should have got them in school. Mumps is a disease where you get two goiters for the price of one. Other constant readers have asked me what is the trouble with the A's. Well, one of the troubles is that some of Connies youngsters are suffering from mumps above the ears. They had to postpone straw hat day in Philadelphia to get lids big enough to fit over their heads.

JONES BEATS TOLLEY

two players, who are old friends, battled through every hole and every shot to the finish. They were never more than one hole apart and from the eleventh through the sixteenth they exchanged holes with not one halved.

Jones' opponent in the fifth round tomorrow will be G. O. Watt of Broughty Ferry.

Harrison R. Johnston, St. Paul American amateur, chastised Jones Voigt Von Elm and Ouimet in the fifth round by defeating Reginald Straker, Walton Heath, 3 up and 2 to play.

U. S. ACES ADVANCE

The results and cards of the American aces' third-round matches follow:

Roger Wethered, former champion, eliminated D. A. Fiddian, 7 and 5.

Maj. C. O. Hadel defeated Robert Neill, 2 and 1.

E. B. Foster, an American living in London, defeated J. B. Gwaltney, New York, 3 and 1.

John McCredie defeated Frank Sweeney of New York and London, 6 and 5.

J. A. Lang, Scottish star, defeated A. F. Simpson, finalist in the 1926 tourney, 6 and 4.

John Nelson Smith, runner-up to the last amateur championship, defeated H. D. Gillies, St. Andrews, 1 up, 19 holes.

George Waddell, a Scotsman who lost an eye in the World War, defeated Frank C. Stevens, Jr., Hollywood, Cal., 1 up, 19 holes.

T. A. Torrance, Walker Cup player of Britain, defeated Walter G. Fovargue, Aberdeen, Wash., 5 and 4.

Leslie Hartley beat James Brock 3 and 1.

G. A. Hill, G. A. Hill beat Roy Hartley, 1 up, in a match which went 20 holes, and constituted one of the big upsets of the tournament.

REFEREE STOPS SLATTERY, LATZO GO

BOSTON, May 28.—(AP.)—After being jeered for seven rounds, Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, recognized in New York State as the light-heavyweight champion, and Pete Latzo, of Scranton, Pa., were thrown out of the ring by Referee Johnny Brasill here last night in the Boston Gardens feature bout. Brasill declared the bout "no contest," and ordered both purses withheld.

The crowd started on Slattery as soon as he began his dancing tactics in the opening round. As he circled about the bobbing Latzo, flipping light lefts to his head, the crowd jeered. Latzo tried to shoot light lefts to the body and his antics displeased the crowd.

With the bell, the crowd chanted "throw them out" and it continued this demand in every rest period until the seventh, when Brasill walked out of the ring, seized a microphone and pronounced the bout "no contest."

errors, but anybody that says we ain't tryin' is barkin' up the wrong tree.

GUS HITS ONE

Gus Suhr has been in a battin' slump but he showed signs o' comin' out of it yesterday. Boy, did you see him sock that one in the seventh! If he'd got that ball up a little I think it would have knocked down the screen. All the fellas think Gus can hit any kind o' pitchin' but he's been in one of those slumps that come to every player.

Well, it looks like we will have a chance to rest tomorrow, but if we get rained out today I guess they'll make the Cards stay over and play on the open date. Anyway, you take it the Bucs gets a rest out of it and we need it with the Decoration Day double-header comin' on.

NEW DOG RACE MEET OPENS TOMORROW

Major league greyhound racing will make its bow tomorrow night at the New Kensington Kennel Club, located at the fair grounds just off the Freeport road. This track will operate under a sanction from the International Greyhound Racing Association, the governing body of a circuit comprising 25 tracks in this country and England.

Thousands of dollars have been spent in rebuilding the grandstand and putting in a quarter-mile track and new kennels at the old fair grounds site. Five hundred dogs from St. Louis, Chicago, Butte and Miami will begin their schooling trials today. The public is invited to watch the trials.

Thomas A. Keen, secretary of the International Association, is manager of the New Kensington club. He has built and operated tracks at St. Louis, Miami, Butte, Chicago, Milwaukee, New Orleans, Galveston, Montreal and London.

SECOND DISTRICT TRACK

Ten races will be run every night except Sunday, the first going to the post at 8:15. Bus service will be operated from the Pennsylvania station at New Kensington, reaching the track in six minutes. The opening of the New Kensington track will give the Pittsburgh district two dog-racing plants. The Bridgeville track, which opened last Saturday night, continues nightly with nine races on its program.

Some fast times were hung up by the doggies at Bridgeville last night. In the first race of the program, Hunter's Lad sped over the quarter-mile distance in 26 3-5 seconds, and in another 440, Intruder turned in a 27 2-5 performance. The summary:

First event, 5-16 mile—Won by Mariona Nyger Jim; second, Patterns; third, Time—29 1-5 seconds.

Second event, ¾ mile—Won by Hunter's Lad; Blond Gertrude, second; Reaver, third. Time—26 3-5 seconds.

Third event, Futurity—Won by Running Fox; Lincoln Link, second; Big Chief, third. Time—31 1-5 seconds.

Long's Sport Comment

Jolley, widely advertised slugger from the Coast League, may be coming through for the White Sox. The Pale Hose have lost four straight, and eight of the last 11, but the slump cannot be charged to Jolley.

The big fellow skidded so badly for a time that Donie Bush put him on the bench, and the rest appears to have done him a world of good. Jolley has made a home run in each of his last three games, and five homers in his last seven contests. In those seven games he has made 16 hits in 29 times at bat for an average of .552, and has boosted his season's mark to .346.

Carmen Hill

CARMEN HILL has gone away again, adding another turn to a career that has seen more ups and downs than that of any other pitcher with major league connections. The Cards have sent the bespectacled pitcher to Minneapolis in the American Association under an option that gives them the right to recall him on 24 hours' notice. The trip to the minors is no new experience for Hill. For 15 years he has been almost a commuter. He has been with the Pittsburgh club alone no fewer than four times. The Bucs sent him to Youngstown in 1915, to Rochester in 1916, to Indianapolis in 1919 and to St. Louis last year. Minneapolis will be the ninth club for which Hill has pitched since 1915, not counting his independent engagements in 1920 and 1921.

Turtles With Speed To Compete Here

Turtles with actual speed will be seen at Duquesne Garden when the two-day terrapin derby opens Friday and Saturday evenings in the Oakland arena. While sport followers are unaware of the speed of the turtles, it is surprising how fast they actually move. They can move at a gait of 14 to 16 inches per second.

The running time of each heat will likely be between two and three minutes—or about the same running time as the Kentucky Derby.

There will be a special match race between Convention Hall, the largest turtle, and the entries representing the three Pittsburgh newspapers.

Columbia to Put Derby on Air

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP.)—The British derby is to be broadcast to America and Canada direct from Epsom Downs on June 4.

The Columbia Broadcasting System announced yesterday that its coast to coast network, extending into Canada, would be connected to the short wave transatlantic circuit to provide a description of the racing classic from the English track.

The broadcast is to be made from 8:45 to 9:15 a. m. (E. S. T.)

SCOTT RETAINS W. P. I. A. L. TITLE

Johnny Reed's Scott High School nine, of North Braddock, retained the W. P. I. A. L. baseball championship it won a year ago by defeating McKees Rocks in the finals of this year's campaign on the Edgar Thomson diamond yesterday, 7 to 3.

A rousing home run in the second inning, struck by Johnny Bache, with the bases loaded, established a lead that the Rox crew never was able to overcome. Not until the final inning did the Section II team score.

Kliskey, crack moundsman of the champions, hurled a fine game, giving up but five safe hits and striking out 13 opposing batsmen. Oriss and J. Bache led the attack of the winners, with two safe blows apiece. The score:

Oliver, Section II City League champs, closed their regular season by defeating South Hills, 5 to 4. Shady Side Academy defeated Langley, 7 to 3, in another scholastic tilt.

Von Porat, Gagnon To Clash Tonight

CHICAGO, May 28.—(AP.)—Otto Von Porat, the Norwegian paralyzer, and Sailor Jack Gagnon, Boston heavyweight, will meet tonight in the Chicago stadium in what is billed as a 10-round final bout—but which each claims will go not more than four rounds.

TILDEN, GERMAN PARTNER COP CROWN

PARIS, May 28. — (INS.)—For the first time in three years, the team of Henri Cochet and Eileen Bennett lost the mixed doubles title in the French tennis championships today when William T. (Big Bill) Tilden and Fraulein Cillie Aussem, of Germany, defeated the titleholders with ease.

The lanky American and his diminutive German partner won the final in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4.

America's first and second ranking woman tennis players, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs, won their matches in straight sets, but Mrs. Moody was forced to show her best tennis against her young English adversary, Phyllis Mudford.

Although beaten by scores of 6-2, 6-4, the youthful player whose advent in British feminine tennis circles has caused her to be compared with Sarah Palfrey in the United States, showed herself well able to trade drives with the champion and also to solve her powerful service. Miss Jacobs won somewhat more easily from Mlle. Anna Payot, Swiss champion, at 6-0, 6-2.

Wilbur Coen, of Kansas City, defeated Georges Glasser, of France, 6-0, 6-2, 6-3, reaching the fourth round in singles.

CARLSON ONCE BUC STAR

the Buccos he was a thrower of the moist offerings, but soon after his arrival in the big show, the fight against the offensive pitch was started, with Owner Barney Dreyfuss, of the Buccos being the leading figure in the agitation to abolish the fling.

The baseball powers finally decreed that no more pitchers would be allowed to come into the league with the "spitter" as a part of their reportoire. They did make provision for those already in, however, the legislation being modified to the extent that those already known as spitball pitchers could continue to use it. A plan was adopted whereby these pitchers could be registered by the various clubs, but the Pittsburgh officials, apparently to be consistent in their fight, did not register Carlson and he was banned from throwing the pitch.

CONSISTENT WINNER

Carlson was allowed to revert to the spitball when he went to the Texas League in 1923 as there was no ban on the pitch in that circuit. When he joined the Phillies he could not use it, but he proved a consistent winner without it. Hal always had plenty of "stuff" and by making a close study of the batters he eventually became known as one of the smartest pitchers in the league.

Carlson seemed to be in his usual good nature last Friday at Forbes Field as he pitched against the Pirates. In the second inning of that Cub-Pirate battle he was struck in the pitching hand with a line drive from Fred Brickell's bat and later he retired on account of the injury. Hal had scores of personal friends in this city.

DREYFUSS GRIEVED

The Pirate camp today had a tinge of sorrow as a result of the death of Carlson. Owner Barney Dreyfuss, Manager Jewel Ens and the players all had a deep regard for the enemy pitcher, whom they held in high esteeem owing to the manly qualities owned by Hal.

"I am very sorry to hear of Carlson's death," said Owner Dreyfuss. "Harold was the type of athlete that reflects credit on baseball. His exemplary habits stood out and he always was willing and anxious to do his part in any ball game. He was a fine boy in every respect."

The Pittsburgh Club will send a floral tribute to the Carlson home.

25 IN LOCAL AUTO RACE

No fewer than 25 cars will line up before Starter Frank Norton in the elimination trials for the 100-mile auto race at the Pittsburgh-Bridgeville speedway Friday afternoon, Memorial Day. This much was assured yesterday when Director B. Ward Beam received several more entries, including three more Pittsburghers, boosting the local coterie to five.

The Pittsburgh team, of course, will be the underdogs, inasmuch as the plethora of big league talent likely will cop the majority of the 12 positions in the century grind. Billy Schemp and Joe Bianchi bid fair to qualify, and Eddie Exler, Jim Aldridge and Henry Langer also feel confident of driving their steel steeds fast enough to make the grade.

Other entries received yesterday were from Charles Kley, Bob Yingling, Barnesboro; Billy Carpentier, Cleveland; Bill Chittum, Columbus and Chick Pritchard, Los Angeles.

NICHOLS REINSTATED

CHICAGO, May 28.—(AP.)—Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, has granted the application of Chester Nichols for reinstatement. Nichols is the property of the Philadelphia National League club.

Rexinger Favored In Big Ten Tennis

CHICAGO, May 28. — (AP.) — With George Lot, of the University of Chicago, the defending champion, away helping the United States in its effort to regain the Davis Cup, the battle for the Big Ten singles championship appeared to be a free-for-all.

The Conference stars will play first round matches tomorrow, with the finals scheduled for Saturday. Scott Rexinger, of Chicago, runner-up to Lott for the singles title last year, and the Davis Cup player's partner in winning the doubles, was the favorite. His competition was expected from his teammates, Paul Stagg and Herbert Heyman; John Curtis and Russell Berghgerm, of Northwestern; Douglas Turner, of Illinois; Charles Okerbloom, of Ohio State, and Bob Beal, of Michigan.

PITT FROSH WIN

The Pitt freshman tennis team defeated Allderdice High School yesterday, 7 to 6. The summary:

Singles—Snow, Pitt, defeated Hess, Allderdice, 6-2, 6-4; Janks, Pitt, defeated Goldman, Allderdice, 6-2, 6-0; J. Rosenberg, Pitt, defeated Green, Allderdice, 6-1, 7-5; Alpert, Pitt, defeated Brenner, Allderdice, 6-1, 6-1; O'Loughlin, Pitt, defeated J. Thompson, Allderdice, 6-3, 6-4.

Doubles—Alpert and O'Loughlin, Pitt, defeated J. Thompson and L. Thompson, Allderdice, 6-0, 6-1; Snow and Friedlinan, Pitt, defeated Brenner and Hess, Allderdice, 3-6, 6-4, 12-10.

JACK HIGH GAINS

NEW YORK, May 27.—(AP.)—Jack High's victory in the Metropolitan Handicap on Saturday has boosted the G. H. Widener 4-year-old's total earnings beyond the $100,000 mark. In round figures, the handsome son of John F. Grier has earned $107,000.

NOTED HORSES IN ALLEGHENY SHOW

Horsemen will have an opportunity to view the finest group of saddle horses ever shown locally at the Allegheny Country Club Horse Show at the Sewickley Heights clubhouse June 5, 6 and 7.

Twelve entries have been received in the five-gaited class. The horses are the tops in the show ring and have to their credit many blue ribbons and trophies.

The Greensburg owner, J. W. Kuhns, is showing Solid Gold, c. g., 15.1; Old Hill Stables, Newbury, Mass., will send the handsome Flowing Gold, c. g., 16.2; G. Berry Beaumont, of Bryn Mawr, will bring the trio, Beau Marr, b. g., 15.2; Beau Twigg, b. g., 15.2, and Charming Gypsy, c. m., 15.2; F. R. Evans, Ben Avon, will show Colonel, b. g., 15.3; Charles L. Cook, Shelbyville, Ky., Bob Boy, b. g., 15.3; Miss Mary Fiers, Oklahoma City, Vagabond Prince, b. g., 15.2; Naughty But Nice, c. m., 15.1, and Miss Annabelle Lea, bl. m., 15.2; John T. Harrington, Youngstown, O., The Star Glorious, b. m., 15.1.

The battle in this class promises keener competition than the 1929 renewal, in which the champion, King Genus, owned by Dixiana Farms, Lexington, Ky., was returned the victor.

Coast Squads Drill For I. C. 4-A. Meet

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 28.—(AP.)—The cream of the far West's mighty track and field forces yesterday worked out in the Harvard Stadium to get in trim for the fifty-fourth I. C. A. A. A. A. championships here on Friday and Saturday.

Thirty-four colleges will send teams to contest for the intercollegiate title. However, the meet appeared doomed to be nothing more than a dual contest between two California institutions, Stanford, which won the title last year, and Southern California.

Rainy Day Means Worry to Cub Boss

CHICAGO, May 28.—(AP.)—Manager Joe McCarthy, of the Cubs, last season didn't mind an occasional rainy day and idleness. Now he doesn't like them, he says, because they give him too much spare time in which to worry about what's wrong with the National League champions this season.

BOUT POSTPONED

HARTFORD, Conn., May 28.—(AP.)—The ten-round lightweight bout between Louis (Kid) Kaplan, of Hartford and Joey Medill, of Chicago, scheduled for last night was postponed until tonight because of rain and cold weather.

OUTBOARD MEET SET

CHICAGO, May 28.—(AP.)—The National championship meet of the National Outboard Association has been awarded to Middletown, Conn., and will be held October 11, 12 and 13.

SHADY SIDE WINS

The Shady Side Academy track team defeated Williamsburg in a dual meet yesterday, 77½ to 44½.

NO TROU

DAILY TRUE STORY

Treat 'Em Rough!

"I hope you'll be a good girl," Mrs. Mason said.

Flo Mason's pansy eyes widened and her cheeks grew redder than ever.

"Why—why—Mrs. Mason," she stammered, "has there ever been any reason for you, or anyone, to think I might not be a good girl?"

Flo always called her stepmother "Mrs. Mason." They never openly fought and never got along well together with Flo's father dead.

"One can't tell—New York is just a den of wickedness and you have no backbone, you are actually man-shy—you'd let the first good-looking chap take advantage of you. I don't see why you think you have to go."

"I've told you," Flo murmured.

"Your art" Mrs. Mason said it with a sneer. "If you could call designing patterns for wall paper and chintzes and things real art. You were doing well enough right here."

"I will make it plainer," Flo said quietly, and there was a gleam in her eye that denoted bravery. Physically timid, she was, it couldn't be denied, but no coward at that.

"I am leaving to be nearer the people who buy my designs—but, as you say, I can submit them from here. My chief reason is to get away from you. You have made life miserable for me since father died. You are furious because he left you just a weekly allowance and the balance of his income to me—furious because you cannot sell our old home or touch it except to live in it. That was father's idea, not mine. You could have been kind to me, but you were cold. You laughed when I studied designing, you always took pains to belittle me in company. You were good to father, anyone would have been, but just the same, you are a most detestable woman to me and I shall never come back until—"

Flo paused.

"I die—waiting for my shoes? Oh, do hurry and get away from here. You have no more gratitude—"

Greets Ted Luther

Mrs. Mason paused. Ted Luther was coming up the path. Flo went out to meet him. They walked down the path together.

"She been at you again, honey?" he asked.

"No; I was after her, Ted."

"Get out, sweetheart, you are too tender-hearted to say 'Boo!' to a cow."

Flo told him all.

"You will soon be earning more and more, Ned, and my income—"

"Honey, don't. I love you so, but I can't live on your income. I'll have my little patents through and then sold inside a year—then I'll come after you."

"I don't blame you, Ted, I see it your way," Flo agreed.

So she went to New York. She located a little studio apartment down in the Village.

Flo Mason didn't set the designing branch of the art world afire, but she prospered. She prospered so well that even if there had been no generous quarterly income from her father's estate she could have kept a whole flock of wolves from her door.

Across the hall from her place Greg Masters had his studio.

Greg was quite a character. On his door, below his name, he had painted:

STRICTLY COMMERCIAL.
ART FOR MONEY'S SAKE.

Greg had come from upstate, and he knew his advertising tricks. He made the boast that if he could get five thousand for a painting, solely as a work of art, and only a thousand for it for advertising, he would sell it for advertising.

Of course a lot of it was pose.

When Flo moved in Greg caught sight of her now and and nodded. Flo was bashful, but she returned his nod.

Except for certain real working hours, Greg had a bunch of brother artists or would-be-artists in his studio. He was always flush and knew where to get good liquor.

"Who's the little Quakeress-looking damsel across the hall, Greg?" Vick Cheney asked him.

Greg chuckled.

"Sweet little innocent from Virginia. I'm going to make her soon as I get time."

Some laughed at this.

"The dames throw themselves at you—how do you manage it?" another friend asked.

"Treat 'em rough—that's the whole secret—treat 'em rough and they love you—women always like that—"

Drinking Party

Greg opened another bottle. This was going to be a drinking party for fair.

"Yes, treat 'em rough," Greg went on. "Now the Chinese have the right idea. They say that women have no souls, need no souls, are merely here for man's comfort." Greg took a big drink and winked.

"I'll bet you've left a trail of broken hearts all over the country," Vick suggested. Vick knew how to string a man along and keep him feeling generous.

"A few—a few."

It was long after dark when the party broke up. Greg started out for some eats. Flo Mason was just entering her place.

"Hello there, sweet little neighbor," Greg called. "Let's go places and do things."

Flo turned, smiled faintly and shook her head.

"Let's go eat, what say?"

Greg had stepped to her door. Flo said she had eaten. He forced his way in.

"Please go—I've got to work," she begged.

"Like to talk to pretty girls. I fairly eat 'em alive," he said.

Flo said, "Why annoy me, Big Boy?"

"See you again," Greg said.

And he did, again and then again. He got a great yen for the timid little girl.

There was no keeping him out. He'd break in, spring the lock with his giant shoulder or make such a fuss that Flo opened the door to avoid a lot of noise and trouble.

"That's me, little fluffy female," he'd often say. "I treat 'em rough and they love it."

He was unusually annoying one night. It was late. Flo had only a kimono about her when he forced his way in. He said the same thing then.

"I detest you for it, Greg Masters," Flo said.

Greg laughed.

"I'm going to make you love me. Know what that means? Right now. Come on, sweetness."

"Of course you could do it, Greg," Flo said, through white lips. "There's a word for it—"

"Aw, be sensible—I'd say I'd been coming here right along. What excuse you got for letting me in your room and you dressed like this? No one would believe you—be modern—" He reached and grabbed her.

"Do you know what will happen if you do—" Flo choked and finished in a whisper—"if you ravish me?"

Greg laughed.

"I'll have to kill myself," she said, simply.

Studios Drug on Market

Greg stared at her. It must have sobered him considerably.

"Cheerio—you'll be begging me to love you one of these days. They all do," he said. But his face was red and he was puzzled at his feeling of embarrassment. Somehow he believed her.

But he kept on pestering her for a year.

Then Ted Luther arrived. He had made the grade. He had to go to Chicago and would be back in a week. He would, then marry Flo and they'd go back to their Virginia home town. Luther had bought the old Boyd place, a wonderful residence.

So Flo wore the big ring and put an advertisement in the paper to sublet her furnished studio. Flo was like that, never wasteful — she had another whole year's lease so she might as well sublet to pay for it. She'd get more because it was her furniture. Then she could sell the furniture.

Studios in the village seemed a drug on the market, but on the third day a veiled young lady called.

Inside she removed her hat. Flo stared at her in surprise. This person was a Hebe, an Amazon. Her hair was golden, her skin peaches and cream.

She wanted the studio. She admitted that she wasn't an artist.

"I suppose the—er—neighbors are respectable," she said.

"Oh, yes—except—across the hall the man is something of a brute, he loves to annoy girls."

"Treats them rough, does he?" the lady asked.

"And boasts of it. Thought I ought to tell you."

"I'll manage," she said. "By the way, and don't get sore, has he a key here?"

"No—it isn't like that. I've never been quite so modern," and Flo blushed, "but he forces locks when he's drinking; he annoys me. Tell him—" in a burst of confidence she whispered: "tell him you will be forced to kill yourself if he tries to—to wrong you."

Married

"You had to do that!" there was pity in her eyes. Flo nodded.

Ted came back. He and Flo were married just before the License Bureau closed. They had dinner, got tickets for the midnight train and went to Flo's old studio for her bags.

The new tenant was there, and a handsome little child was asleep in the bedroom. It was late. Just then someone pounded at the door and Greg's voice howled. "Open—open—got to talk—lonesome—open—want me to beat up pretty li'l girl?"

Ted started for the door. Flo hauled him back. Greg was twice his size. The new tenant motioned Flo to go back, and she started for the door. She opened it suddenly and Greg lurched in.

"Smack!"

It was a terrific blow. More blows followed.

The handsome big blonde was beating Greg until Flo thought she'd kill him. Finally he sat up on the floor, bleeding at the mouth, and with a fast closing cut eye.

The handsome big woman had a rolling pin—Flo hadn't seen it before.

"Treat 'em rough is my motto as well as yours, Greg Masters," she said; "that's why I came here to live."

"For God's sake—" Greg spit out some blood and a tooth. "It's Mayme."

"It's Mayme. Wash up and take a look at little Greg—our son. Tomorrow we go over and get married—on little Greg's account. I've been training for three years to do a little rough treating myself."

"Yes, Mayme," said Greg.

"Hang Official Poster in Your Window."—Frisby.

This is the Official Poster for the Frisby Law Enforcement Drive. Mr. Frisby wants one of these posters hung in the parlor window of every home in America. "The poster," he says, "will create a spirit of law observance among the masses. No home is complete wthout one."

The poster was designed by Mrs. Frisby during spare time and is printed in two colors, black and white, and comes shipped in a handy pasteboard tube at no extra cost.

"This picture," says Mr. Frisby, "is sold for the annoyingly low price of fifty cents, half a dollar. After the campaign it can be framed and hung on the wall. For a small additional sum, Mrs. Frisby will append her autograph, thus giving the posters an additional sentimental value."

Adherence of Bosses No Strings on Pinchot

Although the derisive may be inclined to view announced adherence of Mayor Charles H. Kline and County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong to Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee for governor, in the fall, as an attempt to climb onto the bandwagon, nobody will be so bold as to intimate they are lacking in good sense. Both of these gentlemen are Republicans and Mr. Pinchot is the Republican nominee. He is that by virtue of sturdy independence of members of that party who, tired of the course pursued by the Fisher-Grundy state machine, turned about and wrecked it.

Messrs. Kline and Armstrong are acknowledged local political bosses, but there need be no fear that their joining the cause of Mr. Pinchot is an indication that he joins them. Pinchot's record for independence during his last term as governor is assurance of equal independence in his next term. Throughout his campaign he voiced his defiance of the bosses by promising the people such relief as a governor is able to give from the oppression of the Public Service Commission, notoriously servile to the corporations, and from the coal and iron police.

These are matters that demand legislative cure, but one may be certain that when the Legislature provides a remedy, as it apparently must do in face of the temper shown by voters of the state in the recent primary, Mr. Pinchot will not "double cross" us as Gov. Fisher did in signing the Mansfield industrial police bill and vetoing the Musmanno bill. As a result Pennsylvania continues to delegate—for money—its sovereign police right to coal and other corporations of the state.

These matters are among the oppressive and shameful things that Mr. Pinchot denounced in his campaign for nomination. His sturdy American attitude and determination that the people should have their state affairs conducted honestly and fearlessly for the benefit of all the people instead of for the favored few, the big interests and corporations, does not make him the ideal candidate of any boss.

If Mr. Kline and Mr. Armstrong support him the public can rest assured their support has no political strings attached. There never has been any string attached to Mr. Pinchot except that of loyalty to a cause. Even his enemies politically have to admit he is fearless and honest in his conviction. Messrs. Kline and Armstrong know exactly what to expect of him, just as well as the rest of us.

Traffic Photographed From Air in 35 Minutes

Solving Pittsburgh's traffic problem with the aid of an airplane may become a fact, if a plan followed in Washington is adopted here. Recently we had a traffic count, with a check-up of time of arrival of each automobile in the downtown district and departure. Traffic police, employes of the Better Traffic Committee and Boy Scouts were engaged all of one day in obtaining material for compilation to show in detail density of traffic at various hours and at the various points of congested travel.

Washington tackled the same problem by photographing eight to nine square miles of the city from the air. One passage of the airplane over the territory was all that was necessary. Exposures were made automatically, with sufficient overlapping to permit the pictures to be fitted together accurately. Thus a composite photograph of the traffic of the entire district was obtained and Washington had an actual picture of its traffic probelm.

This required 35 minutes and traffic was not delayed, as it was here in our count last week. The efficiency of the plan is indicated in the fact that, with the use of a magnifying glass, even such small objects as fireplugs are visible, and painted traffic lines show up distinctly.

"To Hell With War"

A British General's Suggestion.

Brig. Gen. F. P. Crozier, C. B., C. M. G., D. S. O., of the British Army, writes a book about war, much criticized by loyal Britons.

It is entitled "A Brass Hat in No Man's Land." It mentions murder, cowardice, desertion, graft and other incidents of war. It shocks stay-at-home patriots who thought these things happened only in the GERMAN army.

Gen. Crozier defends his book, saying:

"Why should I, knowing what I know about war, keep my mouth shut and my pen dry, and not warn the rising generation of the danger? Be it remembered that most of the critics who refute the idea that war is revolting never went to battle themselves."

Something of that sort has been heard before from young soldiers in the ranks, but seldom from a general officer. Our own Sherman, who said war was hell, hinted at it.

Gen. Crozier rounds out Gen. Sherman's remarks with the flat statement:

"To hell with your old ideas. To hell with war makers and peace breakers. To hell with war."

Interesting words, considering the source.

He Gambled ONCE

And Lost, Luckily.

Francois Blanc, who founded Monte Carlo in the sixties of the last century, gambled only once.

It was on a rainy day. He was leaving the casino to buy an umbrella. On the way out he strolled past a roulette board, and the thought occurred to him that he might as well win a little with h was the amount an umbrella cost.

[illegible] me put his louis on the red. Black turned up. He doubled and lost again. In a short time he was out 1,000 francs. He quit, "cursing his folly," as contemporary accounts say.

Some 20 years later he died, wealthy, and thanking a wise Providence that he had NOT WON.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Elimination Contest

All cities will be interested in New York's plan to preserve the jay-walker for the next census.

"Bugs" Baer

The idea originated under Commissioner Grover Whalen's high, silk hat and escaped the first time he tipped it.

Trying to ride herd on the futile pedestrian is about as sensible an occupation as a monkey throwing cocoanuts at the moon.

When a jake-jumper feels the walking urge coming on he must rush into the whirlpool of traffic with nothing on but his rundown heels and a wild desire to succeed.

Under the new regulations no two-legged animal can negotiate the boulevard except at the intersection of two or more streets.

Where there are no lights the footslogger has the right of way over vehicular business right up until the moment he is sideswiped.

Safety zones will be provided on the roofs of tall buildings and nearby peninsulas.

The slow-footed homo sapiens must start on a green light and stop on a red.

On a yellow light he can do a jig, a clog waltz or a breakdown.

The minute he spots a green light he must proceed to his next port of call and get clearance papers.

If his mustache projects over the building line he cannot make a left turn against traffic.

If he succeeds in a daring run through a broken field and reaches the goal side of the street he is allowed time out to go to a telegraph office and wire the home folks that all is well.

Now the main streets of all towns are so congested with batwing fenders that a snake dancer couldn't get a hip between cars.

We don't know how they expect a middle-aged goofister to cross the main stem unless a kangaroo carries him over in its pouch

New York will punish all violations of jay-hopping with summonses, fines and imprisonments. In flagrant cases of walking treason a firing squad of skidding taxicabs will knock you off the curb at sunrise.

Crossing the street now is the old game of fox-and-geese under more dignified auspices. The first time you step out of bounds the traffic cop chases you. The next time it's your turn to chase him.

There is only one way for a pedestrian to beat the game. Put on roller skates and become vehicular traffic.

A STAR'S INTERIOR

By Archibald Henderson

One of the great triumphs of modern astronomy is the explanation of what goes on in the interior of a star. It is impossible to get into the interior of a star; it has not even been found feasible to penetrate very deep into the interior of the earth. But the newer theories regarding the constitution of the atom have thrown a flood of light upon the problem of what is occurring on the inside of these huge celestial machines called stars.

The newer theories have established some fundamental facts regarding radiation. It is believed that the atom is something like a miniature solar system, with electrons revolving with extreme rapidity in orbital motion round a central nucleus. The number of these electrons has wide variation, from 1 in the case of hydrogen to 92 in the case of uranium.

It used to be believed that light and other radiation were emitted by the electron as it traversed its own orbit. But minute and exhaustive spectroscope investigations demonstrates that radiation is given out only in the case where there is a change in energy. This occurs when an electron changes orbits, or, as we may say, jumps from one particular orbit to another. When it gains an excess of energy by the transfer, radiation is produced. This radiation may be identified in various ways—as heat, x-ray radiation, or even as light which is visible to the naked eye.

Recent discoveries regarding the happenings in the interior of a star have been made through the application of general principles, both mathematical and physical. From these, it is estimated that the interior of a star is almost inconceivably hot. The temperature runs up into millions of degrees and the pressure into millions of atmospheres. As Adams says:

In the first place, it is evident that all the electrons except the innermost ones will be stripped from the atom and that the interior of the star will be filled with free electrons which fly about in all directions and are detached and recombine with extraordinary rapidity. A second result of these terrific temperatures is that radiation in the interior of the star will be enormously intense and mainly in the form of very short waves, such as x-rays. These ether waves seek to pour toward the surface of the star like a great wind, but on their way they encounter the mutilated atoms and electrons of the closely packed gases, which tend to obstruct their progress. The result is an outward pressure toward the surface of the star—the pressure of radiation.

This pressure of radiation mounts into high figures in the case of stars of huge mass. Indeed, it may even approximate to the force of gravity, which holds the stars together.

If a celestial body were much larger than the sun it would blow up—literally "explode into atoms"—as the result of radiative pressure. The phenomena which occur in the star's interior have thus been interestingly described by Eddington:

Disheveled atoms tear along at 100 miles a second, their normal array of electrons being torn from them in the scrimmage. The lost electrons are speeding 100 times faster, to find new resting places. Let us follow the progress of one of them. There is almost a collision as an electron approaches an atomic nucleus, but putting on speed it sweeps round in a sharp curve. Sometimes there is a side slip at the curve but the electron goes on with increased or reduced energy. After a thousand narrow shaves, all happening within a thousand-millionth of a second, the hectic career is ended by a worse side slip than usual. The electron is fairly caught and attached to an atom. But scarcely has it taken up its place when an x-ray bursts into the atom. Sucking up the energy of the ray, the electron darts off again on its next adventure.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD ∴

By Elsie Robinson

Horror in Texas. A Negro on trial for an offense against a white woman. Men milling, muttering, thickening into dark clots. A nudge, a whisper. Suddenly a yell. Then moiling madness—bodies gathering into a wave—rushing headlong—filling the air with one vast, slobbering snarl.

The Rangers fought them. Locked the Negro in a vault. But the mob came on. Some one threw a can. The stench of gasoline. A great, gulping roar. The court house bulged, buckled; belched torrents of flame. From the locked vault came howl upon howl. Even that wasn't enough. The mob waited, testing the heat. The moment the ashes cooled they were at that vault with an acetylene torch. Presently something—twisted, utterably abominable—was thrust out through the opening. As it came into view, men cheered, women clapped. Then fell upon it, each eager for his chance; wrapped it in chains; fastened it to an automobile. . . . One can't go on.

Appalling things—mob murders, race riots. Texas has no monopoly on them. Her fine citizens resent such shame as much as other decent men. All states share in that shame. Filipinos beaten in California. Hindus mobbed in the Northwest. Negroes shot in Illinois. What can be done about it? Call out the militia? Make laws? Preach sermons against cruelty? But what good does it do when all the time most of us have a sneaking admiration for strong men who mass to defend some noble cause?

But that's just the point. mobs aren't made of strong men defending noble causes. Mobs made of weak men who want to appear strong and grab the spotlight. And this "noble cause" hullabaloo is just a cover-up for cowardice and viciousness and diseased egotism.

Nine out of ten men in mob murders or race riots are shoddy weaklings, often far more ignorant, vicious and worthless than the poor creatures they abuse or kill. The morons and moochers and mutterers—they are the ones who arise in their might to "defend" and "protect" and "avenge." Are they really animated by a desire to Protect Women or Defend Labor? They are not. Most of them consistently abuse or neglect their own women and avoid labor as a pest. They are both despicable and despised and have no rating among regular citizens. Nevertheless, being human, they crave a rating. They desire power, admiration and publicity and are consumed with envy and resentment because they do not receive them. The more they are hoboes, the more thy want to be heroes—and mob violence offers them their opportunity.

For the easiest way for that kind of a white man to achieve herodom is to kill or torture some black or yellow man under some noble pretext. By abusing some despised "inferior" he makes himself seem superior. And unfortunately, many people who should have better sense, agree with him.

Why is a mob? That's why. And we will never cure mobs as long as we think of them as exhibitions of courage and righteous rage. They are not. They are exhibitions of cowardice—of frustrated conceit. Maggots running amuck.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

Miss Spendit's dad didn't like the looks of the guy that come to him to talk about marriage.

"You can't support her on your salary," says the dad. "Why, I make ten times that much, and I tell you I can hardly keep her bills paid up!"

"Well, say," says the young man, kinda hopefully, "I'll bet you and me together can manage it all right!"

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

Sec. 3—Sex Is a Complication of Reproduction.

A consideration of these strange, asexual methods of reproduction leads to some generalizations of considerable importance.

It is evident in the first place that reproduction is essentially nothing more than a special kind of growth. It is growth accompanied by detachment. A bit of the parent-body is split off; a piece of living substance, instead of growing on as a part, grows into a new whole.

H. G. Wells

Reproduction is not, in the strict sense of the word, creation. Nothing is suddenly called into being. It is simply a separation and a remodeling of part of the parent organism.

We come now to a difficult and fascinating problem, the problem of sex. What has sex to do with this reproductive process? Why, if creatures can multiply by mere division, should the complication of sex intrude into the life-cycle?

If we trace very briefly its evolution and show how it presents itself among the simpler forms of life, we shall discover a fact which to us vertebrates seems startling—that essentially sex is not reproductive. It is a different thing from reproduction.

In the bacteria there is no sex. There is simply sexless proliferation. The creatures divide and divide by binary fission, by tearing themselves into halves, and as far as we can see they get on perfectly well without any form of sexual union.

Thus the simplest living things today; and thus, presumably life began.

Among the microscopic single-celled animals and plants we see the beginnings of sexual union. We see it appearing as a new intrusive process, perfectly distinct from reproductive proliferation interrupting and delaying the latter and in its essence antagonistic to it.

In the simplest flagellates, for example, the organisms multiply by binary fission just as bacteria do, but their life-history is complicated by a contrary tendency.

Occasionally, if we are watching the creatures through a microscope, two individuals may be seen to come together and to melt completely into one. It is, of course, a much rarer event than normal fission—otherwise the species would not increase—and the individuals taking part in conjugation, as this union is called, often come from different and not very closely related stocks.

And it is as obviously unrelated to reproduction as feeding or excretion is.

In other kinds of protozoa the process is varied in divers ways. In the highly organized Ciliates, for example, two individuals come to lie side by side and then exchange bits of their nuclei. Here the fission does not involve the whole organism, but nevertheless there is a definite mixing of material from different strains.

Here also the process is anti-reproductive, because it occupies time which might be spent in the normal rhythm of growth and fission; actually the acts of union takes about as long as would three generations of ordinary fission.

In the simpler many-celled animals and plants—the slime-fungi, for example, or the seaweeds—the gradual entanglement of sex with reproduction can be seen. They reproduce by liberating clusters of tiny dancing flagellated cells whose business is to grow into new individuals.

But before they do so these cells frequently came together in pairs and melt into one. Here then the business of sexual conjugation is relegated to the reproductive cells.

Their reproductive value is evidently diminished by this process which halves their number; but it has another compensating purpose, for the members of conjugating pairs are usually from different parents, and so it affords a method for the actual blending of living material from different stocks.

From these lowly plants we can trace a series of stages leading up to the state of affairs that is found in ourselves. In all the higher animals and plants the essence of the process is the same—the reproductive cells have to melt together before they can give rise to new individuals.

One complication is that the generative cells which thus unite in pairs are usually of two kinds—active smaller male gametes or sperm-cells and passive larger female gametes or egg-cells.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 28.—There are, as a rule, from four to six theatrical benefits in New York every Sunday night. All of which precludes possibility of popular entertainers enjoying much sabbatical relaxation. Few refuse, unless producers object, to respond.

Performers, with an air of martyrdom, like to sigh a sad little sigh over the sacrifice, but in reality they love it. The benefit gives them a chance to appear in new surroundings and before rather select audiences without the customary managerial restraint.

They can "ad lib" and "mug" to heart's content. They know no matter how punk their performance they will hear the sweetest of all music—applause. Too, they may cup an ear and hear the extravagant eulogies bestowed upon them by masters of ceremony.

Of course, to give their time in this fashion is a gracious gesture, but their deeds frequently fall in highly fertile and profitable soil. Many obscure entertainers have hoisted themselves before managerial eyes and been asked around to sign a contract as a result.

The benefit has a careless informality appealing to stage worshippers. Players are seen in street attire and frequently without make-up. For the thin-pursed theater goer, too, it offers an opportunity to see the high lights of the show hits in a single evening.

Perhaps the two most prodigious benefit performers are Eddie Cantor and George Jessell. Each has frequently played a dozen benefits a night at the peak of the season. Both, too, are excellent announcers and for extemporaneous comedy have few equals.

Yet to my notion the real heroes and heroines of the benefit are members of the chorus and dancing numbers. They must give up a holiday and wear costumes and make up while going through the arduous routine. And their names are never known.

Three of the most frequently misspelled celebrity names in New York are those of Artur Bodanzky, Katharine Cornell and Elisabeth Marbury. Nine times out of 10 they are written Arthur, Katherine and Elizabeth.

Mr. Bodanzky is little known outside of the music world, but as conductor of the Metropolitan has become one of that institution's most beloved figures. He tried to resign two years ago and his successor was introduced with a great beating of publicity tom-toms. He lasted two performances and vanished, and Bodanzky was brought back in a hurry.

I suppose most elm peelers know or should the origin of the term hoecakes, but I did not until today. Darkies used to bake cakes in the cotton field for midday meals on the blades of hoes—hence hoe cakes.

One taxicab driver at least is even for any jeers at his guild in this column. His meter revealed $1.25 for a trip that invariably recorded 90 cents. I determined to give him the exact amount and no more. But—so I discovered later—handed him a $10 bill and a quarter.

"What," demands J. B. D., Newark, "have you ever done that prompts you to speak so authoritatively on every passing subject? Name just one outstanding achievement."

Ask anybody in Gallipolis, O., who won the 1905 walnut cracking contest.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You are not satisfied with your social contacts and you seem unable to interest the persons with whom you think you would be happy.

You can't think why the society you desire does not accept you.

Probably you have overestimated your own value.

What have you ever done to show that you would be worth anything to the group that you admire and to which you aspire?

You have never considered it from the standpoint of value to the others because you have an exalted opinion of your own worth anywhere.

You think that to know you better would be to value your friendship.

Perhaps the ones you admire already have friends in their circle who could discount you in every particular.

Then why should they multiply personalities?

You may be trying to get by and make friends with as little effort as possible, thinking that it will be time enough for you to qualify in deeds and activities after you are included in the inner circle you'd like to join.

If you would get busier, making yourself worthwhile, you would not have time to sigh for recognition, you would be sought.

The trouble lies with yourself—find it.
